FACTS and FICTION BEING A Little Bit About Anything

"Read not to Contradict and Confute, nor to find Fault and Discourse, but to Weigh and Consider."—Francis Bacon.

If a bootlegger kills a prohibition officer, that is nothing more than "the risk of the risk of the game", according to those in authority. But when a prohibition officer kills a bootlegger, that's murder, so the wet-sympathizing press says.

The prohibition officers have an order to carry only the regulation pistol, while the bootlegger arms himself with machine guns, sawed-off shotguns, and rapid fire long range rifles, as well as pistols.

We are mighty nice to our friend bootleggers, and racketeers. They do not respect the law, human life, or anything that gets in their way. They use our high-ways to run their lawless-rum at death-rate speeds from town to town, and shoot to kill when interrupted or interfered with.

And for all this we all but disarm our prohibition officers for fear some one's "constitutional rights" may be broken into.

It is estimated that there are 20,000,000 radio sets in use in the world, and more than half of them in the United States. It must take a world of static to make all those sets buzz and sputter.

The United States government has 820,000 employees. Now we know what is meant by "a government of the people, by the people and for the people".

In the old Pabst Brewery of Milwaukee from 40,000 to 50,000 pounds of cheese is being made daily, and in addition about 65,000 packages of special cheese products. This beats beer.

When the "baby" Austin, the largest selling British automobile, gets going in America, and Sears Roebuck and Co., get their new mail-order car on the market, Henry Ford and General Motors may quit watching each other for awhile.

"There is a spirit in man, and the breath of the Almighty giveth them understanding."—Job.

The average automobile owner in the United States pays $1.14 a day for operating his car. This estimate includes depreciation, and takes seven years as the average life of a car.

Instead of buying a car, if this amount were invested in 6½ percent interest bearing bonds, at end of seven years, the person so investing would have $3,187 in bonds. This would be a lot better than an old worn out car, but you can't ride in bonds.

Paying $9,000 in advance for a trip around the world in the Graf Zeppelin is what I call faith.

Officers Sieze Still

Deputy V Leake and Marshall Lowe brought in another still early Friday morning. It was located by them in a field Southeast of Fisherville and it showed it had been in operation a short time before it was found. Two barrels of mash and about 2½ gallons of whiskey were found at the still. The still which was a one barrel size was brought to the City Hall and destroyed, making 51 that Marshall Lowe help to "chop-up".

COMMUNITY JUBILEE PROVES BIG SUCCESS

Collierville Host to Many Visitors Last Thursday

The Community Jubilee, sponsored by the local P. T. A. and held at the High School last Thursday, was one of most successful of its kind ever held here. A splendid attendance was had throughout the day and all seem to enjoy the event. Beginning at ten o'clock the exhibits of the Community Fair were judged and prizes awarded. At noon the good chicken and barbecue dinner with all its trimmings, superintended by the chairman, Mrs Burkam, was served to a large and appreciative crowd. The band concerts by the Holly Springs Band with its fine talent were thoroughly enjoyed, both in the afternoon and evening. An address by the able speaker, Congressman Fisher, was highly appreciated. Secretary Fuller, of the Mid South Fair gave an instructive talk on community work and told some features of the coming Fair. The program of stunts under the direction of Mrs Elgin Leake gave much enjoyment. A baseball game with Rosemark and Collierville lasted ten innings with a tie score. The program of the evening was quite interesting with lovely dancing by little Miss James of Germantown; song and dance by the little Misses Maud and Melba Cartwright; vocal solos by Miss Katherine Dean, accompanied by Miss Hamer of La Grange; numbers by Cermantown Quartette; and readings by Miss Dorothy Hinton and Mr Albert Persons.

The spirit of co operation in this undertaking was apparent in all departments which accounts for the success of the day. Quite a sum was realized for the work of the day and the money will be used by the Association in its good work.

Since a complete list of prizes could not be had this week, due to some chairmen being away, all names of winners will be given in next issue.

Attendance was good throughout the week and the Church was greatly benefited.

GINNERS FIRST BALE OF SEASON, TUESDAY

H P Looney Brings in Earliest Bale to be Ginned in Several Years

The first bale of cotton was ginned here by the Mann Gin, Tuesday morning. This is the earliest bale to be ginned here in several years, the first bale last season being ginned Sept. 4th. H P Looney brought the bale in early Tuesday morning and Mr Mann immediately started the gin, turning out the bale in record time. It weighed 600 pounds and graded middling, 1.16 inches and brought 20.05, being purchased by J R Cox and Son, local merchant and cotton buyers. It was hauled to the Cotton Exchange in Memphis by Jonnie Dawkins truck.

Mr Looney has about 100 acres of splendid cotton this year and says prospects are good for a good yield. The cool weather of the past weeks has hurt the cotton to some extent but on the whole, the average seems good.

A Letter from Peru

Below is given a letter from Mr
 Wm. Doxey, a cousin of Mrs A L Hurdle. Mr Doxey is dusting cotton by airplane in Peru.

Lima, Peru, May, 13, 1929
 Dear Mama;
 I will try to tell you something of the Country, Life, Customs and crops of Peru as I have seen them since my arrival.
 South of Lima where I have been working the cotton is being picked. The season is just opposite from the States. The cotton is planted new every four or five years and at the end of each season the stalks cut at ground and it grows from the stubble. In some places it reaches a height of 7 to 10 feet and the yield is very heavy, sometimes 3 bales per acre, average 1½ bales per acre. The bolls have 3 locks instead of 4 and the staple is very long. The cotton is very clean due to the fact they have no rain. All the water is by irrigation and when they want the cotton to open they merely shut off the water supply.
 As a rule the methods of cultivation are very crude. For breaking the ground they use oxen and sometimes plows of burro skulls.

 For chopping and cutting weeds and grass, spades instead of hoes.
 The planters are familiar with modern methods and use them to a certain extent but labor is plentiful and old methods are cheap I would guess that cotton here, with all their antique methods and equipment is produced cheaper than in the States. When the cotton begins to bloom the fields are like flower gardens with the stalks covered in very large blooms. And when the bolls open the fields look as if they are covered with snow. The irrigation is, except for a few valleys, like when the Incas ruled Peru. The water is brought from the mountains sometimes as far as 50 miles from the fields. In places it was brought by tunnels thru the mountains and by viaducts over the gulleys. I have noticed in flying up and down Peru valleys which were cultivated by the Incas now are nothing but deserts. Three-fourths of the land along the coast is more or less desert due to lack of rain and if they had rain the land would be the most fertile in the world. Wherever they put water they can grow anything.
 The fruits and vegetables are wonderful but insects certainly give trouble. With peaches or tomatoes each has to be covered with a sack or insects ruin it. The vegetation is so scarce the bugs are hungry. Insect control is a problem and that's where our part-comes in which has proven very successful and the people use the service and rely on it.
 Peru is truly a land of contrast.
 The burro is the national pack animal and the newest models of trucks are plentiful. It is not strange to see in a glance within a radius of 2 miles, plowing with oxen in one field, with tractors in another, dusting by airplane; on the roads Indians with bundles on their heads, burros heavily-laden fine cars whizzing away, mail and passenger planes in the air. The whole scene of things is more or less an interesting pageant covering a period of hundreds of years.

 The plantation, called Hacienda is a self-supporting little world in itself. The owners have houses of every convenience and luxury, electricity, radio, tennis courts,
 billiard rooms, swimming pools,
 fine saddle horses and so forth.
 Life on the farm is very comfortable for the owners but the laboring people live hard. On the surface tho they seem to be happy.
 On the 18th the first air mail goes from here to the States and I am sending this then. I will see you in August or September.
 Much love,
 William Doxey.

'A Soldier's Thought'

The following was composed by T D Brown, a member of Company D, 31st Mississippi Regiment, during the siege of Vicksburg in 1863

While standing guard in Vicksburg town,

And shells in torrents falling down

My mind was troubled like the sea,

Yet dear babies, I think of thee.

My first is Welsey Irving Brown Who on his horse is riding a round,

Down toward the creek and up the hill,

He's carrying out his mother's will.

My next is little Emma Jane,

Her face I see so very plain.

Her head is filled with many a curl;

Prettiest girl in all the world.

My next is little Beaugard.

I see him all about the yard

Ma, do for him the best you can

I hope he makes a mighty man.

The last of all is Ilus D.

He feels so very near to me.

Oh, could I all my children see.

And stand with them in Liberty.

Why I stop here and pause

I am fighting for the Southern Cause.

Wife, if you hear no more from T D Brown,

You may know he lost his life in Vicksburg town.

If no more in this life

I should see my children and my wife,

My wife meet around the Great White Throne

Where War and Parting is no more.

The above poem was found by Thomas Hart who is a great grandson of T D Brown, among some papers of his grandmother Mrs T L Hart, age 72, who is a daughter of the author.

YOU FEEL ITS SMOOTHNESS

Road Maps and Information
Latest authentic data about roads and road conditions and new and accurate road maps can be had free by writing the "Standard" Touring Service, 2134 St. Charles Avenue, New Orleans.

If you haven't tried ESSO, the Fuel of Giant Power, you are missing something that tens of thousands of other motorists are enjoying—a smoothness of operation that is not approached by any other fuel.

You can feel the difference when ESSO is in the tank. Your car takes you over the road like a greyhound. There is more power available, a more even flow of power, and less vibration. Fuel knocks are entirely eliminated. It seems as though two cylinders have been added to the car.

Try a few tankfuls and see for yourself that it is so. ESSO will improve the operation of any car—old or new—and will lengthen its service-life. Sold by all "Standard" Dealers.
