The girl I love's named Anna,
She jollies me all the time;
She let me know she loved me,
And kissed me—"Twice a crime.
I went away to college,

I'm now a chemist wise;
And now it's very easy
To tell when Anna-lyze.

The June-bug has his wings of gold,
The fire-fly wings of flame.
The bed-bug has no wings at all,
But he gets there just the same.

If morning came at night
And trees grew upside down
If wrong were always right
And pink were clearly brown
Then surely ink would be a drink
And cheese would be a vegetable
We'd stand and watch the kitchen sink
Though it and we were stable.

A quartet, Shirley Price, Miriam Crofford, Harriet Becknell and Mildred Liethy was carried on some of the trips and on others Ruth Beckley and Lauretta Bockley entertained. Albert Wood, Marion Baylor, Arthur Petit, Coach Arthur Murray and Prof. H. H. Wolford were used on the trips and made speeches about college advantages and activities.

An announcement, which came as a surprise to many students who were not acquainted with the principals, is that of the engagement of Mr. James A. McConihe, '23, and Miss Esther J. Wiens of Lorain. Miss Wiens is a sister of Harold F. Wiens, '25.

Miss Wiens is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wiens, of Lorain, is a graduate of Oberlin, '22, and is at present teaching in Lorain High School. Mr. McConihe attended the College of Wooster previous to his entering here for the last semester. He was the Boys' Director at the Lorain Y. M. C. A. last fall and will go into Y. M. C. A. work after graduation here.

The marriage of this couple is to be in the first part of July after which they will reside in Lorain.

Lone Wolf had been shown all the wonders of modern machinery while on a visit to the white man's country.

"What do you think of our inventors?" asked the Indian agent.

"Humph," grunted the big chief, "much fine, but 'Mericans heep backward in hand work."

Her lips he did not press.
The waiting maid did not receive
Her lover's fond caress.
He shivered like an aspen tree
Before the wintry blast,
His eyes grew wide, while at his side
His arms did fall at last.

He lost his loving attitude
In fact he seemed to jeer.
His lips took on an ugly curl,
He turned and seemed to sneer.

With eyes ablaze she tossed her head,
"Then you refuse my kiss?
And after all that you have said,
You turn away like this!"

Wild-eyed he spoke in accents short,
"Wait a moment, please!
For can't you see—oh holy gee—
I'm going to—got to—SNEEZE!"

HOT SHOT!

A certain young man who was jealous of the actions of his flirtatious young friend wrote the following letter to a supposed rival:

"I heard that you were seen with my girl. Come to my room on Wednesday at ten and we'll settle the matter."

He received the following reply—
"I have received copy of your circular letter. I will be present at the meeting."
