FACTS and FICTION BEING a little bit about anything

"Read not to contradict and confute, nor to find talk and discourse, but to weigh and consider."—Francis Bacon.

By Harry Williamson

A PSALM OF PRAISE Psalm 100

"Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands.
Serve the Lord with gladness; come before His presence with singing.
Know ye that the Lord He is God: it is He that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are His people, and the sheep of His pasture.
Enter into His gates with thanksgiving, and into His courts with praise: be thankful unto Him, and bless His name.
For the Lord is good; His mercy is everlasting; and His truth endureth to all generations."

Although the United States is perhaps suffering the worst depression that it has undergone in many years, there is much for which we may be thankful. We are at least at peace with all mankind, and have no permanent ailment. We may have some small disturbances, but we are at heart sound. Our old Uncle Samuel will snap out of it before many more weeks, and the wheels of industry will once more begin to spin.

This for which to be thankful—The infant mortality rate for 1929 was 68 for 1000—the lowest yet recorded. More than 50,000 gain in marriages were recorded, although there was a gain in divorces of 2.8 we had 10.1 marriages to every 1.66 divorces. The worst feature of the report is the birth rate which is 18.9 per 1000—the lowest since comprehensive records have been kept.

FOR GOOD OF CHILD

A report by the youth committee prepared for the White House Child Conference contained the rather startling statement that one criminal in this country costs as much as the welfare influence in the lives of 160 normal boys. And speaking of criminals, the committee put the crime bill of our something less than 1,000,000 criminals at something more than $16,000,000,000 a year. At the same time, costs of child wel-

HELP START THE BASKET BALL YEAR

The 1930-31 basket ball schedule will open with a game with Millington on their court, Friday night, December 5th.

There will be no weak teams this year, and every contest will be a headliner. Any one who cares for basketball may attend the games with the assurance that they will get their money's worth.

Let's give the Collierville team a send-off by going to Millington on Friday night, December 5th, and letting the boys and girls know the community is behind them.

On the following Friday night, December 12th, the Whitehaven teams will measure passes with us on our own court.

fare efforts amount to only $5,000, 000, and they affect 50,000,000 youths.

We shouldn't think the British Labor Government would object to the "stinging criticism" aimed at it recently by Rudyard Kipling, since the famous writer said it in poetry. The government took steps to discontinue the laying of wreaths on the tombs of unknown soldiers by visiting statesmen and delegations.

Kipling did not approve of the move. He lost a boy in the great war, and among other things had this to say:

"But see—their memory is slain
Long ere their bones are dust!
Wisely, but yearly, fling some wreath—
Lay some proud rite aside—
And daily tarnish with our breath
The ends for which they died.
Distract, deride, decry, confuse,
(When it serves us—pray!)
So presently we break the use
And meaning of their day."

Whether we liked Sinclair Lewis, his "Babbitt," "Elmer Gantry" or "Dodsworth," the people of Sweden seem to value them rather highly, and the Swedish Academy of Stockholm has awarded to Mr. Lewis the Noble Prize, which is worth $46,350. He refused the Pulitzer Prize in 1926 saying it had too many strings tied to it.

A Massachusetts watch factory has added 1400 hands to its payroll, a press report tells us. They don't say whether they were hour, minute or second hands.

WILL DEDICATE FOREST HILL BAPTIST CHURCH, SUNDAY

The Forest Hill Baptist church is to be dedicated next Sunday when an all-day service, beginning at 10:00 o'clock, will be held.

The church was organized in 1910, and until 1925 services were held in old schoolhouse. But in 1925, the congregation built this present building, on which the mortgage has recently been paid. The burning of the mortgage will be one feature of the service next Sunday. The dedicatory sermon will be preached by the Rev. R. G. Lee, Pastor of the Bellevue Baptist church of Memphis. There will be a number of talks by former pastors and members of the church. A special song service is also being arranged.

ROSSVILLE

On last Thursday evening, Mr. Ames of Holly Springs made an agricultural talk at the school auditorium. With Mr. Ames were Mr. Woody, county agent, and Mr. Latta of Somerville.

Mrs. Frank Elder spent Friday with Mrs. W. W. Murphy. Mr. and Mrs. Sims of Moscow spent Thursday night in the home of J. B. Rives.

Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Millwood and son, Powell, of Raleigh, and Mrs. D. V. Hawthorne of Collierville visited Mrs. John Crawford last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Knox spent Sunday in Dundee, Miss.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Jameson and Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Petty motored to Savannah, Tenn., Sunday.

Mrs. Oscar Floyd, who has been ill at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. S. Baldwin, returned on Saturday to her home in Saulsbury.

Mr. J. C. Waller is on the sick list. Miss Doris Baird had as her visitor, last Sunday, Miss Stafford of Oakland.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Boyd and children spent Monday with relatives in Somerville.

Miss Beatrice Rives was the guest of Miss Linnie Frances Wilder of Galloway, the past week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Tipler from Grand Junction visited Mrs. Tipler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Knox, recently.

Mr. Roy Patterson who has been in Chicago, is at home with his mother who recently returned from a stay in Oklahoma City.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Turner and family of Memphis were the guests Sunday of Miss Clyde Bowling.

Those attending the West Tennessee Teachers Association last Friday and Saturday in Memphis were Prof. and Mrs. A. M. Younger, Misses Simmons, Piper, Thomas, Bowling, and Mesdames Morris and Rives.

Our little city is very enthusiastic over the idea that it will soon have electric lights. The work, under the supervision of Mr. Meadows of Grand Junction, is rapidly going forward.

Mrs. A. S. Waller entertained the Methodist Missionary Society on last Tuesday afternoon with several members and visitors being present. The committee, Mrs. West and Mrs. Jamison, arranged a Thanksgiving program which was conducted by Mrs. John Crawford. A lovely salad menu was served at the conclusion of the program.

Those from Rossville who attended the Zone Meeting at Collierville last Thursday were Mesdames West, Boyd, Rives, C. F. Thomas, T. W. Bowling and M. Stone.

The Mission Study Class met in the home of Mrs. John Crawford on Saturday afternoon with Mrs. J. B. Rives, Superintendent, in charge. The discussions of the lessons taken from the book, "Trailing the Conquistadors," were given by Mesdames A. S. Waller, J. L. Crawford, J. W. Boyd, E. H. Jamison and W. H. Jamison.

Dr. and Mrs. F. K. West and children spent Sunday with his mother in Taska, Miss.

FRANK WEBB PIPER MAKES ALL-AMERICAN

At a recent meeting of the Future Farmers of America which was held in Kansas City, Missouri, Frank Webb Piper was elected to the degree of "American Farmer," which is the highest honor that can come to a member of the F. F. T.

Last year, Frank Webb attained the degree of Tennessee Planter, the highest degree in the state. This year, his name, along with others, was submitted to the national meeting as an applicant for this highest degree. Frank Webb, with one other Tennessee boy was given the degree.

When it is realized that every state in the Union was competing for these honors, and that only 75 boys were given the degree, one can understand how outstanding a boy has to be in order to win this distinction.

The qualifications for election to American Farmer are as follows:

1. Must be familiar with parliamentary procedure by having held office in the local chapter.
2. Be able to lead a class or group discussion for forty minutes.
3. Must hold the degree of Tennessee Planter.
4. Must be engaged in a farming operation or have definite plans for becoming a farmer.
5. Must possess demonstrated ability to farm by having conducted an outstanding program of supervised practice throughout the period of vocational agriculture training.
6. Must have earned and deposited in a bank or otherwise productively in vested at least $500.
7. Must have held office in the Tennessee organization or have represented Tennessee in a national contest.
8. Possess demonstrated ability to work with others by having participated in some agricultural co-operative enterprise or movement.
9. Be recommended by the national Board of Trustees and receive a majority vote of the delegates present at a National Congress of "Future Farmers of America."

Frank Webb has done all of the above and more too. He entered the local F. F. T. Chapter as "Greenhand," the first degree. Later he was made secretary of the local organization. Was chosen to represent the Chapter at the State F. F. T. Convention, here he was given the degree of "Tennessee Planter," one of 21 in the State to receive the degree. This year he was chosen by the state organization as one of three to represent the State at the National Convention held in Kansas City, at which meeting he was given the degree of "American Farmer," the highest honor conferred on one by the organization.

Frank Webb's average grade for his four years of high school was 89. During those years he made from his agricultural projects, and has invested something over $2000.00.

This honor that has come to Frank Webb and to the Collierville school bespeaks something of the outstanding work that Mr. Robertson is doing in the Agricultural Department.

ZONE MEETING

On November 20th, the LaGrange, Moscow, Rossville and Collierville Methodist Missionary Societies met at Collierville for the regular zone meeting.

Dr. R. W. Hood led the devotional. Mrs. J. B. Rives, of Rossville, gave an inspirational talk on "Why we observe the week of prayer, and why practice self-denial."

Mrs. Ed Smith, of La Grange, reminded them of our Harvest Day, and the election of officers. The names of our Memphis Conference missionaries were next named, then Dr. Hood told of their work.

At lunch time, those present were served by the Collierville ladies to a delicious plate luncheon.

During the afternoon session, a report of the zone meeting was made. "On Our Way to the Missionary Society" was given by the Rossville ladies. Mrs. Ed Smith was re-elected zone leader for another year. Dr. Hood made a fine talk on "World Peace." The meeting came to a close with Prayer by Dr. Hood.

Miss Cora Fisher, of Memphis and Rives, is the house guest of Mrs. A. Dodson.

GEORGE R. JAMES FACULTY WILL PRESENT PLAY

The faculty of George R. James school will give a play at the COLLIERVILLE HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM on Thursday evening, December 4th at 8:00 o'clock.

The play, "A Southern Cinderella," was recently given at the Geo. R. James school, and received much favorable comment. It will be given here under the auspices of the Collierville P. T. A. on a percentage basis, the money going to the general fund of the P. T. A.

It is being given on Thursday night because of a conflict with the basket ball schedule on Friday night.

OLIVE BRANCH NEWS

Wednesday night in the basement of the Methodist church, the Stewards and their families were entertained with an oyster supper.

Friday evening, the expression pupils of Miss Virginia Bibb were presented in a program, "Just Imagine," at the D. A. H. S. Special interest was shown by a good attendance. As Miss Bibb is a local girl, the people are delighted to know the first public recital of her pupils was such a success. A small admission fee was charged to cover expenses of the production and to raise funds for the organization of a kiddie band at an early date by Miss Ellen Cassells.

Friends of Mr. J. J. Stevenson are glad to know that he is at home again from the hospital where he has been for several weeks past.

Mr. W. H. Flowers is having a new store of concrete blocks built in the business section of town. This store helps boost the growth of our little town.

Miss Evelyn Moore of Collierville was a business visitor in our town Friday and Tuesday.

Mr. Leland Berkley, of Chicago, visited friends and relatives in Olive Branch last week.

The D. A. H. S. has a wide awake Girl Reserve Club. They will have a joint meeting with the H-Y boys this week, giving a Thanksgiving program.

Friends are sorry to know that Mr. M. Blocker is confined to his bed now.

Prof. and Mrs. I. L. Searcy made a business trip to Memphis and Hernando last Saturday.

The Collierville Cleaners are now making weekly trip to our town, and their prices are very reasonable.

Mrs. Katie Droke is recuperating after an illness of about two months duration.

Dr. W. T. Wilkins, who has just recently finished his interne work at a Chattanooga hospital, is practicing his profession of medicine at Cotton Plant, Ark.

Misses Miriam Massey of Coldwater and Irene Valden of Lewisburg, were the guests of Miss Gladys Valden at the home of Mrs. Para the past week-end.

Prof. and Mrs. D. M. Metts are planning to attend a family reunion at Oxford Thanksgiving.

Mr. W. H. Elliot is the guest of relatives in Vaughn, Miss., this week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hudson of Potts Camp were visitors here last Saturday.

Messrs. Francis Bowlin and Frank Murtor of Memphis attended services at the Baptist church Sunday night.

CAYCE

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Brown will have as their dinner guests, Thanksgiving Day, their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brown and son of Ellendale, Mr. and Mrs. R. Q. Mitchell and son, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Brown and their two daughters of Memphis.

Mrs. Ray Williams and Mrs. Albert Jones of Byhalia visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Williams last Friday.

COLLIERVILLE TEACHERS ATTEND ASSOCIATION

Collierville teachers were one hundred percent in attendance at the West Tennessee Teachers Association which was held at Teachers College, Memphis, Friday and Saturday of last week.

Opening on Thursday night at Tech High School with an address by Mr. Branch Rickey, Business Manager of the Saint Louis Cardinals, and closing Saturday morning with an address by Dr. Willis Sutton, Superintendent of City Schools, Atlanta, and President of N. E. A., the meeting was filled with things of interest for the teachers, and was well attended.

Mr. W. E. Robertson, Agricultural teacher of Collierville High School, was on the program of the Agricultural committee, and Mr. Harry Williamson, Principal of the Collierville schools, served as a member of the Resolutions committee.

The attendance record for the Association was broken on Friday with more than one thousand registered as present.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Albright of Memphis were pleasant visitors on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Wade. Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Sandlin made a visit with relatives in Memphis last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Donaway of Memphis spent last week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Williams.

Mrs. Jack Calk and children of Byhalia were visiting in this community Friday afternoon.

Messrs. V. D. Brooks, F. M. Sloan, W. L. Armour and Boyce Higgins were business visitors in Hollysprings last Friday.

Mrs. Charlie Hooks has returned from a visit with her sister, Mrs. Will Vick, of Byhalia.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Russell and Mr. and Mrs. Pat Morton motored to Somerville Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Williams will have as their Thanksgiving guests, their mother, Mrs. J. H. Vick, and daughter, Miss Elise, of Lepanto, Ark., and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Vick and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Vick of Memphis.

Mrs. Bruno and children and Mr. Henry Jones of Memphis visited Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Williams last Sunday.

Mrs. Alice Armour visited relatives in Memphis Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. V. D. Brooks, Miss Olivia and Earl Brooks visited relatives and friends in Byhalia Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Boswell of Byhalia visited in the home of H. P. Flannigan Sunday.

Mr. L. J. Jamison of Memphis visited his sister, Mrs. C. H. Broadway, last Saturday.

T. H. Jamison and daughter, Doris, and Mrs. C. H. Broadway spent Sunday in Memphis with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jones.

Miss Pauline Broadway returned home Sunday after spending two weeks in Memphis.

WEEKLY SERMONETTE

By Our Local Pastors

THANKSGIVING

"O, that men would praise the Lord for His goodness, and for His wonderful works to the children of men."

These words are found in the 107th Psalm, as though by repetition the Psalmist strove to emphasize them. We need that emphasis as much today as men needed it then.

We are told that thousands of letters addressed to Santa Claus before Christmas reach the dead letter office; but only one has come after Christmas expressing thanks. Jesus healed ten lepers, and only one came back to thank Him. We are told that 2000 people are expected at the Thanksgiving service at Humes High School, Memphis, today. Some churches of Memphis have more members than that. All the populace should be thankful. Will 2000 be a fair representation of more than 252,000, and will Collierville make a better showing at the union services this night?

To help us appreciate our blessings, let us contrast our condition with that of the Plymouth Colony in 1623. "By the time their corn was planted, their victuals were spent, and they knew not at night where to have a bit in the morning; nor had they corn or bread for three or four months together." Elder Brewster, with only clams and oysters to eat, gave thanks that he could "seek of the abundance of the seas, and of treasures hid in the sand." At one time a pint of corn, divided equally, gave to each person five kernels. This was recalled in the bi-centennial celebration at Plymouth in 1820, "when much of the beauty, wealth, fashion, and talent of Massachusetts had congregated, orators had spoken, and poets had sung the praises of the Pilgrims; amidst the rich viands, which had been prepared to gratify the most fastidious epicure to satiety, five kernels of parched corn were placed beside each plate." As Baylis says, it was "a simple but interesting and affecting memorial of the distresses of those heroic and pious men who won this fair land of plenty and freedom and happiness, and yet, at times were literally in want of a morsel of bread."

—F. A. Coyle.

P. S.—

Mr. and Mrs. Editor are not apologizing for the absence this week of the two other pages of home news, but they realized that you would be so busy with Thanksgiving that you would not have time to read four big pages of home happenings, and they certainly do not want anyone to overlook part of the Collierville Herald.

Mr. and Mrs. Editor are wishing you a most happy Thanksgiving.

Los Angeles Harbor Now in Second Place

With a record of $1,425,844.19 net profit earned for the city during the past year, Los Angeles harbor is now second in American shipping, and was one of the "exhibits" most interesting to delegates of the National Foreign Trade convention. Above is an aerial view of Los Angeles inner harbor.

Study Spanish Main From Air

Photographic Survey Being Made of East Coast Aerial Routes.

Washington.—To make the most comprehensive geographical and photographic study ever undertaken of the east coast aerial between North and South America, a National Geographic society survey party is flying over the old Spanish Main in one of the largest flying boats in America.

From dozens of bases along the way the party will make inland flights to cover areas contiguous to the route, and to gather geographic and meteorological data that will be valuable aids to navigation in the future when the air will hum with the aerial traffic between the two continents. Probably the two most important detailed surveys will be of the Orinoco and Amazon deltas, vast regions of low-lying islands and plains, traversed by a network of sluggish streams. These large areas are difficult of access by the ordinary means of travel, and have never been adequately studied from the air.

The survey party includes Frederick Simpich, editorial staff writer; Jacob Gayer, staff photographer, and Capt. Albert W. Stevens, internationally known aerial photographer. In addition to two pilots and two mechanics.

Great Airway.

With the rapid development of air traffic to South America, the route over the old Spanish Main is looked upon by the National Geographic society as one of the future great airways of the world. The direct flying time for powerful planes between Washington and Buenos Aires is seven days, but so thoroughly will the expedition comb the territory with its camera lenses and trained observers that six weeks will be spent on the flight.

The journey, which is being made in the "Argentina," largest type flying boat ever built in America and belonging to the New York, Rio & Buenos Aires lines, will be over or near water for practically the entire way. The first leg was along the Atlantic coast to Miami. From there a short hop was made to Havana. The route then continues over islands of the West Indies with landings probably at Santiago de Cuba, Port-au-Prince, San Pedro de Macoris (Dominican republic), San Juan, St. Thomas, St. John's (Antigua), Port Castries (St. Lucia), and Port of Spain, Trinidad.

After stops at the three capitals of the Guianas—Georgetown, Paramari-bo and Cayenne—the plane will fly to Para, Brazil.

From there the flight will be continued with stops at Sao Luis, Amaracao, Camocim, Fortaleza, Natal, Recife (Pernambuco), Maceio, Aracaju, Bahia, Sao Jorge dos Ilheos, Caravelas, Victoria, Campos, Rio de Janeiro, Santos, Sao Paulo, Florianopolis, Porto Alegre, Rio Grande do Sul, Montevideo and Buenos Aires.

To Photograph Highest Peak.

After arriving in Buenos Aires, the photographers of the party will change to a smaller plane of the same company capable of high altitude work, and will fly westward to the Andes where they will make aerial photographs of Aconcagua, highest mountain in the western hemisphere. This peak reaches an altitude of 23,080 feet.

Since the days of Dr. Alexander Graham Bell's experiments with man-lifting kites and the early flights of the Wright brothers, the National Geographic society has lent its assistance and encouragement to the development of aerial navigation. It is believed that the geographical and meteorological fruits of the present survey will assist in more closely associating the two Americas by placing air travel and transportation between the two continents on a scientific basis.

The "Argentina" has a wing spread of 100 feet. It weighs 10,440 pounds empty and 17,000 pounds with a capacity load. It is capable of carrying 22 passengers and of a speed of 127 miles per hour.

Italian Aviator Makes New Endurance Record

Rome.—Commander Umberto Maddalena, famous Italian air ace, carried off the world endurance record for planes not refueling in the air on a closed circuit recently, beating the previous record of 65 hours 26 minutes held by the German flyer Johann Ristler.

Despite his victory, Commander Maddalena at midnight was still flying in order, if possible, to exceed distance records also.

The Italian flyer took off early on Friday morning in a Marchetti Savoia 61. The closed circuit covers a triangular route, and the plane must land where it started for the record to be recognized. Commander Maddalena, who aided in the rescue of General Noble in the Arctic in 1928, is accompanied by Capt. Cecconi. He is planning a flight to New York by way of the Azores.

Oil Stove in Tent Is Fatal to Banker

Paris.—A nature colony on an island in the Seine, near Villennes, has had its first tragedy. A banker and his wife found the tents too cool without clothes and installed an oil stove. The fumes from which overcame them as they slept. The banker died in his sleep and his wife is now being treated in a hospital.

Great Switzerland Rail Tunnels Have Birthdays

Geneva.—Switzerland this year is celebrating two anniversaries that are of as much importance for the world as a whole as for Switzerland itself.

The first of these is the fiftieth anniversary of the piercing of the St. Gothard tunnel and the second is the twenty-fifth anniversary of the completion of the Simplon tunnel.

The first of these tunnels which lies between Zurich and Milan was the first great connecting link between the north and south of Europe.

Its importance in the development of European commerce is indicated by the fact that in the first 25 years of its existence its traffic in goods tripled. Now with the electrification of the railway, its tonnage has doubled and the daily maximum tonnage is 23,000 tons.

The Simplon, which ranks with its 20 kilometers of length as the longest tunnel in the world, is the gateway to the Near East for the inhabitants of western Europe.

The through express trains from Paris to Constantinople make it the favorite route for the Near East.

The tunnel underlies the route used by Napoleon for crossing the alps into Italy.

It recently has been doubled with a second tunnel running parallel for its full length.

Parisians Stumped by Strange French Dialect

Paris.—After the entire personnel of a well known Paris hotel had given up in despair because they could not understand one of their guests who was speaking a dialect unfamiliar to them, and after the central police department of Paris had rushed four of its most distinguished linguists to the hotel, and had also given up the case as hopeless, an American gentleman who had been billeted during the war in a French village and learned the peculiar dialect of the locality walked across the lobby serenely and acted as interpreter.

By this time the woman was thoroughly angry. She explained that she had come to Paris to find her runaway daughter, and the fact that in her own France nobody could understand her had certainly raised her ire.

he hid until they passed and then climbed up a tree.

There he was spotted by Philip A. Brown, a would-be policeman from Ossining, who will collect the standing state reward of $50. Brown summoned Keepers John Shanahan and John Farrell by his excited shouts, and they induced Santanella to surrender. In the prisoner's pockets were found a razor, a sandwich, and $5. The money and the razor are contraband. The Westchester grand jury will be asked to indict Santanella for jail breaking, which carries a penalty of seven to fifteen years. The prisoner was placed in "solitary."

He is twenty-nine and comes from Providence.

BILL, THE BUS DRIVER SAYS

"Better gamble with your dough than with your life, 'cause you can always earn more dough."

(By MARCUS A. DOW.)

I was ridin' on a train goin' about sixty miles an hour when the rattler come to a sudden, grindin' jarrin' stop. Some of us passengers got out to see what was all the sudden halt for. A completely busted automobile scattered a hundred feet along the right of way told a mute but awful story. Over in a field where it had been tossed by the train lay a shapeless lifeless thing which a moment before had been a livin' human bein'. Some guy pointed to a sign on the crossin' nearby, "Stop, Look, Listen." Had this guy believed in signs he would probably be alive today.

When you gamble with your life at a railroad crossin' you are puttin' your life up against a few lousy seconds of time. You gamble for time and your own life is the stake. There ain't no percentage in gamblin' with death. Shakin' dice with old bony fingers is bum sport, 'cause he gets most of the breaks.

A man bettin' on a horse stakes a few measly dollars that the horse he picks will win, and if it happens for once, he'll gain a few dollars, otherwise he loses his stake. But if you drive over a railroad crossin' and don't slow down and shift into low gear and don't take the time (or the trouble, if you call it that) and the precaution of lookin' both ways and listenin' for trains, I say if you don't do all that, you put up your life for the stake and gamble that you'll win.

If you want to bet your life, why not bet on a sure thing. Wait until you know it's a safe bet. Be like the Scotchman at the dog race. He watched five races and saw the mechanical rabbit shoot down the track and get home ahead of the dogs every time. Before the sixth race Scotty steps up to the bettin' booth and says, "I'll bet ten on the r-rabbit." He was bettin' on a sure thing.

Stop, look and listen, is a good old-fashioned rule. But its an ounce of prevention that's better'n all the gambler's luck in the world.

Strong Inner Tube Real Economy to Any Driver

Air pressure is as important to a tire as oil is to the engine—its very life depends on it. Leakage of only a few pounds of air pressure in a balloon tire is much more serious than in an old high pressure tire, because it considerably increases the movement and flexing of the tire, produces faulty tread wear quickly and increases the possibility of bruises and premature failure of the cord carcass of the casing. While the usual tendency is to put an old tube in a used casing and in many instances even a new casing, this is poor economy, because an old tube is generally thinned out and enlarged in size, which not only greatly increases the porosity or normal air loss of the tube, necessitating frequent inflation, but is almost certain to cause the trouble due to the stretched out tube not fitting the casing and the resultant formation of wrinkles and pinches. A tire which is driven flat is quickly ruined.

Grave of Pet Horse Is Halting Work of Road

A horse's grave is delaying the widening of one of Texas' principal highways.

Before automobiles became common, Dr. W. W. Fowler made his calls behind Coley, a standard bred horse. Pensioned, Coley died and was buried where he used to watch automobiles pass on the highway.

Just before Doctor Fowler died he asked his heirs to see that Coley's grave be not disturbed. State highway department officials have been unsuccessful in preliminary efforts to obtain permission to move the grave and its painted fence.

NEW SPHERO-PRISMATIC LIGHT DEFLECTOR

How the new sphero-prismatic light deflector makes it very easy for the auto driver to see the traffic signal lights, thereby preventing his using the old alibi, "I didn't see the lights." The dotted lines show how the driver looks into the prism on the windshield and sees the reflection of the "stop" or "go" signal.

Pedestrian Given Right at All Street Crossings

It is of prime importance to all motorists to know that a pedestrian has the right of way at a crossing, despite traffic signal shifts. This ruling is upheld by the United States Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia. In effect the court holds that pedestrians have the right of way not only at uncontrolled crossings, but also when they have entered an intersection on a green light and further holds that the pedestrian has the right of way until he reaches the opposite curb, without regard to the change of lights during his passage of the crossing. "When a pedestrian steps from a curb to cross the street, having a green signal with him, he does so by way of invitation and he cannot be charged with contributory neglect if the signal switches when he is in the street. Caught in this position, the obligation rests upon the motorist, not only to observe the situation, but to wait until the crossing is clear," the decision declares.

Motorists Urged to Use More Caution at Turns

Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, health commissioner of Chicago, declares a large percentage of pedestrian-vehicle accidents result from "thoughtless right-hand turning" on the part of drivers. Urging motorists to exercise more caution when turning at street intersections, he said:

"A person starting across the street and walking in the same direction you are driving has his back to you as you approach the corner where you are going to turn. Even if that person sees you he does not realize you are going to turn right until you are very close. Surprise and panic and fright all combine to confuse him."

"Have your car under such positive control that you can avoid an accident regardless of what that person does. Children, especially are being injured, crippled and killed because some cars are not fully under control while making right-hand turns."

novel spectacles permit him to have an unobstructed view ahead and, at the same time, give him an idea of what is going on behind.

AUTOMOBILE FACTS

The real cause of noisy and screechy brakes is looseness, and the screech is a high pitched vibration.

British magistrates have held careless pedestrians liable for road crashes and ordered them to pay damages.

The navy parachute jumper who was injured in an automobile accident probably has his own opinion of the relative safety of air and ground transport.

Should the engine seem very rough at speeds of from 22 to 28 miles per hour when accelerating on a moderate hill the vibration damper may need attention. It may become rusty after a winter of use.

Hanging Only Makes His Headache Worse
Vienna.—Because of a headache Adolph Schuler, a Viennese locksmith, tried to hang himself, but succeeded only in making the headache worse. The rope broke and on recovering consciousness Franz found himself in the hospital with bandages around an ear which in the future will make many a prize fighter's "cauliflower" ashamed of itself.

STEERER STEERS BANDIT TO COP

Brooklyn Taxi Driver Lives Up to His Name.

New York.—Steerer is the name—David Steerer, Brooklyn, taxi cab driver. He has a good one to tell the boys.

It seems he was cruising around up near One Hundred and Eighth street and Manhattan avenue one night recently when Edward Donahue hailed him and directed him to drive down town. Steerer got the name later when it was all over and Donahue was in jail.

So along about the middle of Central park Steerer heard the glass panel behind him slide back and he looked over his shoulder to see Donahue with something bulging in his coat pocket, where Donahue held his hand, it looked like a gun.

"Stick 'em up," said Donahue, as well as Steerer could remember. He stopped the cab.

"You're wasting your time, fellow," said Steerer. "All I've got is about $18, and part of that is for the wife and kids. If you were wise, now, you'd go down to the Village Nut club in Barrow street. You can pick up a couple of grand there."

Well, they went on down to the night club and Donahue told Steerer to wait for him.

But as soon as Donahue was inside, Steerer called a cop. It was Patrolman Finn, who went in and found Donahue just inside the door, apparently undecided what he should do next. He had no gun.

Steerer took them both around to the police station, where he waited until Finn persuaded Donahue to pay the $14.00 which had clicked out on the cab meter. Donahue will have to explain away a charge of attempted robbery.

Cave Man Lover Out of Jail Curbed by Court

Detroit.—Charles Ochesky, the temperamental lover, is out of jail again, so Miss Joan Stamplen, the object of his tempestuous affections, has obtained an injunction.

Charles, Miss Stamplen told the court, was very tactfully "given the gate" once, but that didn't seem to make much of an impression. He came back the next night, broke up a lot of furniture and beat up Miss Stamplen's mother. Miss Stamplen was not impressed, and called the police.

After Charles got out of jail he made another call (uninvited) and beat up Miss Stamplen. Two days later he followed her to the home of friends and refused to leave. Again the police were called and again Charles was hauled away to jail.

"He's out again," Miss Stamplen told Judge Clyde Webster in Circuit court, "and something is liable to happen any minute." So Judge Webster granted an injunction restraining Charles from interfering with Miss Stamplen in any manner.

Motorist Helps Hiker Who Then Steals Car

Porterville, Calif.—The generosity of J. E. Collagey of Bakersfield in giving a lift to a peri young hitch hiker cost him his automobile and most of his faith in the essential goodness of women. It was indicated in court here.

The revelation came at the trial of Miss Hazel Tacket, eighteen, and blond.

Miss Tacket admitted in court that Collagey gave her a lift near Tulare, about 25 miles distant. In Porterville, she admitted, he went on a business errand and left her in the car and gave her permission to drive around a bit while waiting for him.

She took him at his word and even stretched his intention a little, she admitted, and drove to Tiajuana, about 400 miles south of here, before law officers were able to locate her and the car.

Fleeing Bandit Stopped by a Well-Aimed Rock

New York.—A bandit entered Max Schulman's drug store and robbed the owner of $50 while two pals waited outside. When the robber emerged from the store he discovered that his accomplices had been discovered. The gunman leaped on the running board of a passing car, ordering the driver to "step on it." He pulled his gun and threatened to shoot him. James Fleming, a pedestrian, observed the approaching car with the bandit pointing his gun at the driver. Picking up a stone, Fleming threw it with a sure aim, and the bandit, struck in the back of the head, dropped the gun and fell to the street. He was a prisoner in a hospital of when he recovered consciousness.

WITH ONLY 55 DAYS LEFT TO SERVE, CONVICT FLEES

Few Hours of Freedom May Bring Him Back to Prison for 15 Additional Years.

Ossining, N. Y.—John Santanella, a convict with only 55 days left to serve, escaped from Sing Sing recently by the simple expedient of walking off from the prison farm. Four hours later he was discovered roosting in a tree a mile away by a young man from Ossining, who is anxious to become a policeman and is in a fair way toward achieving his ambition. And Santanella, because of his brief taste of liberty, faces charges which may force him to spend from seven to fifteen years in jail.

When a man is nearing the end of his term it is reasonable to assume he will not jeopardize his position by attempting to escape. Sing Sing officials said. Therefore, they let Santanella and nine other short term prisoners outside the walls to work in the garden under the supervision of Keeper Thomas Curry.

At about 10:30 a. m. Curry missed Santanella, who was sentenced in General Sessions in 1926 to two years for assault, was paroled near the end of his term, and returned to prison to serve the balance of his sentence when he failed to live up to the conditions of his release.

Curry was not alarmed. He searched for the prisoner in casual fashion for half an hour and then reported his disappearance to officials. The siren was not sounded, but 50 guards who knew Santanella were sent out to search the woods for him.

Even with his long start Santanella was not able to get very far before the guards picked up his trail. Almost running into two of his pursuers in the woods near the hamlet of Sparta, a mile northeast of the prison,

NORA AND THE BUTTERFLY FLOWER

(By J. J. Walsh.)

NORA hurried along the sunny street, a demure smile on her lips.

Nora had a job in sight. Not a position nor a connection nor a contact. Just a nice, comfortable, steady job.

At the florist shop she hesitated a moment, smiled in response to the smile of the clerk looking out of the flower-filled window. Nora had exactly one 25-cent piece in her purse. To spend that on a flower for her coat would have seemed to a prosaic person the wildest sort of folly. But Nora was Irish and gay and happy-go-lucky. More than that, she loved flowers and had always managed, thus far in her art career, to stop in at least every day at this very florist shop for a flower of some kind or other. Indeed, she knew the clerk so well that she called her Hattie and the clerk called her, in turn, Nora.

"A flower for a quarter, Hattie, my pretty!" she said gaily, turning in at the narrow doorway.

"A flower for a quarter, is it?" the clerk asked cheerfully. "And would you be having, now an orchid maybe or a box of long-stemmed roses— which?"

"That short-stemmed pink bud right there, my fair lass, and do ye be quick about it, for I've a job in sight and I've no mind to lose me chances for a bit o' blarney with ye this morning, ma'am!" laughed Nora, making a deep curtsy and handing over her quarter.

On in the sun again, the rose on her coat, she was even prettier and brighter looking than before. If she felt stunned and amazed when she entered the reception room of the rising young author she hid her disappointment very successfully.

The reception room, by actual count, had 47 girls sitting there, a pathetic eagerness to please on every face. After a twenty-minute wait, during which time six other applicants struggled in timidly, Ralph Henderson Brooks came from his inner office. He looked about in dismay, ran his fingers through his black hair, which had one white streak through the side of it, and then, uncertainly, let his eyes go over each girl there.

"I am really at a loss as to the proper method of interviewing you," he murmured. "I might take you alphabetically or in the order in which you came here or—oh, I don't know."

"You, if you please, you come in first," he said to Nora.

Swiftly Nora rose and followed him into his office.

"What I want is some one to illustrate my material," he said. "I am a writer, not an artist. I know what I like when I see it," he went on with a quick, flashing smile at her, "but it has to be done on paper before I know whether or not it will do. A great portion of it is to be daily stories, syndicated, and the illustrations must be with each story when they leave my office there. Suppose you do a picture right now—call it—"

Nora, utterly amazed, found herself sitting in the corner of his office and opening her sketchbooks. Butterfly flower! Whatever in the world was a butterfly flower? She had books at home that would probably give her the information but here—here there was nothing. She glanced down at the rose on her coat, a worried little frown etching itself between her eyebrows. She wanted this job more than she had wanted anything for a long, long time.

In the first place, she needed the income from it; in the second place, she wanted to get into some steady art work rather than the free-lance work she had been doing; and thirdly, she liked, oh, ever so much, the looks of this young author with his white-streaked black hair.

Her eyes still on the rose she began to smile. With a long step she reached the telephone, looked for a moment in the book and called a number. "Hattie, my pretty," she said in low tones, "and what would a butterfly flower be like—do you know?"

"Is this Nora?" came Hattie's crisp tones. "Just a moment—mmm, here it is—heart's ease, Nora. Anything else?"

"Not a thing in the world except—thanks a lot," said Nora smilingly. "You'll please all write your names and telephone numbers on your sketches," suggested Mr. Brooks a few moments later. "Just leave them on the corner of this desk and I'll let you know." He vanished from the room and Nora, sniffing gently at her rose, sketched rapidly.

One by one the girls began to lay their sketches on the desk. One by one they left the reception room. The ringing of the telephone recalled the young author immediately.

When he had finished his call he glanced over his sketches rapidly. "My soul!" he muttered. "Will you look at this! Eh, there, do you know what a butterfly flower is, Miss—Miss—"

"Nora Rooney," said Nora demurely. "Oh, yes, a butterfly flower is heart's ease, Mr. Brooks."

"And you know this—when I asked you to draw it?" he pursued.

Nora hesitated. To say yes might mean clinching the job. Nora hated to lie. "Well," she said hesitantly, a little smile creeping in and out of the corners of her mouth, "no, I didn't. I have a friend, though, where I buy a flower every day and so I telephoned to her and asked."

"Well, let's see the sketch," he said enthusiastically. "Yes, sir, good sketch—exactly what I meant—and you've got a head on you, too. If you don't know you can find out what you need to find out, eh? Fine! If we can get down to terms that are right for both of us we're all set."

And they did get down to terms that amazed Nora. Her eyes fell on the sketches of flowers in the shape of butterflies clutching long or short stems as the artists had imagined they might look.

"But how in the world did he ever single you out to go in for the first interview when your name begins with 'R,' and he didn't know even that much about you when you went in? And the room was already full when you got there?" said the amazed Hattie when Nora stopped in to tell her all about it.

"Wait, wait," laughed Nora. "I—I asked him that after I had the job and it seems that I was the only one wearing a flower, and he likes flowers. So he picked me to come in. Oh, some of the others had what he calls 'false flowers'—you know, cloth and ribbon. But he doesn't like those."

"And I take it he liked you as well as the rose?" asked Hattie shrewdly. But at that Nora only smiled—demurely—and dropped her long eyelashes in a mysterious fashion that meant—yes!

Rapid Development of Far North Civilization

The far northern outpost bearing the curious name of The Pas has appeared in the news occasionally as the home of some doughty musher, charioteer of a dog team across the frozen wastes of the old Hudson bay territory. One pictured a few rough shacks and a few fur-clad dwellers of mixed race. That may have been true in the past, but the opening up of the mine fields of the North and the construction of the Hudson bay railway have wrought changes. The Pas is now a considerable settlement, boasting, among other evidences of advanced civilization, an enterprising daily newspaper, the Northern Mail.

It is from an illustrated progress number of the Northern Mail that one gets some facts and figures that tell their own story. The public schools have an enrollment of 773, while the Dominion business college and the separate school are running night classes. There are a dozen modern schools in the area, all well attended. The mining recorder's office showed receipts for the year of $112,000, while the local branch of the liquor commission showed a profit of $133,257. That is progress.

The Far North is not really such a forbidding place. The thermometer registers 40 below in winter, but the residents do not mind. Outdoor construction work goes on all the same in The Pas. There is no interruption. The development of this region is one of the signs of the great change which has taken place in the last ten years. The Pas will be an important station on the new Hudson bay route, whether that becomes part of a new ocean highway or merely serve local demands. The place will probably look out for a new name. Let us hope it won't find one.—Boston Herald.

Question Time

Judge Pierce Butler, about to sail for Europe, said at a farewell dinner in New York:

"The reformer has many a disappointment."

"A prominent banker agreed one day to address the boys at a reformatory. He prepared his address with care, and those hundreds of erring lads listened to him with interest. They seemed moved. The banker believed he had done them good."

"Then came question time."

"Are there any questions," he said, "that any boy would like to ask?"

"A boy with red hair and very large ears stood up."

"Mister," he said respectfully, "can you burn through them new style safe doors with an oxy-acetylene torch?"

Puzzled by Own Writing

Jules Janin, French writer, was famous for his abominable handwriting. One day a friend who received a letter from him managed with great pains and patience to gather that it was on some matter of importance, but could not decipher sufficient to understand what the matter was, so he decided to take a cab and drive to Janin's house.

"Ah," said Janin, "it is you! So you have read my letter?"

"Not at all!" replied the visitor. "I have just received it, and have come to ask you to read it to me."

"Oh!" cried Janin, hopelessly. Then with a sigh of resignation, he said: "Very well, I will try!"

WIDE RIBBON SASH IS BACK; BEACH MILLINERY NEW TOPIC

GRACEFUL berthas and capelets, much from frou and founcing of skirts, wide ribbon sashes tied at the waistline, this is not quoting from great grandmamma's diary nor is it an extract from Godey's Ladies' Book—simply an enumeration of style "as is" at this very moment.

Twentieth century moderns turning to the quaint past for inspiration, is exactly what is going on in the world of fashion today—successfully too! The venture is not without its thrills.

opaline rose on the other, is enchanting, likewise pale green with maize or baby blue with pink.

For Wear at the Beach.

Beach millinery presents a new challenge to designers to do and to dare this season. In matter of brims the spirit is to "keep on keeping on" until the limit in width is attained. Perhaps it would be more accurate to say that there is no limit when it comes to dimensions, for the

A Love of a Frock.

Fancy wearing lace mitts, and "sunshade" hats and broad ribbon sashes! Well, for one thing they are ever so flattering and prettily feminizing, we're finding that out more and more as summer comes on apace. There's the model in the picture for proof.

A love of a frock this, made of bemberg chiffon in a perfectly gorgeous patterning which silhouettes yellow tulips against a flame colored ground. The sash repeats the coloring of the tulips.

Those flounces! Quaint are they not? Modern, too! Ruffles wide, narrow, single or en suite are flourishing throughout the summer mode. It is really going to be a season of many ruffles, around little caps as you see in the picture, up and down and around skirts, frilling short sleeves. Anywhere ruffles can find the merest excuse to lodge, that will they do, this season.

In regard to this matter of ribbon sashes they are being revived in all their original quaintness and picturesque. The very wide sash, as wider the brim the smarter the beach hat.

Not only as a matter of protection, for midday's sunshade or parasol serves no better, are these hats of enormous brims winning the favor of the sea vacationists, but from a pictorial standpoint they are injecting a note of breath-taking novelty into the beach style parade.

Huge hats of straw, sometimes very fine, such as milan or hemp, sometimes very coarse, as is the new lightweight novelty straw, which is making its debut late in the season, take on multi colorings—that is, alternating sections are in various bright lines. These straw hats of many colors are worn either drooping like a canopy almost hiding the face, or their enormous brims are thrown back or blown by the wind in a dashing manner (see hat to right in lower picture).

Beach hats made of linen in pastel shades are quite the thing this season. The enormous brims of these easy-to-laundry chapeaux are draped

Perhaps, however, no more so than the narrower ribbon (preferably moire or belting) in pastel colors, the same brought about the waist neatly to the side front where it develops into flat loops and streamers, perhaps caught with a prim tiny bouquet! Ruffled gowns of chiffon, or flowered, are greatly enhanced with the cunning sashes and ribbon belts now so modish. The broader sashes are mostly of very wide soft satin or taffeta ribbon. The young woman posing to the left in the illustration is wearing a wide-brimmed straw hat in pale green to harmonize with her voguish beach ensemble. This very charming costume makes elegance its outstanding note rather than flashiness. The three-quarter length jacket and extremely wide trousers are of a lustrous tricot weave fabric made of bemberg (a fiber from which fabrics are woven) using two shades, a medium and very light.

BANANA DISHES

Only rich flavorful fruits will stand the chilling in frozen dishes without losing their flavor. The banana is one of these. It not only keeps its luscious flavor, but enhances the creaminess of any frozen dish.

The banana being rich in vitamin C it is another fruit to serve freely in various ways to keep healthful.

Fruit Ice Cream.—Rub three ripe bananas through a sieve, add the juice of three oranges, three lemons and two cups of sugar, a pinch of salt and one quart of thin cream. Freeze, after stirring until the sugar is well dissolved. Serve in sherbet glasses garnished with preserved orange peel.

Candle Salad.—This is such a dainty and pretty salad as well as nice to eat. It is not new, but may be welcome to those who have not served it. Arrange slices of pineapple (the canned) well drained, on a ruffled leaf of lettuce or a paper dolly-covered salad plate. In the center place a small banana, to fill the hole in the pineapple. This may be cut down to fit, having the pointed end of the fruit for the top of the candle. Top each with a small piece of candied cherry and place a thick mayonnaise over the candle to simulate wax.

Fruit Cup.—Dice bananas, pineapple, oranges and melon of any kind. Serve with a sauce, using lemon juice, with a bit of grated rind and sugar, to make a thin syrup. Cool and pour over the fruit. Serve well chilled, garnished with a sprig of mint or a bright cherry.

Banana fritters are delicious morsels to serve as an entree with lemon sauce. Cut the bananas into two-inch slices, dip into the fritter batter and fry brown. Keep hot and serve with the lemon sauce made as usual. As a cream pie add a cupful of sliced banana to the filling after it is chilled, top with sweetened whipped cream and dot with bright jelly or finely minced preserved cherries.

Banana Pancakes.—Mix and sift three-fourths of a cupful of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, add one beaten egg, one-half cupful of milk and one cupful of banana pulp. Beat until smooth. Have the griddle hot and well greased.

PENNSYLVANIA DUTCH DISHES

We like to try recipes which our friends have cherished and handed down in the family for years. They may not appeal to all tastes, but it is a most commendable habit to cultivate a liking for all foods that are wholesome and well cooked.

Paprika Schnitzel.—Take small veal steaks—one for each serving—dip into flour and fry in butter after seasoning well. Mix one teaspoonful of paprika, one tablespoonful of flour, one and one-half cupfuls of sour cream and one-half cupful of stock. Strain over the meat and simmer fifteen minutes. Serve garnished with fried noodles.

Sauer Gedampfte Rindfleisch.—Take five pounds of lean beef from the rump, rub with salt, pepper and a teaspoonful of ground cloves, with one-half teaspoonful of allspice. Put into a stone crock and cover with good cider vinegar, one-half of a thinly sliced lemon, one onion cut into pieces and one bay leaf. Leave three or four days, turning several times so that all parts of the meat are well seasoned. Now wipe dry and place in a scotch kettle, add a little fat, cover and cook slowly as for a pot roast, using the vinegar for the liquid instead of water; add very little at a time. This is well liked sliced cold, but is usually served hot.

Cheese Pie.—Mash one cupful of cottage cheese, add two tablespoonfuls each of cream and butter, one-half teaspoonful of salt, three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of flour, one cupful of milk, one egg, one teaspoonful of vanilla or the juice and rind of a lemon. Beat well and bake in a pastry-lined plate in a moderate oven.

Salmon Salad.—Take one can of flaked salmon, add one-half cupful of freshly grated coconut, three small pickles finely chopped, add a small amount of mayonnaise to hold together well and serve in curled leaves of head lettuce, masked with a generous spoonful of mayonnaise garnished with chopped, green olives.

Date Sandwich.—One cupful of dates put through the food chopper with one-fourth of a cupful of pecan meats, add one-eighth teaspoonful of cinnamon, one tablespoonful of orange juice and spread on buttered bread cut into rounds.

ONE PRESCRIPTION MADE FAMILY DOCTOR FAMOUS

Seldom has any single act been of greater benefit to mankind than that of Dr. Caldwell in 1885, when he wrote the prescription which has carried his fame to the four corners of the earth.

Over and over, Dr. Caldwell wrote the prescription as he found men, women and children suffering from those common symptoms of constipation, such as coated tongue, bad breath, headaches, gas, nausea, biliousness, no energy, lack of appetite, and similar things.

Demand for this prescription grew so fast, because of the pleasant, quick way it relieved such symptoms of constipation, that by 1888 Dr. Caldwell was forced to have it put up ready for use. Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is always ready at any drugstore.

People who look for trouble never look in vain.

Proud!

RICHARD Dunham, 6, of 128 Clay St., Topeka, Kansas, is the picture of health. No wonder his mother says: "I'm proud as can be of my little boy. He's always bright and active."

"I give California Fig Syrup a lot of credit for his wonderful condition. He has always been properly fed and I have given Fig Syrup whenever his appetite was poor or he seemed constipated."

You can easily tell when a child's bowels are clogged. Bad breath, coated tongue, listlessness, biliousness, feverishness, etc. tell the story. Heed these signs. Give your child a good bowel cleansing with pure vegetable California Fig Syrup. Weak bowels are toned by its use; appetite is increased; the whole digestive system benefits.

Look for the word California when buying. That marks the genuine.

This Doctor's Prescription Will Keep Your Family Healthy

Dr. Hitchcock learned during his 83 years' practice as a family doctor that 90% of all sickness starts with stomach and bowel trouble. He advised against the use of drastic purgatives which cause chronic constipation.

When any of his patients were constipated, showed signs of losing their appetite, or complained of indigestion, dizziness, headache, biliousness, or upset stomach, he gave them his prescription known as Hitchcock's Laxative Powder, and the trouble was soon removed. He found it safe for women and children; ideal for old folks, as well as for the most robust men.

Dr. Hitchcock's Laxative Powder quickly relieves constipation and makes the stomach and bowels pure and clean, by removing all of the poisonous fermenting residue of the accumulated undigested food that causes these troubles. Get a large yellow tin box for 25c at any drug store.

Mrs. Harvey Pulliam Honored

The home of Mrs. Will Strong was the scene of a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Robert Pulliam and Mrs. Earl Clayton in honor of a recent bride, Mrs. Harvey Pulliam.

The home was artistically decorated with chrysanthemums. The guests enjoyed several contests appropriate to the occasion, after which a great collection of gifts were presented in the form of the week's laundry. The many gifts were both beautiful and useful. Immediately after the presentation, delightful refreshments were served. Out-of-town guests included Mesdames Cotton, Boaz, Wortham, Record, Marsek, and Alexander, Misses Williams, Record and Crompton of Memphis; Mesdames T.
W. Bowling, R. M. Stone, J. P. Pull-iam and Emmett Dunn of Rossville; Mesdames C. M. Scott, Olivia Shelton and E. E. Strong of Forest Hill; and Mrs. Bert Owens of Moscow.

Mrs. Cecil Elliot Entertains

"Criss-Cross," the attractive home of Mrs. Cecil Elliot of Bailey, which lends itself so beautifully to every kind of social gathering was the meeting place for the Senior Bridge Club and the Young Matrons Club on last Friday afternoon. Chrysanthemums and geraniums in all their colorful beauty brightened the rooms where the tables were arranged for the enjoyment of four games of bridge.

Mrs. E. I. McKie of Phoenix, Ariz.,
Mrs. Sam Loring of Memphis, Miss
Louise Price of Laramie, Wyoming,
Miss Bessie Strong of Bailey, Mrs.
Frank Doddridge and Mrs. John Walker of Collierville were the only guests besides the club members. A tempting salad menu was served at the conclusion of the games.

We Make Ends Meet

A close inspection of our stock of Lumber, Hardware,
Building Material,
Paint and Coal will reveal the fact that we have one of the cleanest and best assorted stocks in this vicinity. And a similar inspection of our prices will show that we ask no more for it than others ask for much inferior stuff.

The two greatest salesmen on earth—QUALITY
