EDITOR VISITS DUNTREATH POULTRY FARM, FINDS SCIENTIFICALLY EQUIPPED PLANT

Is One of the Most Attractive Units of the Duntreath Farms

By Walter H. Harris.

Nestled atop a beautiful hill in a wonderful hickory grove, Duntreath Poultry Farm, northeast of Forest Hill, is now the mecca attracting hundreds of visitors not only from Memphis, but from the territory for many miles around.

Here indeed is a model poultry plant—the kind that the city man dreams of retiring to and that the farmer hopes to achieve. Col. Edward J. McCormack, of Memphis, is the owner, while A. C. Monell, formerly of the Alabama Leghorn Farm, of Ensley, is the manager. Colonel McCormack and Dr. J. A. Crisler are the guiding spirits behind Duntreath and under their direction the many departments of this beautiful institution are following a well conceived plan of development.

Every outdoor run, and they are not the usual small yards seen around most poultry plants, but extensive spaces allowing ample exercises, is now growing in fine crops of greenstuffs. At the time the writer visited the farms a feed cutter was being operated to mill the green food into the proper size for feeding to the babies. Milk, green-food and plenty of mash and scratch, together with strict sanitation are said to be the keystone of Mr. Monell's management.

A Missouri Type House Showing Sun Porch Arrangement

A visit to Duntreath Poultry Farm is a revelation. This farm is a separate unit of the farms and its management is solely under the guidance of Mr. Monell, who for twenty years has been recognized as one of the leading poultry men of the South.

Here everything is operated under a most careful regime. Row after row of splendidly built houses shelter nearly ten thousand fine White Leghorns. They are of the imported Tom Barron breed—big, vigorous, healthy, attesting to the fine care they have received. Every precaution is taken to prevent infection and contagion. The houses are scrupulously clean.

Mr. Monell and his splendid wife live in a beautiful five-room bungalow in the heart of the plant. Across from this bungalow is a row of the open front Missouri type 30x30 houses. These houses have concrete floors, straw lofts and are splendidly ventilated. They are said to be exceptionally fine for this climate and Duntreath has adopted them for use where the shade is not so dense as it is in the grove.

To the north and south of the Monell residence there are four 100x20 foot Tennessee shed type houses, one of them built this year. These houses are especially fine in a woodland, as the shade breaks the heat of

BUILDS MORE SIDEWALKS.

The city this week built about 25 feet more of concrete sidewalk east on Poplar Pike, connecting with the walk from the Reach property and Cedar Grove addition. This makes a continuous concrete walk now from the square to the addition. The work was under the supervision of City Marshal Lowe. A street light was also installed at the corner near Cooper Motor Co.

the Monell residence. The machine used in this cellar is a mammoth Newtown especially designed for pedigree work. It is marvel of efficiency and it is here that thousands of the strong chicks which are building a great reputation for Duntreath first see the light of day.

The poultry farm has its own deep well and pump. All houses are illuminated with electricity and both the young growing stuff and the hens were under lights late into the evening of my visit. In fact, the farm illuminated looked like a rather large town.

Duntreath is undoubtedly destined to be one of the greatest poultry farms of the country. It is operated on a basis of "Duntreath chicks have a reputation to sustain—and they know it!" No effort is being made to raise cheap stuff in huge lots. Its management is laying great stress upon the fact that the poultry business is being damaged daily by the claims being made by the mass production of commercial hatcheries and Duntreath is determined to furnish a high grade product at a fair price. As an indication of the type of chicks hatched at this farm there are several instances of 98 per cent of their baby chicks being raised to the pullet stage. Certainly nowhere in the tri-states is there a finer, cleaner, more virile bunch of chicks and hens than the editor saw on his all-too brief visit.

Mr. Monell extends an invitation to the people of the tri-states to visit this plant. He and Mrs. Monell are never too busy to show the visitor around and their enthusiasm is shared by their son, Charles, who is in charge of some of the major activities of the place.

Duntreath is reached from Memphis over Poplar Pike. It is on the Southern Railroad. Its postoffice is at Forest Hill. An uptown office is maintained at

COUNTY SCHOLASTIC CONTEST HELD FRIDAY

Local Hi Students Win Second and Third Places

The Looney brothers had their inning on Friday, April 26, in the Shelby County Scholastic contest, by capturing second and third places in Declamation.

Raymond Looney, who is a member of the seventh grade, took part in the Elementary Declamation contest at Barlett at 2 o'clock, contesting with eleven other schools. The judges rated Raymond as the second best orator on the program. Raymond's selection was "Spartacus to the Gladiators."

On Friday night, at Whitehaven, Eugene Looney, who was punch-hitting for his big brother, Mack, took third place with the declamation, "Immortality." Mack won the right to represent Collierville school in the local elimination contest, but was sick and unable to go to Whitehaven. Eugene rallied to his support, however, and made the fine showing for our school.

Miss Rhodes carried a group of Latin students to Teachers College Friday and took part in a tournament in Latin. At this time no report has been made on this contest. We understand Collierville students held their own with the best of them.

MR. S. T. FLEMING.

Mr. Samuel Thomas Fleming, aged 85 years, died at his home in Memphis Thursday evening. Mr. Fleming came to Shelby county from South Carolina, with his parents when he was four years of age and lived in this community all his life, until a few years ago, when he moved to Memphis to live. His wife was formerly Miss Ella Thompson of Germantown, who survives him. Mr. Fleming was a member of the Presbyterian Church of Collierville, having joined when a boy, the old Salem Church, which was afterward moved to town. He was a Christian gentleman, always taking an active interest in his church. A Confederate veteran, having been a member of the 34th Mississippi Regiment.

Funeral services were held at Presbyterian Church here, Saturday afternoon at 2:30, conducted by Rev. Cowan, pastor, interment being made at the old Salem cemetery, the funeral being under the direction of J. W. Norris, of Memphis, assisted by Hinton & Hutton, of Collierville.

BUYS WILKINS SHOP.

Mr. Neal Moore purchased the J. C. Wilkins Barber Shop last week, Mr. Wilkins and wife leaving for Asheville, N. C., where he goes for his health. Lyle Wilkins will be with Mr. Moore in the shop. "Dinty," as he is known to everyone here, has conducted a shop in Collierville for a number of years, returning here recently from Crawfordville, Ark. He will continue to give the same excellent service in the shop and appreciates a visit from his many friends in this section.

MRS. ANNIE HEARD BOYD.

Mrs. Annie Heard Boyd, widow of the late F. F. Boyd of Rossville, and sister of Squire J. H. Heard, died at her residence early Saturday morning, after a brief illness. She was 70 years of age.

Mrs. Boyd was an active worker in civic and church affairs in Rossville during her lifetime. For eight years she was president of the Ladies' Missionary Society and at the time of her death was teaching a Bible class in the Methodist Church. Surviving her are a son, J. W. Boyd, and a daughter, Mrs. F. K. West, and three grandchildren, all of Rossville; two brothers, James A. and Julian E. Heard, and a sister, Mrs. Mattie H. Gilmore of Memphis.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist Church in Rossville, Sunday afternoon at 2:30, conducted by the Rev. U. S. McCaslin, assisted by the Rev. G. T. Sellers. Interment was made in Magnolia Cemetery in Collierville, the funeral being under the direction of Hinton & Hutton.

The Herald joins the many friends in Collierville in extending our sympathy to the bereaved ones in their loss.

CITY REGISTRATION HELD.

The registration of voters for the city was held at Charles Dean & Son store last week, closing Friday evening and fifty-seven names were registered as qualified voters. Mr. John Dean and Miss Fanny Weinstein held the registration and with the number already registered this gives a total of about 260 names.

RECEIVES ANOTHER CAR AND THE NEW CHEVROLETS

The Kelsey Chevrolet Company received another carload of the new Chevrolets Saturday, consisting of a Sedan, Coach, Roadster and Truck. Mr. Kelsey reports business good and the New Six Chevrolet making more friends every day.

"We Beg Pardon."

In last week's issue of the Herald, we sold the Mann home to Mr. C. W. Jameson; it should have been C. W. Fleming. We just got the names mixed, but as long as Mr. Fleming bought the place, Mr. Jameson says it's all right.

LOCALS WIN ONE AND LOSE ONE

Lose First Time This Season With South Side Hi, 4 to 3

In a mighty good game played at Holly Springs Wednesday the Collierville Hi team won with a score of 9 to 4, making four runs in the last inning. The locals had the best of Holly Springs from the beginning. Shelton pitched his usual good game and Kelsey went in in the fifth and finished the game. E. Jones officiated behind the bat. Cox hit a home run right at a time when it meant something.

Holly Springs has a good team and the game was interesting all the way.

The locals met their first defeat of the season Friday evening here, when they met the South Side team from Memphis. The score was four to three in favor of the visitors, although the game was close all the time. The breaks just seemed to go against the home boys, sun in the field causing them to misjudge highones, and a little of "just everything." Fenes was in the box and handled the visitors well. Shelton went in for the last inning. E. Jones caught the game and also hit two home runs. The locals had 10 hits and seven strikeouts and the visitors seven hits and 10 strikeouts.

"FISH FRY SATURDAY NIGHT—MAGISTRATE'S COURT MON. MORNING"

About midnight Saturday night, Deputy V. Leake and City Marshal Lowe were called to go a short ways from town on the Mt. Pleasant Road, during the hardest part of the rain, where a crowd of colored men were having a little gathering and fish fry, a disturbance having been reported. Twenty-five were placed under arrest and Magistrate Dudney held court Monday morning, the defendants pleading not guilty. Fines were assessed, some paying them and others giving bond, appealing the cases.

LOCATES LARGE STILL.

Through the efforts of Deputy V. Leake and City Marshal J. A. Lowe, there is one still less as these wide-awake officers made a trip out of town early Friday and returned with a large one-barrel still, that from its appearance had been recently working. They located it about four or five miles from town on Mary Creek. They destroyed a large quantity of mash, bringing the still into town, where Mr. Lowe destroyed it at the city hall, this making his 44th still he has chopped up.

To Give Minstrel Show

If you enjoy a laugh, good singing and a real fun-show, be sure to see the Minstrel at the school auditorium Thursday night, May the 9th. The cast is rehearsing and with six blackface comedians a special First Part, the show will provide an evening's pleasure.

Three Thousand Barron White Leghorn Chicks at Six Weeks of Age

The growing chicks are not allowed to touch the ground. A clever arrangement of screened porches runs the entire length of the houses, and it is upon these porches that the birds regale themselves in the sun, luxuriate in their dust baths and get their outdoor exercise. Inside of the houses everything is equipped with glass cloth windows admitting the violet ray, all are well ventilated and every one is modern to the latest degree.

An incubator cellar which is undoubtedly the largest and best equipped in the tri-states is located just southwest of 507 Dermon Building. Hatching eggs and baby chick orders are already being booked for next fall and there is quite a demand for the cockerels which are now being shipped to southern farms in many states. A visit to the farm is not only worth while, but will be profitable to any one interested in poultry.

AUTOMOBILE HINTS

Some of the modern garages are being erected with hotels attached.

America is up and going. It spent more than $2,000,000,000 for gas last year.

It isn't enough for some people to skate on thin ice. They want to drive their automobiles on it.

Used tire casings are being made into soles for inexpensive shoes in France. The skidding must be terrible on a wet day.

A man paying for his car on the installment plan should remember he cannot pay attention to the road on the same plan.

There is some consolation to the few pedestrians left. The tags folks are buying for their cars only give them license—not liberty.

Nobody knows what the reckless, rushing type of motorist does with all the time he saves. Some people, however, think he ought to serve part of it.

"GHOSTLY" CHORDS STARTLE FAMILY

Mysterious Notes Come From Piano at Night.

Nottingham, England.—Eerie chords struck from an unattended piano in the dead of night have nearly succeeded in convincing the skeptical Eason family of Cottesmore road, Nottingham, that there are such things as ghosts.

Recently after Mrs. Arthur Eason, who is seventy-six years old, and her three daughters had retired for the night they were startled to hear chords struck on the piano downstairs, and simultaneously heard sounds as if furniture was being moved about.

Describing her spooky experience Miss Alice Eason, one of the daughters, told a reporter:

"We had been in bed about half an hour when we heard a chord struck on the piano, immediately followed by the whining and scratching of Tony, our little fox terrier, who sleeps in the front room.

"Then to our alarm two more chords were struck.

"I was too scared to move, but one of my sisters went down to investigate. The room was empty, but the dog was trembling visibly."

According to Mrs. Eason the notes heard were similar to those which used to be played by her blind brother, who died two years ago, and who was for many years organist at the local Wesleyan church.

"I'm not psychic, and I don't believe in ghosts," said Mrs. Eason. "I was certain that the sounds had been caused by some practical joker, and the next day I set out to find who had broken into our house and played the piano. I was confronted first with the fact that all the windows and the doors were locked tight. Searching inquiry among neighbors failed to shed any light on the occurrence.

"Subsequently we have heard sounds at night as though of furniture being moved about downstairs, and once a blind suddenly flew up with no one near it.

"No, I still don't believe in ghosts, but all the same I am beginning to wonder."

First False Teeth Worn by Woman of 300 B. C.

Santa Monica, Calif.—The first false teeth, so far as we know today, were worn by a woman of Sidon in Phoenicia about 300 B. C., according to Dr. Roy L. Moodie, well-known anatomist.

The Phoenician woman's jaw, with the false teeth, is preserved in the Louvre, in Paris. The two right incisors are represented by artificial teeth, held in place and bound to each other by gold wire. The wire has been drawn through careful perforations in the artificial teeth.

Although the Egyptians pioneered in treatment of many diseased conditions of the body, this sort of dental replacement apparently was never devised by Egyptian physicians. Thousands of mummies, representing 7,000 years of life in Egypt, have been examined but no clear evidence of such repair work has ever been found.

Sidewalk Artist Copies Work of "Old Masters"

London.—Persons coming out of Burlington House, Piccadilly, where the $15,000,000 exhibition of Dutch paintings is in progress, have been amazed to see beautiful copies of some of the principal exhibits painted in the street pavement nearby.

The street artist, who refused to reveal his name, has surprised experts by his ability, and it has been learned that he at one time exhibited in the Paris salon and showed signs of becoming an eminently successful artist.

Tiny Golf Bag Manicure Sets Latest Paris Fad

Paris.—Tiny golf bags for manicure sets are among the latest novelties for Parisian women, who pride themselves on the charm of their dainty fingers. The imitation golf sticks which perk their small metal heads from the little sack, when pulled out, prove to be file, orange stick, clipper, miniature scissors and other similar accessories.

Radio Waves Mix Texts of 3 Speakers

Concordia, Kan.—Three stations on the same wave length resulted in the following statements on a radio here:

"The Old Testament tells us that baby chicks should detour one mile south of Salina and listen to the word of the prophets. After passing through Leavenworth, turn north to Jericho. A bond issue is being talked of in the Holy City."

The radio fan discovered that one broadcaster was a minister, one a man giving condition of the roads, and the other a lecturer on poultry.

MEXICO IS DUE FOR NEW FORTUNE HUNTS

Every Revolution Has Own Special Stories.

Eagle Pass, Texas.—It will soon be time for new stories of buried money and treasure of fabulous value to come out of Mexico. Following each of the previous revolutions tall tales of this kind have been told and many are the expeditions that have gone forth in futile search for the hidden wealth.

In each instance the army officers gave their personal memorandum that the funds had been taken and would be repaid when the new regime got into power. It is from money obtained in this manner that the soldiers of the rebel armies are daily paid.

The cash is carried along with the fighting contingents in big motor trucks. If by any chance the rebels are defeated, the custodian or the funds make a wild drive for some remote spot where the wealth is buried to await a propitious time for its recovery.

One of the most striking stories of buried treasure in Mexico relates to the fortune which Francisco Villa is asserted to have concealed in some remote spot in the Sierra Madres. Villa made a number of large hauls from banks, stores and private individuals from time to time.

At the time he was assassinated it was estimated by several of his intimate associates that he had accumulated a fortune of more than $6,000,000 during his banditry and rebel activities.

Lindbergh Has Sister Living in Minnesota

St. Paul, Minn.—Now, at last, the secret's out. Col. Charles Lindbergh has a sister!

In the little one-street town of Red Lake Falls, Minn., Mrs. Eva Lindbergh Christie, half-sister of the famous flyer, lives happily with her husband, George West Christie, editor of the town's one newspaper, and her two children.

But outside of the town few have ever heard of Mrs. Eva Lindbergh Christie. Few even suspected Colonel Lindbergh had a sister. The reason for the secret is that Mrs. Christie is extremely modest and fears publicity.

"You see, it's this way," she explains. "My mother was Mary Lafond. She died when I was only five years old, and father married again. Charlie was born of that second marriage. Charlie and I were children together in Little Falls, Minn., but we became separated when I went to college. Then I became a schoolteacher and was married to Mr. Christie."

"Charlie and I were together about five years ago when father died, and then we separated, and until he came to Minneapolis after his Paris flight I didn't see him. But we did have a nice reunion in Minneapolis. I'm glad Charlie's doing so well and I hope when he gets married he will bring his bride here to visit us."

Boy Babies Shown to Be Weaker Than Sisters

Washington.—Despite the general belief that the male constitution is inherently stronger than the female, girl babies have a 30 per cent better chance of living than have boys, the Labor department's children's bureau has found.

More boys than girls are born each year in the United States registration area, but for every 100 female infant deaths there are 130 male mortalities among children under one year old, it was found.

The boy's greater need of sunlight accounts for this difference in death rates, it was said. Males, deprived of the sun's beneficial rays, soon develop such diseases as rickets and tetanus. Girls are said to have a higher resistance to these maladies.

GAMBLERS PREY ON SEA TOURISTS

Atlantic Liners Are Plagued by Card Sharppers.

London.—With more American tourists visiting Europe than ever before, the Atlantic liners are being plagued more and more by the professional gambler.

Acting in conjunction with the British and American police, and with the steamship officials afloat, the French authorities have contrived to make at least one haul, and some prominent gamblers now find themselves debarred from obtaining a ticket from any of the big steamship companies.

This card sharper trouble is one of the greatest of all that beset the paths of the steamship companies. They do all that they possibly can to check it, but there is a difficulty at every turn.

It is no offense to play cards on board ship, and it is no offense to play poker just a little better than one's opponents, so that the ship's officers have to be very certain that there is actual cheating going on before they can take any legal action.

Every passenger is warned against playing cards for money with chance acquaintances, or indulging in high stakes, with anybody. Yet there are many who will not be advised and who resent any interference with their liberty, particularly any suggestion that they are not well able to look after themselves.

Gentlemen of the "profession" are generally well primed with good stories and have all the knowledge of the world which delights the tyro at traveling.

So the lines are always working at a disadvantage in their efforts to protect those who will not take advice, and occasionally it is necessary to resort to unorthodox means to circumvent the gamblers.

There is one story concerning a famous western ocean officer who was a remarkably clever conjurer. He saw perfectly well how two rich young passengers were being plucked, but had not the legal proof necessary to take official action.

So he took a hand in the game, and won back for the two youngsters every penny that they had lost with a little over for seamen's charities.

Wedding in Doubt, but O. K'd by Legislature

New Britain, Conn.—Mr. and Mrs. Stuntton E. Ashley are on their honeymoon, safely married through an act of the state legislature. After Ashley and his bride, the former Miss Elva McKirdy, left on their honeymoon their parents discovered the Shuttle Meadow Country club, where the marriage took place, was over Bristol boundary line. The license, obtained in New Britain, would not have been recognized in Bristol. They immediately appealed to the legislature, which passed a special act validating the marriage.

Stonehenge Will Be Preserved by British

London.—Stonehenge, ancient monument of man's worship during the late Stone Age, is to be preserved for future generations.

The huge stone monuments, set in the shape of a horseshoe on Salisbury Plains, had been threatened by a bungalow-building operation. Altogether 1,444 acres have been purchased around the lonely plateau at a cost of about $155,000, subscribed by the general public.

At present there is a barbed-wire fence around the site and an admission fee is charged visitors. It is expected the fence will be removed and the site opened to the public free.

Makes Life Sweeter

Children's stomachs sour, and need an anti-acid. Keep their systems sweet with Phillips Milk of Magnesia!

When tongue or breath tells of acid condition—correct it with a spoonful of Phillips. Most men and women have been comforted by this universal sweetener—more mothers should invoke its aid for their children. It is a pleasant thing to take, yet neutralizes more acid than the harsher things too often employed for the purpose.

Phillips is the genuine, prescription product physicians endorse for general use; the name is important. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. registered trade mark of the Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

OLD FOLKS SAY DR. CALDWELL WAS RIGHT

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice.

He treated constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a combination of senna and other mild herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle will last several months, and all can use it. It is pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. Elderly people find it ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

New Light on a Famous Tragedy

JOHN WILKES BOOTH

THE CAPTURE OF BOOTH

THE CAPTURE OF BOOTH

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Booth pictures, courtesy Houghton-Mifflin company.

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

IT is true that the shot fired near Concord bridge in Massachusetts one morning in April of 1775 was "heard round the world," then it is equally true that a shot fired in Ford's theater in Washington, D. C., one evening in April 90 years later seems likely to echo down through history for all the years to come.

For it was the shot which ended the life of one of the greatest Americans, just at a time when the nation needed most of the wisdom, the patience and the same moral courage which were his, and the leaden missile which cut the thread of his life at the same time shattered the hopes and happiness of countless thousands of his countrymen. So the tragedy of the assassination of Abraham Lincoln by John Wilkes Booth has a sorrowful fascination about it which makes it unforgettable.

The story of that dark deed and the retribution which so speedily overtook the perpetrator is a familiar one to most Americans but it is one in which fact and fiction became inseparably interwoven in the years which have passed since it took place. That this should be so is not difficult to realize if we can reconstruct the atmosphere of hatred, suspicion and political vindictiveness which prevailed at the close of a great civil conflict. In such an atmosphere it is not to be wondered at that facts should be distorted and that the story of Lincoln's assassination which has been handed down to us should contain as many half-truths and no-truths as truths.

Recently there has appeared a book which sheds much new light on that famous tragedy and from which it is possible to know what actually took place on that historic Good Friday and during the days of wild excitement that followed. It is "John Wilkes Booth—Fact and Fiction of Lincoln's Assassination," published by Houghton Mifflin company, and written by a veteran of the stage, Francis Wilson, who knew many of the members of the cast who played with Miss Laura Keane at Ford's theater that night as well as members of the Booth family, notably Edwin Booth. Wilson, according to one reviewer of his book, "writes not in justification of murder, much less in justification of that monumental crime. His task is the thankless but important one of telling the truth to his fellow citizens North and South. . . . He has invaded a field poisoned by more than half a century of defamatory propaganda and emerged triumphant." While there can be no justification for John Wilkes Booth's crime, there can be an explanation of it. There is no doubt that Booth was a morbid-minded fanatic who believed himself actuated by a high and noble purpose in planning his deed. That deed, incidentally, Wilson's book reveals was originally planned as one of abduction rather than assassination. Booth, a strong southern sympathizer, believed that if he could abduct the President and hold him a captive, he could dictate the terms for his release—an abrogation of Grant's order forbidding the exchange of prisoners (an important factor in the war as the South's man power dwindled), a strengthening of the cry of the northern Democrats that "the war is a failure," an acknowledgment of the independence of the South and an end to the war.

He had been planning the abduction for several months, as shown by a letter written in November, 1864, to John S. Clarke, his brother-in-law, in which he said, "Nor do I deem it a dishonor in attempting to make for her (the South) a prisoner of this man to whom she owes so much misery." But when Lee's surrender marked the beginning of the end and Booth heard Lincoln speak to the crowd that gathered before the White House upon his return from the front, suggesting enfranchisement of negroes who had served as soldiers, a more dangerous idea was born in his mind. "This is the last speech he will ever make," Booth muttered to Lewis Payne, his companion, and a fellow conspirator in the plans for the abduction of Lincoln.

The details of the assassination itself and the pursuit and capture of Booth is so familiar to most Americans as to need no repetition. "One of the services of Wilson's book is to correct some of the erroneous ideas about both. The usual story has Booth leaping to the stage from the box in which the President sat, after he had shot Lincoln, brandishing a dagger and shouting "Sic semper tyrannis!" The fact is that Booth shouted those words before he fired and that he did not speak after leaping to the stage. The commonly accepted version of Booth's death is that he was shot down in the burning barn by a sergeant named Boston Corbett. Wilson states that when the barn was fired Booth determined to rush out of it and try to shoot his way through the cordon of soldiers surrounding it. He had gone but a few steps when he realized the futility of the attempt and, preferring death to capture, he determined to end his own life and shot himself. For policy's sake, Boston Corbett was permitted to have the credit for having shot him. Secretary Stanton had but one purpose in regard to Booth and that was to deprive those who might applaud Booth's deed of the thought that he was a martyr who had cheated the avengers of Lincoln's death by committing suicide.

Various fantastic tales have been told about the disposal of Booth's body but these Wilson sets at rest by telling of his burial in the penitentiary grounds in Washington and the subsequent positive identification of his remains when the body was exhumed in 1869 for reburial in the Booth burial plot in Baltimore. But more important still this book lays for all time the "ghost" of John Wilkes Booth which for the last fifty years has bobbed up at various times and in various places in the forms of different persons who claimed to be Booth. There have been a number of these fake "John Wilkes Booths," but perhaps the most famous one was the central figure in a book written by a certain Finis L. Bates of Memphis, Tenn. Bates became acquainted with a house painter named John St. Helen who confessed to him that he was John Wilkes Booth who had survived the pursuit by the soldiers after Lincoln's assassination. St. Helen was living under the name of David E. George when he died in Oklahoma. Bates discovered that the embalmed body of George was in Enid, Okla. He took charge of it and carried it to his home in Memphis. He then wrote his book to prove that George really was Booth and made repeated attempts to collect the reward of $100,000 which the federal government had offered for the body of Booth, after the assassination.

As late as 1925 another fake Booth showed up in Minneapolis, where, according to the story, he called upon Blanche de Bar Booth, daughter of Junius Brutus Booth, the younger, a brother of Edwin and John Wilkes Booth. Knocking on her door at the hotel and speaking from the outside, he said: "Blanche, don't you want to see John?" Believing that it was the work of some practical joker, she refused to see him, and after leaving a card bearing the name of John Wilkes Booth, he departed, saying that he would call again. He did not show up again, however, and although some newspapers made much of the incident, nothing further ever came of it. For the truth is, as Wilson's book proves conclusively, John Wilkes Booth died in the burning barn, probably by his own hand, and all who later claimed to be the assassin were rank impostors.

of the handle and the wrecking crew had to saw off the handle before they could separate the car from the tree.

Mad

A bridge player about town was playing at a very nice club when his partner, for reasons we shall not attempt to go into, threw all his thirteen cards at him. This insulted Mr. Jones, as we shall call him, and he left the room. Flushed and nervous, he paced about, and in so doing came upon one of the board of governors. He told him what had happened and demanded that some sort of action be taken.

"My good fellow," said the governor, who was not one of the more dynamic governors, "how fortunate that you were not playing quolts!"

Too Much Selfish Employment of Religion for Personal Comfort

By REV. HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK (Baptist), New York.

RELIGION, like love, can be utterly selfish. Love gives and love wants. There are always two sides to it, and a love where the one side overbalances the other side can be disastrously ruinous. Even mother love can be a destroying angel. For what some mothers mean when they say "I love him," is "I want him; I will not let him be anybody else's but mine."

More than one young man has poured out to me the story of a blasted life, and the cause, strangely enough, was a loving mother. For when love becomes selfish it can do more damage than hate.

So it is with religion, for religion has comfortable aspects. It is easy to get religion for comfort only. A man can love his family primarily for what he gets out of it. A man can love his country primarily for what he gets out of it. A man can love a friend and squeeze him like an orange into his cup, and a man can love God for what there is in it. There is a lot of that kind of religion today. Some of our most prominent modern cults face the tremendous temptation to be religious for comfort only.

It is dreadful to be really irreligious, to think that creation has no spiritual origin, meaning or destiny, that the creative power cares no more for us than the weather for the grass. One flees from the Arctic cold of irreligion to the gracious warmth of faith in God and His goodness and to the comfortable and sustaining power of His fellowship.

If I did not believe in missions for any other reason I would believe in them because they keep alive the heroic tradition of a sacrificial Christianity. They do at least challenge our easy consciences with the conviction that Christ came to get some great business done on earth and that it costs to do it.

Nation Can Have No Greater Concern Than Development of Its Youth

By OSCAR LEONARD, B'nai B'rith Leader.

The problem of American Jewry, in common with that of America itself, is that of its youth. The greatest concern of any people must be its youth, because that is its future. But this is truer of Jews, since we are a minority group. We must do something to save the Jewish youth for the Jewish people. We must give them something of the ideals which have animated our people through the ages.

For a time we were so busy finding our place in America that we almost forgot our youth, and particularly our intellectuals. The result being that many of them left us, or were about to leave us. It was Prof. Chauncey Baldwin, a prominent Christian at the University of Illinois, who called the attention of the B'nai B'rith to this peculiar situation. The B'nai B'rith, with its record of more than four score years of service, took up this work first in Illinois. The B'nai B'rith Hillel foundation was established there. This work was so successful that requests came from other universities for similar foundations. Where established, the foundation gives Jewish university students the opportunities to meet together for social, spiritual and intellectual purposes.

Medical Profession Must Find Methods of Giving Proper Care to the Needy

By DR. MALCOLM M. HARRIS, Chicago.

Unless the medical profession adopts methods of caring for needy patients the medical foundation societies will. This will be to the detriment of the profession. Millions of dollars are being endowed to foundations. The doctors in them work on salaries. The idea is advanced that the patients are patients, first of the hospital, second of the doctor.

It is the belief of the people that the medical profession is charging prices so high as to make its services available only to the rich, that it is failing to fulfill its obligations. The people are providing this other method.

Exorbitant charges by surgeons are crimes against society. No physician, no matter how eminent, is justified in making such charges. Charges must be fair, honorable and just. They must not be greater than the financial status of the patient justifies.

County medical societies should include every reputable physician and should create institutions for the care of persons of slight means, with every physician pledging a certain amount of time to the institution. Only persons of limited means would be treated and they would pay according to their means.

Faith in Mankind and Belief in God Inseparable, Though Not Easy

By DR. CHARLES F. WISHART, President Wooster College.

Christianity is committed to fundamental faith in man and encourages men to see submerged possibilities in the most insignificant human through the power of Christ in their lives. "Honor All Men" is the very essence of Christianity. Belief in God and belief in man are inseparable. A thorough belief in man is manifestly not easy. In fact, it is not much easier than a belief in God. It takes a great soul to believe in God. It is about the largest achievement of the human spirit. Next to that is belief in man. It takes a great man to sense the greatness of all men, to work your way down beneath the overlay of circumstances, the apparent limitations, the puzzling inconsistencies, below the commonplace and the vulgar and the banal, and to appreciate the splendor, the tragedy, the majesty of humanity that is the achievement of a great soul!

Christianity is firmly committed to a fundamental faith in man. It views man not at all with blind eyes. In the deepest, truest sense, we may say that we dare not wait to love men until we know them. We must love them in order to know them.

Grave Necessity for Reorganization of Government in United States

By DEAN WALTER J. SHEPARD, Ohio State University.

If democracy is to survive under the present complex industrial system, and America is to avoid falling back on a centralized dictatorship as have several European countries, the government must be fundamentally reorganized along functional and group lines, rather than on geographical lines. We are attempting to operate a Twentieth-century industrial system with an Eighteenth-century scheme of industrial control. We have advanced by leaps and bounds in the field of industrial technique and organization. We have lagged far behind in the necessary social and political adjustments which such industrial transformation requires.

Hawk and Seagull Battle
Hundreds of passengers on a transatlantic liner recently saw a fierce battle in midair between a hawk and a seagull. As the birds neared the ship the hawk swooped down, but the gull dived and eluded its pursuer by "banking." Just as swiftly the hawk soared again, and the birds continued their life-and-death race. When immediately above the liner the hawk swooped once more, and this time gripped the gull in its talons. It then settled on top the mainmast, where it devoured its prey, scattering the gull's feathers and bones over the astonished passengers below.—Washington Star.

Mrs Virginia Laake entertained with a lovely Bridge luncheon in her home Friday. The spacious living room was fragrant with pink and white roses, narcissi and other Spring flowers in the music room, huge pink and white peonies arranged in two large baskets were effectively used.

The delicious luncheon menu was served on six attractively appointed tables, each having for a centre piece a slender crystal vase holding a single lovely rose.

An afternoon of Bridge followed the serving of the luncheon. Among the guests were: Mesdames Eton, Jameson, Fred West, Knox and Patty of Rossville.

Miss Maggie Ed, a Cox was the delightful hostess to the Young Ladies Bridge Club, Thursday evening in her home. Jonquills and ferns were effectively used in decorating the rooms where the twelve members enjoyed four games of bridge. Miss Dorothy Glenn won the high score and was awarded a pretty lemon dish and server in green frosted crystal. An exquisite luncheon set was the consolation won by Miss Jean Craig. Mrs Cecil Cox and Miss Ruth Craig were the special guests of the evening. A frozen fruit salad course was served at the conclusion of the game.

Mr and Mrs Milton Mann entertained at Bridge Friday evening in their lovely home on Railroad Street. Roses and iris artistically arranged graced the rooms thrown open to the guests. The hostess was attractively gowned for the evening, wearing a georgette of an unusual shade of blue, with touches of ecru lace. The guest list included: Mr and Mrs Chas. Davis Jr., Mr and Mrs M. V. Kirk, Mr and Mrs Herman Cox, Mr and Mrs Paul Wilson, Mr and Mrs W. Jones, Mrs Walter B. Mebane and Mrs Fleming. At the close of the evening a delicious salad course was served.

Mr and Mrs H. L. Sigrest entertained at Bridge Monday evening in special compliment to Miss Dorothy Glenn, one of the charming high school graduates this year. A beautiful color note in pink was carried out in the spring flowers decorating the rooms where pink tulips predominated. Attractive baskets, fashioned of pink tulips held salted almonds at each table.

The young honoree wore for the occasion a lovely gown of orchid crepe which accentuated her unusual blonde beauty. Four games of bridge were enjoyed by twenty-four members of the younger set, after which prizes were awarded. Miss Ruth Weinstein receiving for high score, silk hose, Miss Mary Collins low score, stationery. The hostess presented the honoree, as a souvenir of the evening, a handsome compact in old gold studded with amethysts. Miss Ruth Craig, another graduate, was complimented, receiving an attractive book designed to contain the memories of the "sweet girl graduate".

Late in the evening the guests were served an elaborate salad course.

PARTNERS WITH THE PUBLIC

It is our job to supply the homes and industries of Memphis and surrounding territory with a service that has become vital in everyday life.

Duty demands that we supply good service. But we want to do more than that—we want it to be as satisfactory as it is humanly possible to make it.

We count ourselves partners with the people of this community interested in advancing the welfare of the people with whom our own interests are identical.

FRIENDLY FIVE SHOES

There is a wealth of satisfaction in the knowledge that shoes such as these embody the very ultimate in style, comfort and quality can be had at the modest price of five dollars. The shoe illustrated is the "Raleigh". See it in the Saturday Evening Post. See it, and try it in our store. Like the thirty other Friendly Five Styles, the "Raleigh" costs only five dollars... and looks like a whole lot more.
