JOKES

A LUCKY MISS

I met a sweet young maiden,
 Her name was Miss Primrose,
 I paid a visit to her home
 Dressed in my Sunday clothes.
 Her younger brother placed a tack
 Upon a parlor chair,
 'Twas I who was to be the goat
 And gently sit down there;
 But for some other reason
 Another chair I chose,
 And on that tack this maiden sat,
 I'll say that Miss Primrose.

SENIORS ENTERTAINED BY SOPHS IN GYMNASIUM

Games and Fun at Informal Affair

Wednesday evening, May 16th the Sophomore Class entertained the Senior Class. Due to inclement weather it was held in the Gym instead of in the Grove along King Road as was first planned. The affair was well attended by the members of both classes. The Sophomores served a sumptuous picnic supper to the Seniors.

Fun and Games Enjoyed

Indoor baseball, two deep, and similar games were then staged for the enjoyment of all. As a result of this indoor baseball it was demonstrated girls can slide effectively. The last thing on the evening's program was the initiation of the Seniors individually into the world. The Sophomores were in charge of these services, which proved to be enjoyable to all. The bond of fellowship between the two classes was strengthened by this evening and as all joined in "Old College Home" there was a feeling of unity and harmony of purpose.

This custom that has sprung up here on the Campus of the Sophomores entertaining the Seniors is a worth while thing. It should never be allowed to die, but should be fostered.

KNIGHTS OF THE WAVE

The Kansas University sheiks with highly vaselined hair are passing into oblivion and are being replaced by more effeminate characters known as "Marcel Knights." These knights when approached on the subject of waves reluctantly reply the "Marcel rules the waves" and they predict that marceels among men shall be the rage.
