

HESPERIAN

Hesperian Literary Society gives the opening program Friday night, October 13. This year Hesperian enjoys a loyal and enthusiastic group of officers who are determined to make the society meet the needs of its members. The officers are: President, Arthur Cashman; Vice President, Herman Koontz; Treasurer, Mr. Heller; Critic, Russell Barnard; Secretary, Maurine Hostetler.

The needs of a group of students who are found in a literary society are varied. The students in such an organization always demand different phases of literary activities. Therefore it becomes necessary for the literary society to make it possible for a member to function in the lines of literary activity in which he is interested.

In the light of this situation, Hesperian Literary Society will attempt to feature four major types of literary activity, dramatics, music, debating and expository writing upon religious, philosophical and scientific subjects.

The desire of Hesperian Literary Society is to have members who are not only capable but who possess real character. These it may be said, constitute a brief epitome of what Hesperian is and what the organization aims to do.

Girls Hold House Meeting

The girls of the dormitory self-government held a Whole House meeting Monday evening at which they discussed etiquette of the dining room. The girls were much profited by the suggestions of Miss Mull.

Some of the suppositions were: Help your hostess, she isn't a dray wagon; bring your dishes to her, she is boss; fold your napkin when she does, she knows when you have had enuf to eat; ask your hostess when you want things passed, she can see if your plate is full or empty; pass everything to the left, a collision is an awful thing; put your knife on your plate, it costs money to have the linen laundered; when you pass your glass for water, hold it at the base, the person next to you can't hold it by proxy; get out at the left of your chair, there isn't room between chairs for two of you! don't park your gum on your plate, you might mistake it for a bite of meat and swallow it; don't dip your toast in your coffee or cocoa, there is many a slip between the cup and the mouth; don't mix your food on your plate, that's what your stomach is for; keep your spoon out of your cup, you might run it in your eye.

The suggestion of the girls is that the boys might also profit by these few suggestions.

MANY STUDENTS ATTEND LYCEUM

About thirty students attended the 3-Act play, "The Bubble," presented by the Lyceum Bureau, under the auspices of the

PHILO PROGRAM

Philomathean Literary Society will further extend their activities this year. Philo officers are aiming to present more varied programs than in previous years and the officers for the first term have arranged programs that are calculated to offer the best for the approval of the old and new students.

Special emphasis is to be placed, as it always has, upon public speaking and other practical training.

The officers for the first term are: Pres., Clayton Starn; Sec., George Walton; Critic, John Locke; Treas., Milton Puterbaugh; Chaplain, H. H. Rowsey; Censor, Martha Topper; Host, Albert Wood.

The program for the first meeting will be printed in the "Collegian" next week.

The Philomathean initial program will be presented Thursday, Oct. 12.

SAM SEES HIS TEAM HOLD A UNIVERSITY

Sam Wilcox who was elected Captain of the 1922 football team at Ashland but who was unable to return to school this year, came all the way from Pittsburgh to see the Ashland-Wooster tussle last week.

Since the scheduling of the game, Sam has looked forward to this encounter and even tho he is not enrolled in the College this year, he showed the pep that earned him the captaincy. Altho he is still suffering from the attack of typhoid fever which he contracted last summer, Sam packed his worries in his telescope and took the long tedious ride to Ashland.

Sam's appearance on the field was to say the least, a strong incentive to the Purple eleven. The idea that their captain was on the field and putting all of his hopes in them, seemed to be an inspiration to the team.

It is the sincere hope of every student that Sam will be able to return to school next year and again play beside his buddies who played in the first two years of Ashland's gridiron history.

Mr. Wilcox left for home again Monday.

"MA" STUCKEY PAYS HIS ALMA MATER A VISIT

Melvin Stuckey, better known among the students as "Ma," while passing thru this section of the country, stopped off to see the Ashland-Wooster football game. Mr. Stuckey, who is in Sunday school extension work in the Brethren church, is on his way to the Illiokota Conference which is being held at Garwin, Iowa, Oct. 3-5. Upon the invitation of Prof. Haun, Mr. Stuckey gave a brief outline of his work before the College Men's Sunday school class Sunday morning.

They Organize Again The Hoosiers

The Hoosier Club, which was first organized many years ago is coming into prominence more this year than ever before. The Indiana Students met recently and elected new officers. The new officers are: President, Loren T. Black; Vice President, Ralph Landis; Secretary and Treasurer, Ora C. Lemert.

The Indiana folks seem to be very much enthused over their plans for this year. The club, it is said does not have for its purpose the promulgation of the art literary nor the gathering together of a group who are to be the elite. But rather the aim is to show to the world that Indiana has done her part in furnishing students for Ashland College.

The number now in College here from Indiana is 27. This is the largest number enrolled from any one state in the Union except Ohio.

"Our aim," said President Black, "is to give the students of Ashland College the biggest spread of the year." It has been the practice of the Hoosier Club to entertain the student body and faculty in October of each school year. Last year under the direction of Mr. Florizel A. Pfeleiderer the club entertained the entire College in the Domestic Science Laboratory. It is hoped by the student body that the Hoosiers will continue this practice.

The Hoosier Club prides itself in being an old organization. Many years ago, it had its beginning. But during the war, however, the organization was discontinued. Now, since it has been re-established it is said that the organization is permanent.

It is rumored that the Club has a happy surprise for the students and faculty. Just what the nature of this surprise is, no one is able to determine.

One thing may be remembered, however, the people from Indiana have always been loyal to Ashland College. Some of the first students in this institution were from Indiana and it can be said of the Hoosiers that they have always fulfilled their obligations. It is only necessary to await developments.

In the plan of their self-content;

There are souls like stars, that dwell apart

In a fellowless firmament;

There are pioneer souls that blaze their path

Where highways never ran.
