CHANGE IN SIZE OF THE COLLIERVILLE HERALD

With this issue we change from a six column to a seven column paper. The Herald has been printing four six column pages at home and using four pages of ready print, that was printed in Memphis. From this date we will have an all home print paper, of seven column pages, giving our readers, regularly four more columns of home printed matter each week and from time to time we expect to add even more pages to the edition.

We make this change to enable us to handle more home news items, which since the recent installation of the New Intertype machine, we are able to handle. We again thank everyone for the co-operation and support that is being given the paper and as we grow we hope you will enjoy "every inch of us".

AT BRIDGE

Mrs. J. H. Irby was the kind hostess at Bridge last Friday afternoon when the regular meeting of the Senior Club was held. A sweet pea mortif was used throughout in the lecorations. A bouquet of sweet peas was given for the high score prize, and sweet peas adorned the delicious cakes served with the cream following the games of the after-

Others besides the members of the Club who enjoyed Mrs. Irby's hospitality were Mrs. Cecil Cox, Mrs. Is bell, Mrs. Paul Wilson, Miss Tommie Thornston, Miss Louise Farabee, Miss Bertie Fleming, and Miss Frances Pope, a neice of Mrs. Irby, from Washington, D. C.

A Scientific Test of an Extraordinary Product

Here's another of the many tests and safeguards that are made to insure the nevervarying quality of "Standard" Motor Oil. It shows a "Standard" Engineer making what is known as an emulsion test, in which an equal amount of oil and water are placed in a test tube and are mixed by means of a paddle rotating at 1,500 revolutions per minute. The time required to separate, and the completeness of separation of the oil from the water, are carefully noted. This test is made to determine the resistance of "Standard" Motor Oil to becoming mixed with, or absorbing, the water which condenses in the crank case from the moisture in the atmosphere which enters through the breather pipe. Too much absorption destroys its lubricating value.

Nothing is left undone in the manufacture of this splendid product. The very newest methods and machinery, and the most skilled engineers and chemists produce for you, in the great "Standard" Refineries, the motor oil that makes motors run smoother and costs run lower. Drain your crank case every 500 miles---have it flushed and re-filled with the proper grade of "Standard" More Oil, and see how much better service you get from your car. Sash and Doors

The life of the pullets may be roughly divided into three stages: from hatching to weaning age, from weaning age to laying maturity, are to be highly productive and correspondingly profitable they must receive proper care during each stage freely, is to be preferred. In the period from weaning to matur-Mr. W. N. Strong and family and ity they should be kept comfortable Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Humphreys from and active and receive an abundance of suitable feed. This, to the end that they may build big, strong, healthy bodies which will be capable of enduring the strain of laying.

> The poorly developed pullets cannot do this. They lack capacity and frequently, vitality. They have a tendency to lay small egs, which sell ed, coat the inner surface of the glass at a discount in the good markets, and they frequently lose weight after they begin laying regularly, which is always followed by a drop in egg production. Further, they usually lay in short cycles, merely three or four eggs followed by a rest of several days.

It is obvious that such performance doesn't mean much income to their owner. But in unnumbered instances the latter is to blame because he failed to make it possible for his pullets to make satisfactory growth. At this season of the year the young pullets should be given plenty of space in the roosting quarters, freedom to range over clean, uncontaminated ground, be kept free from intestinal worms, lice and mites. And, of prime ed to enable them to grow big, strong frames covered with plumage. Do not make the mistake of considering your duty to the young flock at an end when the period of brooding is ended. If you are or expect to be a real poultryman you will give your birds interested care every day in the year.
