

Ashland took one streak that sent three long boys thru the hoop in rapid succession. The first period closed with Ashland ahead 18 to 15. In the first half Hiram had the edge on the Purple on getting the ball from the tipoff, and from held ball. Hiram got the ball 13 times from the tip-off compared to Ashland's 2. Hiram threw the ball out of bounds 26 times and Ashland threw it out 25. Ashland made 7 out of 33 shots attempted and Hiram made 7 out of 40. Thruout the game Hiram had more short shots than Ashland did.

At the opening of the second half the future looked brighter than ever for the Purple. McClintock made a basket that put his team five points ahead. Then the game became even faster than the first half. Hiram began to slowly recover the lead that Ashland held.

Bright Wins Game for Hiram

When the score was 29 to 30 in Ashland's favor, Bright, bean pole center on the Hiram quintet, was put in the game. Bright is the same man who snatched victory from Ashland when playing at Hiram earlier in the season. The play surged up and down the floor. Bright rolled one in the basket that overcame Ashland's slight lead which they had held since the beginning of the second half. Banning made another ringer that increased his team's lead to three points. Both teams made strenuous efforts to score in the final minutes but further scoring was impossible.

The main difficulty of the Purple team in the last half seemed to be on the defense. Players that were supposed to shift when their opponents began to penetrate, failed to do so and as a consequence three and four men were often left behind the first line of defense.

Banning, forward on the Hiram machine, led the scoring with seven field baskets. Lineup and summary:

BENEVOLENCE DAY SERMON

BY DR. R. R. TEETER

Dr. Teeter will preach on the topic, "The Glory and Work of Old Age," next Sunday. This theme has been chosen as being appropriate for the day on which donations are received for ministers who are retired from the service.

Misses Price and Becknell will sing a duet—"Old Home Friends."

most important relation of the family is that of the father and the son. "The family," he said, "is the basis of the political, social and religious life of the nation. As the family is so will the nation be."

Obligations of Men in Home

If men have contributed more to home life than women, (and not neglecting to take account of the importance of women in home life) it only shows that man's obligation in making the best possible consistent home life is greater.

The old patriarchs vigorously carried out the injunction of God to instruct their children in the ways of the Lord. This father of old was also prophet, priest, and king. He offered sacrifices and called upon the name of the Lord.

Complexity of Life

"But life is infinitely more complex now." We find today fathers who have not the teaching acquaintance with the Word of God. Outside organizations take the time of the father and he does not instruct the children properly in the narrow way. Sundays are given over to clubs, which are poor substitutes for religious instruction in the home. Hence the ideal home life in many instances has been sold to secular interests.

The father who takes no steps in the spiritual development of his child and who takes no care that the child walks in the right pathway is derelict and fails to live up to his opportunity as a father. The explanation for indifference is sometimes found in fathers.

Altho the mode of life of the family has changed greatly since the patriarchal days still the purpose of a father should be to mold the characters of the children. His kingly function does not change the mode of life. Yet it seems necessary that some fathers almost renounce their authority of control altho it is not necessary to say that these are not the most successful.

MISTIC MIRAGES CUT CAPERS ON CAMPUS

Elusive Illuminations of uncertain emanation puzzles prowlers.

The Campus is haunted!

Excitement is running at top pitch and everyone is agog today owing to an unusual manifestation of phenomena of an unknown and extraordinary nature which has recently been observed by several persons of undoubted veracity.

In the wee sma' hours of certain nights strange unearthly lights appear from a window in the northern end of Allen Hall. They are not ordinary lights, since they seem to be possessed of peculiar properties of weird mobility, and they execute fantastic gyratory dances of a most curious and awe-inspiring type. Moreover, it is reported by some careful observers that the lights appear to gyrate in a rather symmetrical manner. Some of the movements are accustomed to reiterate themselves very

Christ and in the Centre of the Living God."

Rev. McClain Speaks

Rev. McClain announced that one central thought was in his heart on the occasion and that was "the burden that Jesus Christ had placed upon us to evangelize the nations." He spoke of the work of the missionaries of the Brethren church in Africa and the seemingly insurmountable difficulties that they had encountered there. He stated that it was only two years ago that the missionary party had received permission to enter the field in Africa. Hope had almost been lost when God found a way for the carriers of the Light. He expressed gratification at the large band of Student Volunteers that had enlisted in the service of the Master at Ashland College and hoped that more would follow.

In conclusion Rev. McClain said that there were two elements in Christianity that appeared basic to him. "The acknowledgment of Jesus as our Savior and the arbiter of our lives, and that we should follow his injunction and carry the Gospel into all the world.

Rev. Kimmel and Rev. McClain were here for the conference of the Foreign Missionary Board of the Brethren Church which was held here this week.

FOREIGN MISSIONARY BOARD MEETS HERE FOR SPECIAL CONFERENCE

The Missionary Board of the Brethren Church was in Conference here this week upon some items relating to foreign missions. This meeting was a special meeting.

Members who were present are: J. Allen Miller, President; A. J. McClain, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Secretary; Charles Ashman of Johnstown, Pennsylvania, M. A. Witter of Kittanning, Pennsylvania, N. V. Kimmel of Whittier, California, A. L. DeLozier and E. L. Kilheifner, of Ashland.

Monday evening. He said that the principles of Christ and the prophets showed that he was interested in people and affairs of life as well as social justice. "The slogan of the average business man is 'Business First,'" he said. He went on to show that when the minister tries to apply the principle of the ten commandments to the business of the business man, he is up against it. "The problem is to bring the teachings of Jesus to the business man without offending him," he said. He went on to show that the ministers are preaching what the congregations want and they are supporting the measures that the congregations want them to support. He went on to show the greatness of the problem. "Two percent of the people own sixty per cent of the wealth of the country and the lowest sixty-six percent of the population own only five percent of the wealth," he quoted. He said that these figures prove that we are serving an idol as the Baal worshipers of old. He said that the third of the income of the nation is spent for luxuries. He said that the average workingman is trying to be honest but he is being swindled out of his money by the business men who charge him two prices.

He went on to flay the luxury of the idle rich. He said that the application of the Gospel of Christ to economics is not merely socialism but is Christianity.

"There are two ideas which may be in the mind of every man who starts out in business. He is either thinking of Self or Service," he said. He gave several illustrations of the principle of service as applied to business. He spoke of Ford and that of the Ohio Brass Company at Mansfield. He said that their welfare departments took care of a great many things. "The reason that the church is fought by the business men is because it is trying to instill honest business principles," he said. In closing he averred that we "Must face our duty. We cannot serve God and Mammon."

Melvin Stuckey, '22, led the devotions and gave a short talk on "Conquering Our Fears."

begin at one o'clock. All games except the final contest to decide the winner will be finished in the afternoon. The games of the second round will be of twelve and one-half minute halves and the semi-final will have fifteen minute halves with five minutes rest between. Dinner will be served in the evening to all participating teams and their sponsors. The two teams that survive the tournament until evening will eat a special meal with the Findlay and Ashland teams.

The final game in the evening will start at seven-thirty. Four ten-minute periods will be played with five minutes intermission.

Officials for Tournament

Three officials will referee at the games: H. E. Mathews of this city who is one of the accredited officials, L. B. Ricker of the Mansfield Y. M. C. A., and Coach Arthur Murray, head of the department of Physical Education here. Members of the College basketball squad will act as guides for the visiting teams thruout the day.

Gymnasium Will be Decorated

Sections will be reserved in the gymnasium for the supporters of the contesting teams. It is customary for these sections to be decorated with the school colors and this year will be no exception. Committees have been appointed and when Tournament Day arrives the gym will be gaily bedecked.

The Y. W. C. A. of the College will undertake the task of entertaining the girl guests who are here to support their teams. This will take place in the Dormitory from five-thirty until seven-thirty.

Wm. Kennington Furnishes Loving Cup

Wm. Kennington, local jeweler, is the donor of the silver loving cup which is to go to the winner of the tournament. The second trophy will be a new basketball. Dr. E. E. Jacobs, President of Ashland, will present the trophies at the close of the Tournament.

Ashland To Take On Findlay

The climax of the day will come when the varsity and the quintet from Findlay College mix immediately after the last tournament game. Findlay has been setting a fast pace for the opponents in the Northwest Ohio League and the game promises to be a battle royal from start to finish. Ashland has played Findlay here in basketball for the last two years and beaten them both times. Findlay will be out to show her wares for all they are worth and will try to even up for those two defeats in earlier years.

Winners of Last Two Years Will Enter Tourney

Spencer High School whose team won the tourney last year will re-enter this year with the same goal. Sullivan, winners of the coveted cup two years ago will also be in the lists. Rittman, runner up for two years will be back again. Rittman has been known as the hard luck team. Twice this team has gotten within reach of the championship but each time it has gotten away.
