

WORK OF COUNTY WELFARE BOARD DESCRIBED IN Y. W.

Address By Mrs. Arnold

"The Highest Service in the Community," or the work of the Welfare Board of Ashland County was described by Mrs. Arnold for the Y. W. C. A. at the Tuesday evening meeting in Philo Hall. Mrs. Arnold, being County Probation Officer, was most able to present this phase of the work to the girls.

The State Welfare Board employs about 40 people to aid in the caring for the unfortunate families and children. This work is financed by a tax levied, the minimum being about $.005 and called the Mother's Pension Fund. This county boasts of a $.015 tax.

"It has proven more economical and satisfactory to pension the mothers, thus keeping the children under the mother's loving care," she said. Then she told of a few existing conditions in and around Ashland.

"To completely meet the needs of these unfortunate ones, attention must be given to four things: the physical, usually thru the family doctor; the intellectual, by the schools; the moral, by right environments; and the religious, by the churches." "The churches could help more if they only knew how," she said. "So many have no church relations; they feel they are not wanted."

"Greater than the problem of dependents is the problem of delinquents," she said. It has been stated that 30 percent of the boys in the Mansfield Reformatory came from the Lancaster Home. She gave illustrations of these facts.

"The world today needs well-balanced and well-poised people to help these children." Mrs. Arnold impressed the girls that as Y. W. members they were, in a small way, aiding this work. She closed by entreating the girls to make the best of the opportunities which they were so fortunate to have.

The devotionals were led by Miss Gaynell Heppard. The special music rendered by Mrs. Mason, the whistler, was a real treat for the girls.

SUBJECT OF LIFE WORK DISCUSSED BY WOLFORD

Professor Wolford spoke to the "Y" men last Tuesday night, March 6, 1923. His subject was "Life Work." Our life is happy when we find the work we can do and do in a Godly way. Jesus said: "Go out in my vineyard and work." He did not mean to become a minister or to do strictly religious work but he wanted

DEAN MILLER STRESSES IMPORTANCE OF RELIGION

Splendid Sunday Sermon Impresses Audience

In his sermon last Sunday morning, Dr. Miller spoke of the momentous import of the Christian Religion. He attempted to show at the very outset of his sermon that we must either take sides for or against the Gospel. There is no middle ground. "Just as Plato and Socrates are authorities on problems of human life, so is Jesus an authority on Religion." He said that it is a case of Christianity or no religion at all. He showed how the teachings of Jesus appeals to the finer senses within us. "Gospel is Good News, therefore it is either the Good News about God or the Good News from God, at any rate, it is the only hope of the race," he said. He showed how it was addressed to a lost world and spoke of the heinous condition of affairs in the world before Christ came into it to save it. He said the gospel was growing and asserted that there is not as much criticism of the Bible now as there was 20 years ago. He went on to say that the man who repudiates the Gospel can never put any meaning into the Universe. "The world was meaningless and hopeless before Christ," he said. "But the world is not meaningless if we look into it from the right view point," he continued, "men are realizing that if the world has any meaning it must come from the gospels." In defining the terms, he said that belief means resting your confidence in. His final appeal was that we change our thinking and get right with God so that we may believe and have faith in him.
