A New Hampshire Home

By Fred S. Coates

No one who has ever visited even for a brief period the lake section of New Hampshire has anything but praise for the beauty of its scenery, the mildness and purity of the air and the feeling of perfect rest and freedom from care seemingly enjoyed by everybody.

It has become the favorite fishing ground for many, the summer home of thousands, and the permanent all-year home of a number of business men who seek the benefits to be derived, not alone from the summer months, but the invigorating air and beauties of a real New England winter.

Not until the train passes over the "summit" between Meredith and Ashland are the real hills and mountains penetrated which lead on to the climax found in the great Presidential Range of the White Mountains, and those who have been fortunate enough to leave the train at Ashland and by team or boat wind around until that beautiful panorama opens to view the little village of Holderness, and the grandeur of the hills, beneath which nestle the sparkling waters of the favored lakes of New England—"Big and Little Asquam"—know why Whittier chose this spot to dream out some of the most beautiful poems the world has ever enjoyed.

Upon the slope of Shepard Hill, overlooking on one side Little Squam, upon the other Big Squam, across which stands forth in the background as a sentinel of quietude and peace grand old Chocorua, there has been built up "A New Hampshire Home"—not a summer place, a country estate, but a home, the lights from which shine forth not alone in the still nights of summer, but upon the snow-capped hills of the winter as a beacon of good cheer to every passer-by.

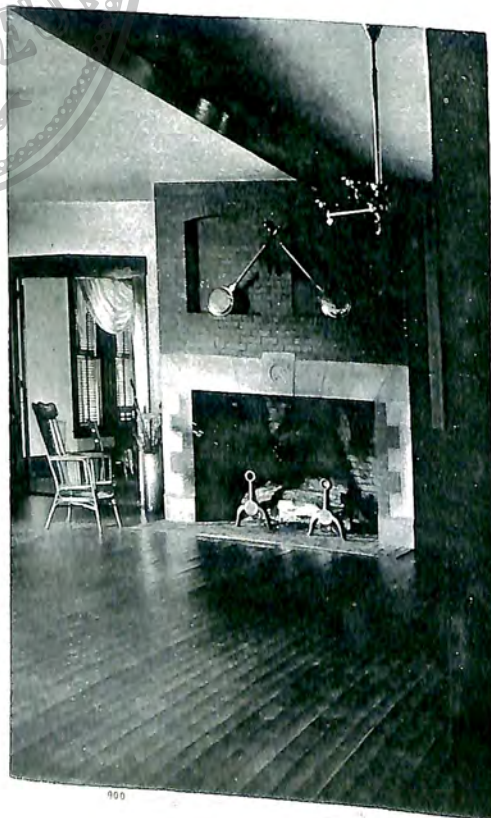

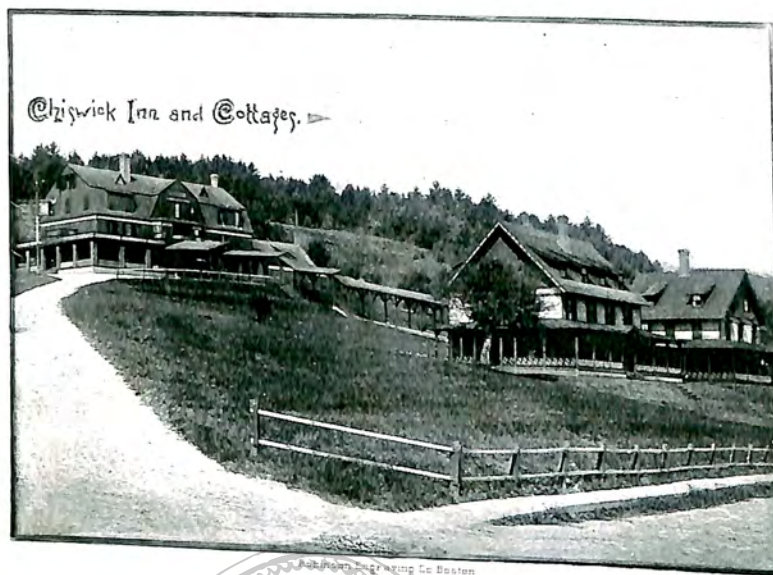

This is "Inselruhe," the home of Isaac Van Horn, who, with his wife, have made the hills of New Hampshire their home, and done much toward making this section one of the favored spots of the state.

Mr. Van Horn was born in Pennsylvania, going West at the age of nineteen, and was married at Omaha, Neb., in 1886, to Miss Callanan, his present wife. The loss of their family of three children has made their home the centre of attraction for every child they know.

He came to Boston almost twenty years ago and has spent his entire business career in developing a section of southern Wyoming and northern Colorado, and retired from the active banking business almost three years ago to give his attention to the various interests with which he is associated, principally to the develop-

Paymaster Douglass Claims Oakland Bride

OAKLAND, May 12.—One of the most interesting weddings of the season was that of Miss Gertrude Severence Russell, the beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Russell, and Eugene Hale Douglass, paymaster, U. S. N., which took place this evening in St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Promptly at 9 o'clock the bridal party entered the church.

The four ushers, Paymasters James Beecher, Harry Collins and James F. Kutz and Assistant Naval Constructor F. B. Hall, in full-dress uniform, led the party, followed by the two bridesmaids, Miss Helen Sullivan and Miss Mabel Gregory.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Charles Sutro of San Francisco, walked alone, and then came the bride, leaning on the arm of her father.

Mr. Russell and his daughter were met at the altar by the bridegroom and his attendant, Ensign R. D. Ghormely, U. S. N. The marriage service was read by Rev. Alexander Allen, rector of the church. The decorations in the church were entirely in green, while on the altar white Easter lilies were used in profusion.

The bride wore a gown of ivory Directoire satin, hand embroidered with lilies of the valley and made with a long court train. The yoke of Brussels lace was also elaborately embroidered with lilies of the valley. The bridal veil was embroidered in a clover leaf design, with a border of Cluny lace. The costume was completed with a bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids.

The matron of honor wore a gown of hand-painted chiffon in a dainty design of pink Empire roses. She carried a sheath bouquet of Cecil Bruner roses.

The bridesmaids wore Empire gowns of pink messaline and also carried the sheath bouquets of Cecil Bruner roses. Mrs. Russell, mother of the bride, wore a messaline satin gown in the wistaria shades, elaborated with gold trimmings.

Several hundred guests were present at the wedding, many of whom coming from across the bay, where the bride has a wide circle of friends. After the ceremony an informal reception was held at the Russell home on Ninth street. Only members of the bridal party, the relatives and a few friends were present, however.

Paymaster Douglass and his bride will spend their honeymoon in the southern part of the State, and upon their return will be at Mare island, where he is stationed at present. Mrs. Douglass has been identified with the Army and Navy set for several seasons and will, no doubt, be one of the most prominent society matrons in that exclusive circle.

CHARMING JUNE WEDDING

Miss Geneve Folsom Pfeiffer and Mr. Lucius Felt Hallett Married at St. Andrews-by-the-Sea.

The little church St Andrews-by-the-Sea was the scene on Monday afternoon of a very charming wedding, when Miss Geneve Folsom Pfeiffer daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Oscar Pfeiffer of Denver, with a summer home in Greenland, and formerly of this city, and Mr. Lucius Felt Hallett of Denver, a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology were made one in the Holy Bonds of Matrimony, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends.

The charming little church was handsomely decorated for the occasion by R. E. Hannaford of this city, and he used a profusion of wood fern, bridal veil apple blossoms syringa, etc. the color scheme being white and green.

At three o'clock the hour of the ceremony the church was filled with the relatives and friends, who were seated by Messrs. John Evans of Denver and C. Eaton Creecy of Washington who officiated as ushers.

During the prelude and also after the services Prof. Hamilton McDougal of Wellesley presided at the organ.

The full episcopal service was used by Dean Martin Hart of Denver the rector of the bride.

The bride who was given away by her father was charmingly gowned in white satin, en train, trimmed with Irish Point lace, she wore a tulle veil caught with a spray of lillies of the valley and she carried a shower bouquet of the same flowers.

She was attended by her sister Miss Mary Gilman Pfeiffer as maid of honor, and she was dressed in pale green chiffon, and wore a veil of the same material and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas.

The best man was Mr. Roblin Davis of Denver.

During the entrance to the church a party of the brides friends from Wellesley rendered the Lohengrin wedding march. They were Miss Elsa Chapin, Miss Anna Macfarlane, Miss Helen Bussey, Miss Hope Bates.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the Hotel Farragut at Rye Beach, and the bridal party was assisted in receiving by Dr. and Mrs. Pfeiffer. A wedding lunch was served and during the time Hoyt and Parkers orchestra of this city rendered selections.

They will after a wedding tour reside in Denver, where the groom is an electrical engineer. He is the son of Judge Moses Hallett of that city and very popular. The bride is a graduate of Wellesley college class of 1908 and was very popular while at college being president of her class in 1907.

MAY ROBSON

as AUNT MARY

THE BIG LAUGHING SUCCESS

MISS Robson appeared as Aunt Mary at the Garden Theatre in New York three seasons, where she made a pronounced hit, received the most enthusiastic criticism from the whole New York press and remained three months. She then went to the Studebaker Theatre in Chicago for a three months' engagement where she continued her success; since then she has been throughout the Northwest and to the Pacific Coast, playing everywhere to packed houses. She has just finished an eighty-nine weeks' engagement to an enormous success. All who do not see Miss Robson in this role will miss a rare treat.

The play tells the story of a rich maiden lady who once had a love story of her own, but whose heart is bound to her nephew at college, who is a little wild, but not more than the ordinary young man. He is unfortunate enough, however, to become involved in a number of scrapes, one of which is a breach of promise suit in which the nephew is blameless. The exposure causes the aunt to disinherit him, and he hurries off to New York where he falls in love with a splendid girl, and where finally the aunt follows him. She is treated to a dinner by the nephew's college chums, and whirled about town in an automobile, and introduced to the roof gardens and other popular places. The sport completely wins her from her country life, and reconciles her to the marriage of her nephew with his sweetheart. The piece is elaborately and artistically staged.

URIEL SEBREE.

On the 19th the fleet will reassemble off Yokohama and steam for home. They will pay another visit to Hawaii from Feb 1st to 8th. and are expected to reach San Francisco about Feb 15.

During this five months' cruise, which will approximate 28,000 miles, the squadron will be under the command of one of the ablest naval officers in the service. Rear Admiral Uriel Sebree, a Missouri man, he entered the naval academy during early war times, graduating when only 19 years of age. He has seen service in all quarters of the globe, including the polar regions, being a member of the Arctic relief expedition on the Tigress, in 1873, and on the Greeley relief expedition under Admiral Schley in 1884.

In Honolulu, Manila and the ports of Japan and China, where the fleet is to stop, arrangements for the reception of the men and officers are being made. The festivities will be conducted on no mean scale and the men will be well taken care of during the stopovers. At Hawaii, where the schedule calls for a double stop, the Americans are planning a monster celebration, including a parade, open air theatricals and an athletic tournament. Every evening during the stay of the fleet, there will be an elaborate display of fireworks.

The plans for the receptions at foreign ports have not yet been announced, but the sailors feel that they will be accorded the same hearty hospitality shown to the men of the first American "peace fleet."

Today there will sail from the Golden Gate a squadron of Uncle Sam's machines of war sent on an errand of peace. Eight of the strongest and fastest armored cruisers in the service will plow their way across the Pacific into oriental waters carrying to the peoples of Japan and China messages of good will and friendship from the citizens of this country.

The second "peace fleet" is not so powerful nor imposing as the first, but nevertheless made up of vessels representing the very acme of naval construction in their type.

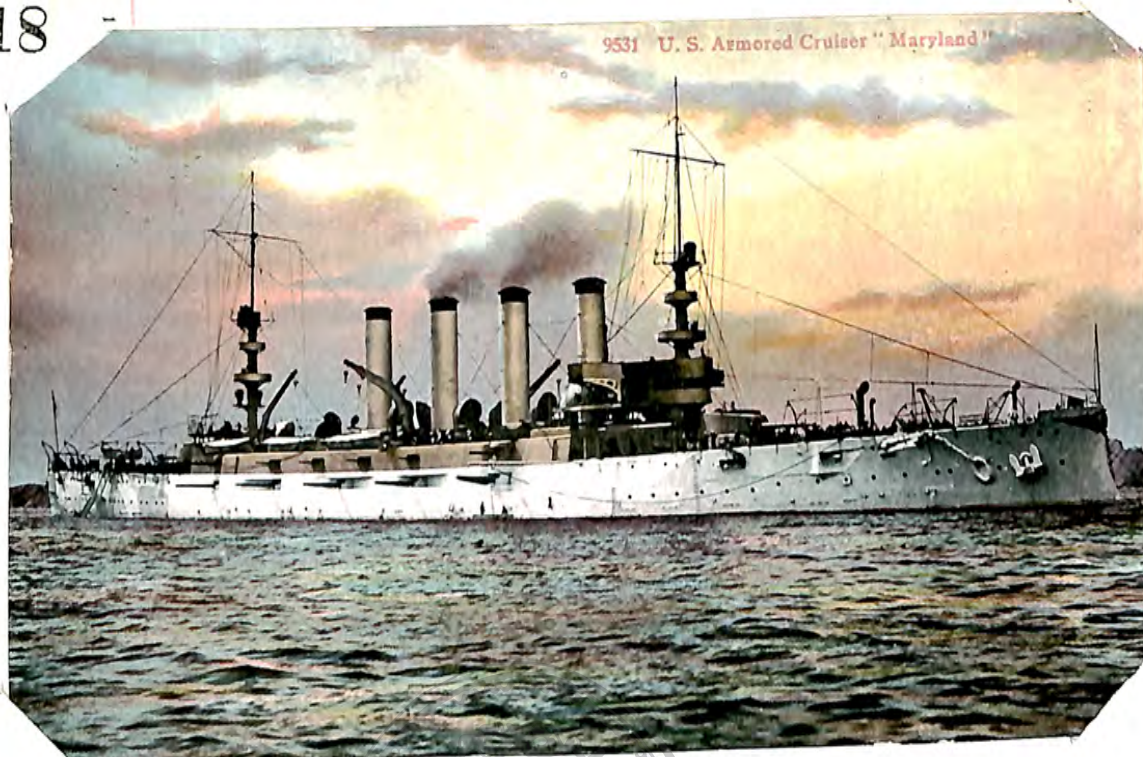

The squadron consists of the cruisers Tennessee, California, South Dakota, Washington, West Virginia, Colorado, Maryland and Pennsylvania, all 22-knot ships, ranging from 13,000 to 15,000 tons in displacement.

According to the navy department's schedule, the vessels will arrive at Honolulu, Hawaii, Sept 11, where they will remain until Oct 5. Their next stop will be at Nares Harbor, Admiralty Islands, off the coast of New Guinea, and from there they will steam to Manila, where they are expected to arrive about Nov 1. Then will come a month of hard work at target practice, upon the completion of which the vessels of the fleet will separate, and in pairs visit the ports of the Hermit kingdom and China. The ships will leave Manila on Dec 1 for the various ports as follows:

Tennessee—Washington:		Arrive	Leave

A Gentleman from Mississippi

"A Gentleman from Mississippi," the work of Mr. Thomas A. Wise and Mr. Harrison Rhodes, the novelist, will remain the attraction in this play-house until further announcement. The play previously to its New York run had been given eight performances in Washington, D. C., where President Roosevelt was among the audience one night, and expressed himself with characteristic emphasis in the following fashion: "This play is a corker! It is bully!"

It is a play that men will like because it has real men among its characters; it is a play that women will like because the four love-stories, although widely contrasted, are essentially human. The men have "American" written all over them; even the men who are aligned on the side of viciousness are well-drawn, human, recognizable types, and not merely a playwright's puppet marked "bad," "partly bad," or such.

Two of the best comedians on the American stage are at the head of the cast for the Park Theatre run of this amusing, witty, and moving play—Mr. Thomas A. Wise, also co-author—and Mr. Douglas Fairbanks, a light comedian whose personality long ago won for him a sure place among the most popular stars on our stage. Boston theatregoers will remember him from the fine impression he made during the long run of the "Man of the Hour" in the Tremont.

Paymaster Jennings and I went to matinee with Mother at the Athenaeum for tea.

Lieut. J. P. Norton has arrived in Boston from Washington, and is to assume command of the new torpedo boat Flusser, now at the Charlestown navy yard.

"He that saith he is in the light, but hateth his brother, is in darkness even until now. He that loveth his brother, abideth in the light, and there is none occasion of stumbling in him. And he that hateth his brother is in darkness, and walketh in darkness and knows not whither he goeth, because that darkness has blinded his eyes—if a man say 'I love God,' and hateth his brother, he is a liar, for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?"—1
 John ii, 9-11; IV, 20.

"The hunger for brotherhood is at the bottom of the unrest of the modern civilized world."—George Frederick Watts.

ADMIRALTY ISLANDS.

Latitude: 2 degrees South.

Longitude 146 -- 147 degrees East.

The Admiralty Islands are about 40 in number, of volcanic and coral formation. They are densely wooded, the cocoanut tree and other tropical growth abounding. There are few if any animals, other than those brought by visiting ships, on the islands. These islands were discovered by the Dutch navigator Willem Cornelis Schouten in 1616, who is remembered as he who first rounded Cape Horn and gave it its name. They were named by Philip Carteret in 1767.

The inhabitants number about 800 and are of the Black race: described as "frizzle headed savages." It is said that, in some parts of the islands, these natives still practice cannibalism.

The Islands were annexed by Germany in 1885, and now form a part of the Bismark Archipelago.

The largest island of the group is Admiralty Island which is 50 miles long and having an elevation of 3000 feet. Nares Harbor is at the northwestern side of this island and is named after Sir Geo. Strong Nares, Vice-Admiral, English Navy.
