FACTS and FICTION BEING

a little bit about anything
"Read not to contradict and confute, nor to find talk and discourse, but to weigh and consider."—Francis Bacon.

By Harry Williamson

"Singing in the Rain," quite popular as a Radio song a short time ago, might be revived now that desert conditions have given away for a degree of dampness. Most of us were tired of being "drys" and welcomed the opportunity of playing the part of a "wet." It seems good to have the opportunity of using a rain coat or umbrella again.

Be careful how you make engagements. Remember October 1st must be held open. We all want to attend the Zander-Gump Wedding.

Europe, it seems, is once more a powder magazine with a half dozen countries playing with fire. Every time Italy's hot-headed ruler rattles his swords France builds another airplane, improves her navy or adds a few thousand men to those under arms.

Europe, we are told, is spending about $6,000,000 per day in preparing for war. "Let 'em have it, if nothing else will do 'em," is my say, "but under no circumstances must the United States of America be drawn into one of their imbroglios." "I Didn't Raise My Boy to be a Soldier" is the title of a song that roused the patriotic ire of the late Theodore Roosevelt, but many of us are ready to revive the old tune and sing with enthusiasm that "I Didn't Raise My Boy to be a Soldier—in Any Body's Foreign War!"

Einstein Theory "Simplified" reads a headline in the Pathfinder, and we welcomed the opportunity of finding a simple solution of this much-misunderstood theory. Here it is:

"In a four-dimensional world, it would be possible to turn a tennis ball inside out without cutting it. Einstein says we think we are doing one thing when in reality we are doing another; that we believe we are living in a three-dimensional world when we are really living in a world of four dimensions and we don't know it."

Now, don't you see how simple it is?
It remains to be seen how much better off we are. We got rid of Cole Blease in South Carolina, but took on Hughey P. Long in Louisiana. There is one thing about which we may be sure—Long can't be worse.

The birth of the Royal Baby, the second daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York, is said to have cost John Bull more than $40,000.00. The Scottish mother insisted that the latest member of the English Royal family should first see the light of day in the famous old castle at Glamis, where tradition has it that Macbeth plotted with the witches for the throne of Scotland's king. When the event was all over and the little 7½ pound baby girl was sleeping in her tiny crib, the expense account was near the fifty thousand mark. And just to think, she may have the three-months colic yet.

"Business is dull the world over" headlines the News Review, a new weekly publication put out by The MacMillan Company of New York. While the United States with a population of 122 million has about 2½ million men unemployed, Great Britain with only 44½ million people has nearly two million men without work.

According to Roger W. Babson, the crisis has passed. There has been no increase in unemployment, and it is predicted that during the Fall much improvement will be shown.

Now that the Collierville Herald has decided to come out regularly with an editorial page, Ye Editor might do well to practice dodging bricks for a few minutes every morning.

Before we get our summer tan off some smart one will suggest that we

FRANK PIPER IS ONE OF FOUR SELECTED TO REPRESENT STATE IN NATIONAL MEET

Record of 1930 C. H. S. Graduate Goes to National Contest of F. F. A.

Another honor was won by the Agriculture Department of the Collierville High School this week when the record of Frank Piper, a 1930 Graduate, was one of four selected to represent the State of Tennessee at the National meeting of the Future Farmers of America, which is to be held in Kansas City, October 1st. One of the four from this State will win a prize of $1000.00 in cash and receive the Degree of Future Farmer of America.

Frank's work during the last year, both in his High School studies and his Agricultural Class, were such as to win for him the Degree of Future Farmer of Tennessee, he being one of the twenty-one in the State. From this group, four were selected for the National meeting in Kansas City. This is quite an honor, both for Frank and Collierville High School, as there were 130 schools in the state that had chapters in F. F. T., and 100 students qualified for the Degree of F. F. T.

Collierville School Will Have Displays from High School Departments and from Grades

Everything is in readiness for the opening of the Mid-South Fair tomorrow, September 20th, and everything points to one of the best Fairs ever held. The exhibits are varied and many and this year a number of new features have been added. The Dairy and Livestock Departments promise a show worth while and there is every evidence of complete displays in all lines. Indications are that the attendance will be greater even than that of last year.

Parent-Teacher Associations of the entire section and other civic organizations have co-operated splendidly in the sales of Thrift Tickets to the Fair and their efforts are reported as most encouraging.

The Agricultural Classes of the Collierville High School will have an exhibit at the Fair consisting of the following:

- 12 Cardboard Cotton Exhibits, consisting of 12 open bolls of cotton and a complete record of the Project.
- 8 10-Ear Corn Exhibits.
- 10 Bushels Sweet Potatoes.
- 4 Pecks of Irish Potatoes.

The above will be found in the Shelby County Booth.

In the Dairy Department the boys will enter 3 Pure Bred Heifers.

Howard Clayton planted a corn project, using Certified Jarvis Profite, and has an exceptionally fine exhibit in spite of the drought.

From the Domestic Science Department, the girls are sending in about 65 garments, such as dresses, pajamas, underwear, and a lovely display of baby garments. The girls also sent in a display of hand-made toys. On next Thursday from 11:30 to 12:30 two of the Collierville girls will give a demonstration in making hot rolls, coffee cake, tea rings, etc. Miss Virginia Kelsey will do the lecture while Miss Florence Salmon does the cooking.

In the Shelby County School Exhibit the Collierville School will enter work from all grades, from the first grade through the high school classes. This display will consist of work from the classes in Mathematics, Latin and other departments.

From the Elementary grades there are various and sundry exhibits, too, even an airplane made by one of the young engineers from the first grade. These displays are splendid and will interest all who see them at the Fair next week.

School will dismiss next Friday to enable the pupils to attend the Fair. The local P. T. A. has charge of the selling of Thrift Tickets to the Fair and if Collierville citizens will buy their tickets here they will help the P. T. A. and save money, too.

The amusement features of the Fair for this year are especially attractive, including the largest Airplane show ever held at the Fair. The Special Feature is the "Fiesta of 1930," a musical extravaganza to be given in front of the grandstand each evening. And of course there is to be the mammoth Fireworks Exhibition!

Buy Thrift Tickets and attend the Mid-South Fair.

THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN AS A NET
 Matt. 13: 47-52

If only a temporal kingdom is seen in this parable it means but little.
 But if both the temporal and spiritual is seen it means much for time and eternity.

In the "sea" of human life, there is endless variety of form and expression.

It is the duty of the Church thru ministry and laity to "cast in the net." History shows that all kinds have been gathered into the temporal kingdom.

Men, mere men, self-appointed, or otherwise, have been busy through the centuries attempting to "cast away the bad" of the catch in the net of the gospel. Of course, there has been much waste of time and many disastrous errors along this line. But we may be assured that "at the end of the world" the angels, messengers of truth and justice will make no mistakes.

The differences in the "wicked" and the "just" may not always be seen by men. But it is a fearful truth that the messengers of God, His truth and justice, will sever the wicked from among the just at the end of the world.

The wicked cannot endure according to this lesson. "They shall be cast into the furnace of fire." Yes, this is a figure of speech. Being a
 the symbol be bad, how much worse may the reality be?

Consciousness or sense of being is here presented as not subject to death. "There shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth."

To be instructed in these things is to have the duty of giving due heed and value to both the old and the new. Forms may and do change but truth is as old as God. New ways of presenting truth are not to be ignored. Neither are the types and shadows of other days gone by to be lightly considered. Every instructed scribe must bring forth out of his treasure things new and old.

 —R. W. Hood.

ON GOING TO COLLEGE
 By Dean Massey of the University of Tennessee

In a former article I discussed briefly the cost of college education.
 What I am going to say now has the University of Tennessee as a background, but conditions are the same in colleges and universities all over the country.

Almost every day we get letters from worthy, ambitious students who ask if they can earn all their way while in college. We are forced to reply that it is very rarely done, and never done unless a student happens to make connection with some unusual job. We do not advise students to come to the University of Tennessee unless they have money enough to pay their expenses for at least one quarter. While the above is true, it does not mean that we are not glad to assist the students in finding work. I think the public will be glad to know the records some students have made as they have worked their way through college.

I recall very distinctly a rather mature man who held a good possition with an industrial plant. When he was about thirty years of age, or a little older, he and his wife decided that he was not getting the most out of life. So, with very little money ahead, he resigned his job and came to the University. Shortly after he and his wife came here, they realized that they had a most difficult task ahead of them. Instead of giving up, however, both of them deliberately decided that they would be willing to do any kind of work rather than give up. The man kept books in the afternoons for a time, but that did not give them enough to live on. He came into the office and stated the case fully. In the course of the conversation he said that he and his wife felt that if they could get a place as janitor and jan-itress in some apartment building, they could make ends meet. Together we found this place. He is now graduating with honors, and infinitely happier man than he would have been if he had not made his way here. He has the confidence and respect of everybody, and my prediction is that he will reflect as much credit on the University as any man who has gone out in recent years.

DEPENDABLE MILEAGE
 from every gallon

Hundreds of thousands of motorists have learned through experience that it pays, both in dependable motor performance and in low cost per mile, to stick to "Standard" Improved Gasoline. Summer and winter—in hot weather and cold—over rough roads and paved highways—they have found that this uniform-quality gasoline gives more for their money in motoring satisfaction.

There are definite reasons why this is so. Back of every gallon of "Standard" Improved Gasoline are the resources and experience of one of the world's great petroleum producing and manufacturing companies, with a laboratory famous throughout the industry for the meticulous care with which it inspects and guards the quality of every product which bears the "Standard" Name.

Before a "run" of "Standard" Improved Gasoline is approved for shipment to the filling stations, test after test and check after check are made.
 "Initial" and "end point"—fractional balance—absolute minimum of sulphur—freedom from gum and other impurities, etc., must conform to the rigid "Standard" Specifications.

The result is that you can buy with assurance the gasoline sold from any pump that bears the "Standard" Bars-and-Circle Trade-mark.
 This mark is your guaranty of unvarying quality. Better stick to "Standard."

Our Poultry Column

Edited by
Prof. Frederic H. Stoneburn

Without charge, our readers may secure expert personal advice on poultry matters. Address inquiries to Southern Poultry Bureau, Box 724, Memphis, Tenn. State your problem fully; enclose stamped self-addressed envelope.

DURING the five year period, 1924-1928, the farmers of New York state sold their time to their poultry flocks at the rate of 47 cents per hour. During the same period the time devoted to dairy cows returned a net income of 40 cents per hour. These figures are taken from a recent report issued by Cornell University based on itemized records kept by farmers in many parts of the state.

In said report "returns per hour of labor" represents the net income after deducting all other costs and charges, as use of land, buildings and equipment, interest, horse labor, etc. So the net profits from these farm poultry flocks amounted to 47 cents per hour devoted to their care.

IN THE long list of items analyzed, only three exceeded poultry returns. These are apples, potatoes and alfalfa. The advantage still lies with the poultry flock because this is a year-round industry and labor may be profitably employed twelve months each year instead of only during the limited periods during the growing season. One of the big problems in agriculture hinges on this, and the poultry flocks beautifully fits into the picture.

The report in question discloses some other highly interesting facts. Labor devoted to the production of oats earned no profit but actually lost 6 cents per hour; corn grown for use as grain showed a labor loss of 12 cents per hour and buckwheat lost 30 cents per hour. The reader will please remember that New York is especially adapted to the production of these grain crops and they are decidedly important there. On the basis of returns it appears that good hens and cows, properly cared for, are dependable year-round producers of satisfactory profits.

POULTRYMEN generally may derive much satisfaction from the statistical report of the national egg and poultry market situation as issued under date of August 29, by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. While egg quotations in late August were still considerably lower than at the same date last year, the general situation is steadily improving and the outlook, in my opinion, is bright. Conditions seem to be developing along the lines suggested in earlier articles in this series.

The Bureau points out the fact that during August the egg market was featured by a rapid decrease in receipts at the four big markets, New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago. Also that much of the stock received was poor in quality with many well known packs failing to reach proper grades on inspection.

This reduction was sharply felt in late July and during the first half of August the decrease became so pronounced that current receipts were not sufficient to meet existing demands. Such a situation, of course is most favorable to producers who are in position to supply fresh eggs of fine quality and, if present conditions maintain, choice eggs should soon be selling at 1929 prices.

THERE IS still a large surplus of storage eggs as compared with both the five-year average and last year. The surplus must be absorbed before the egg market can be stabilized. The shortage in current receipts has already caused rather heavy consumption of storage eggs at a date much earlier than customary. For instance, during the first two weeks of August more than 100,000 cases of eggs were withdrawn from storage in excess of the number taken out during the same period in 1929. If these excess withdrawals are continued it will require but a relatively short period for the market to clean up this troublesome surplus. Then if current shipments continue smaller than usual, as seems most probable, eggs of good quality should be in strong demand and prices rise to a satisfactory level.

I repeat my personal opinion that in the near future good laying birds well fed and intelligently managed, will be mighty valuable property.

IN THE dressed poultry market, too, arrivals at the four big markets have been decidedly less than last year with shortage of prime to fancy fresh-killed stock. This naturally caused dealers to draw upon cold storage stocks and so start the process of reducing the storage surplus then on hand. Reports from the trade indicate that there has been a drastic reduction in holdings of poultry in storage during July and August and that by mid-August there was actually less poultry in storage than there was at the corresponding date in 1929! Hence in this field the storage surplus scare has been wiped out.

During the latter part of August there was an increase in dressed poultry receipts but not sufficient to meet current requirements and the steady decrease in storage holdings continued.

WHAT IS THE outlook for fall prices of table poultry? The present storage situation should cause a good market, but much will depend upon the attitude of the big operators who usually buy such vast quantities of stock for placing in storage. On this point the official report has this to say:

"At the beginning of the new storage season, dealers in dressed poultry are reported to be somewhat undecided as to the probable developments this fall. Last year the into-storage movement was actively under way early in August. This year the dealers are showing a tendency to wait until the full effects of the recent drought on feed crops with its probable effects upon the fall marketing of poultry before definitely deciding upon their course of action in regard to storing. Indications at this time do not point to a scoring demand this fall as strong as a year ago."

But—storage holdings less than usual and current receipts insufficient to meet consumption! Such a combination should insure a good market. (Copyright.)

the outstanding work that he has done in the school and the county. Four pupils are sent by each state to the 4-H Club National Camp at Washington each year. This year two out of the four from Tennessee were Willard Colebank of Germantown, and Dorris Strong of Cordova, both former pupils of Mr. Berkley who was largely responsible for their training. He knows how to get results from his boys who idolize him and whose most serious thought as school time approaches is whether "Prof" is returning.

Mr. Berkley's visits in the homes and on the farms are most helpful. His valuable suggestions and willing services have helped to make this a better agricultural and dairying center.

Several of our teachers have been with us for some time, their homes and churches are here, and nothing would please us more than for Mr. Berkley to join the list.

Mary Emma Callis and J. C. Dixon won trips to the 4-H County Club Camp at West Tennessee Teachers College. They enjoyed the Camp and especially the honors when the members learned that they were from "Colebank's School."

Mildred Norris also attended the Camp and enjoyed it very much.

Willard Colebank was there, assisting with the games, and helping County Champions to become National Champions.

"Ask Those Who Feed International Poultry Feeds"

DOES POULTRY PAY?

Mrs. T. J. Simmons has been feeding INTERNATIONAL POULTRY FEEDS for the past two years and there has never been a time when she hasn't had fresh eggs. She now has a flock of 50 Buff Orpington Pullets that she began feeding INTERNATIONAL JEWEL CHICK STARTER. Then she put them on JEWEL GROWING GRAINS, and now is feeding them JEWEL EGG MASH and JEWEL SCRATCH GRAINS, keeping before them the Egg Mash all the time, and giving them twice a day--morning and night-- what JEWEL SCRATCH GRAINS they will clean up. With this feeding Mrs. Simmons is averaging FIVE EGGS PER WEEK FROM EACH PULLET THAT WAS HATCHED DURING THE MONTH OF MARCH.

In addition to having eggs to sell when the market price is good, Mrs. Simmons has had all the chickens and eggs she needs for home use and "Buys all the feed." She has found that it pays to Feed Chickens, the RIGHT FEED AT THE RIGHT TIME, and her chickens Pay their Way and Earn a Profit.

To the Citizens of Collierville

We, the undersigned Board of Mayor and Aldermen of the Town of Collierville, have called an election for Sept. 30th, 1930, to vote on the issuing of $30,000.00 in bonds to put in a complete water system. We have found that we will have to lay standard pipe in all parts of town except the part that was piped a few years ago. We will also have to build a concrete reservoir, put in force pumps, buy fire hose, and absolutely complete the system in order to get a reduction in fire insurance rates.

By issuing the bonds this work can be completed immediately, and the bonds CAN be paid in full within the next twenty years with the same tax rate as now. Or this work will have to be done by raising the tax rate and doing as much of the work at a time as we can pay for.

If the work is not done, it will be only a matter of a very short time until some of our citizens will have to bore their own wells or carry water for some of the lines are practically gone now, and will have to be replaced in some way.

Every dollar obtained from the bonds will go into the water works system and it will be a good investment from the standpoint of dollars and cents as well as give fire protection.

Bonds are by far the cheapest way of borrowing money and of course we will issue only enough bonds to pay for the water works system.

If there are any details about the bond issue which the people do not understand, or any other information they would like to get, any member of the board will be glad to go into the matter with you.

If you want real fire protection, a first-class water service and a tremendous saving in your fire insurance rates, then vote for the bond issue.

We have studied this matter carefully from all angles, and feel that it is a good thing for our town.
