

The devotionals were read by Miss Maynell Heppard. The special music rendered by Mrs. Mason, the whistler, was a real treat for the girls.

SUBJECT OF LIFE WORK DISCUSSED BY WOLFORD

Professor Wolford spoke to the "Y" men last Tuesday night, March 6, 1923. His subject was "Life Work." Our life is happy when we find the work we can do and do in a Godly way. Jesus said: "Go out in my vineyard and work." He did not mean to become a minister or to do strictly religious work but he wanted us to work for him in a legitimate business and for the betterment of mankind.

In every life there is some good. There is a place in the world for every person. There is a place where we can do our part and be a benefit to the world. Willingness is what counts for we must be willing to do that work that is given to us if we wish to make our lives successful.

God needs business men. The business of the world must be run on Christian principles before it can be a complete success. If a man runs his business on Christian principles his business cannot fail. There must be teachers and teachers must be Christians. In the school room the child is easily influenced and if the teacher is a Christian she can help the child to become the same. The great problems of the world will be solved by Christian men. In order to have enforcement of law and order there must be Christians in the courts and in other public offices. Politics must have the Christian ideals instilled in them and so it is with all the work that is legitimate in the whole world.

Our choice of our life work should be made when we are at our best. Then we can view the whole world and pick that which we are best fitted for. We should never choose our life work when we are discouraged and our hopes and aims are low. We should try to choose our work from the world's greatest needs. The needs of the world are many and of different lines.

In closing Prof. Wolford said: "Choose that thing that will challenge our whole manhood, spiritually, physically, and mentally."

We should ever be mindful of the help of prayer in our choosing. We should have a consultation with Christ before choosing and we should ask, "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?"

CHAPEL TALK BY PROF. HAUN ON "RADIO"

In Chapel Friday, February 28, Prof. R. R. Haun gave a very interesting talk on the Mechanism of the Radio and the principles upon which it works. He says that there are two principles which are used in Radio. They are Wave Motion and Electro-Magnetic vibration. Electricity travels in waves just as sound and light travel in waves. The principle of the vibrations is that the receiving set must vibrate at the same rate of speed that the sending apparatus is vibrating in order to bring them into tune. He said that the process of amplification is based on induction.

For devotions, he compared a broadcasting station to God who is spreading his love and said that we have to be in perfect tune in order to reap the benefits.

"JUDGEMENT" DEFINED BY DEAN MILLER

In Chapel last Tuesday morning, Dr. Miller, Dean of the Seminary, said that his conception of the Judgment is that there is a perpetual testing time and a final court. He showed how the scriptures lay stress on the testing time of life. "Every day is Judgment day," he said, "but nevertheless there is a final review; the deeds we do are either set down on one side or the other and then are recalled in the final day." He said that the person who did his work well had no reason to fear the testing time and compared it to Exams. He spoke of the lessons of the ten virgins. He said there are two: (1) There is such a thing as missing and opportunity, and (2) The testing time is the crisis time.

Miss Irene Cashman of Altoona, Pa., was a visitor here for the Tournament and stayed here over the week end. Miss Cashman was formerly a student here.

Samuel H. Wilcox is visiting here this week having come for the Basketball Tournament and to see old friends. Mr. Wilcox, it will be remembered, was unable to return to school last fall because of typhoid fever contracted in the summer. He is now well on the road to recovery and will re-enter Ashland next fall to continue his studies.

In a game where a basket meant win or lose, Albion went down before the swift onslaught of the Spencer eagles. Read made all the points for Albion while Stuart played good at guard for the winners. Read's sensational shooting featured.

Rittman Wins Easily From Old Rivals

By chance, Rittman met and conquered her ancient athletic rivals in the last game of the elimination. Rittman held a lead of 15-5 at the end of the half but Creston staged a comeback which worried the Rittman bucket ringers considerably. Walter Knepp at center found the elusive ring for the most counters for Creston while Kurtz of Rittman scored 12 points in the first half and was removed to save him for later in the day.

Mt. Eaton Men Barely Win From Seville Team

In the first game of the semi-finals, Mt. Eaton completely outplayed the Seville crew. In the first half, Mt. had things almost as she wanted them with Dodez and Graber scoring almost at will, while the lighter Seville aggregation were lucky to score at all. In the second half of the contest, Seville staged a comeback which had features of many of the games of the day and came within a few points of coping the bacon. Taylor caged the ball from all possible points on the floor while the guardians of the goal, held the Champions to six points in that half. Kendig showed up well for the losers with Dodez as high point man for the Champs.
