FACTS and FICTION

BEING

a little bit about anything

"Read not to contradict and confute, nor to find talk and discourse, but to weigh and consider."—Francis Bacon.

By Harry Williamson

"Hey, you! Move down! What do you think this is, a football stadium?"

"And who do you think you are—Jack Dempsey?"

"Wait! wait! You are pushing me out of my place altogether! Get back! There is not room enough in here for all that bunch."

"Oh well, a fellow does not have a chance to get settled down here until a crowd of fresh guys comes in and upsets everything."

No, this is not snatches of conversation at a prize fight, or on a very crowded street car, but the imaginary remarks made by germs in one of Collierville's public drinking cups.

"Say, you birds are lucky," we might imagine a big fat trench mouth germ to remark as he first finds himself transferred from the lip of some unfortunate colored man suffering from this disease to the sides of the rusty cup.

"What do you mean lucky?" a less harmful germ shoots back. "There is not room enough on this cup for half of us, and yet new-comers keep climbing on."

"You are lucky to have this way of getting from one person to another," the breeder of mouth trouble went on. "Why in most towns they have drinking fountains, having long since discarded the public drinking cup, and when you get stuck on one human it is all but impossible to get off on another."

"That is worth something," a tiny sore mouth germ said, "but this old cup is so crowded that a little fellow like me scarcely has a chance to get off."

The particular drinking cup upon which these germs were holding impromptu convention hangs near a hydrant in the City of Collierville, and there it serves the thirsty passer-by regardless of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

"Say, did you germs see those two women dressed in white standing here gazing at this drinking cup a few days ago when those school girls were using it?" a lank old syphilis microbe remarked.

"Yeh, why?" one of his fellows came back.

"Trouble, that's why," the wise old germ went on. "White dresses mean nurses, and those sisters like us just about as much as Old Nick is accused of liking holy water. Mark my word, they will try to start something."

"I saw 'em," another germ shouted from the bottom of the cup. "I had just come in here—rode in on a tramp. He stopped to get some water, and I slid off to rest. He was a tough bird. My first thought was to get off on one of those little girls, but when I saw those nurses, I said, 'Hold on, if those nurses are looking after those little girls I'll stick on the drinking cup a few days.'"

"Such a life!" a tired looking T. B. germ remarked as he wiggled his way near the drinking edge of the cup. "Nurse or no nurse, here is where I get off."

Just then a little first grade girl grabbed the cup for a drink of water. The T. B. germ crawled off into the child's mouth.

"It's a shame to do it," the germ mused, as it wiggled its way down into the tissues of the child. "But this town ought to have sanitary drinking fountains. The temptation is too great for us germs. As long as they use these public drinking cups we can't resist the opportunity to scatter."

The year 1930 should improve wonderfully the speed of the American people, since they received so much training in the many "runs" they made on banks.

The way "Statesmen" act,—one of them gets up in the United States House of Representatives and calls a member of the U. S. Senate a "plain, unadulterated liar." Later on this august Statesman in the

BARTLETT AND COLLIERVILLE DIVIDE TWIN BILL

Bartlett and Collierville split a double header Friday night in the local Gym before a rather small crowd of spectators.

The visiting girls, rated as one of the best teams in the conference, had little difficulty in piling up a one-sided score against the badly crippled local sextet.

After having patched up in a way the loss of Sara Jones and Daisy Lee Kirkpatrick from the team, Coach Jacobs found himself in another hole Friday night with Ella Dudney at home sick with flu. Ella and Margaret Treadwell had developed a very aggravating system of passing which promised to help the local girls hold their own, but with Ella out, the combination was up-set, and the Bolton would-be-champs won by a score of 43 to 11.

Collierville boys romped over the Bartlettites with ease, winning by a score of 42 to 21.

LOCAL MECHANICS ATTEND SPECIAL TRAINING SCHOOLS

The Chevrolet Service Department of General Motors is holding a series of District Special Training Schools for Mechanics, giving special training in Chevrolet work.

This week such a school is in session in Memphis, and Messrs. Roy Sloan and W. B. Huffstickler, of the Kelsey Chevrolet Company, are attending this school.

4-H CLUB MEETS

The Collierville 4-H Club held its second regular meeting on Tuesday morning. The program committee deserves much credit for the interesting program which consisted of a reading by Ruth Hamner; the reading of the Club Pledge by all the members; Benefits of 4-H Club work by Doris Strong; and a talk by our county club agent, Miss Agnes Donaldson. Each girl gave a report of the work she had done. The boys agreed to plan the program for our next meeting which will be on the second Tuesday in March.

Miss Donaldson was very much pleased with the progress which the Club is making, and she urged our officers and leader to attend a leader's meeting at the Courthouse Saturday, February 14th. Mr. Nivens of the PROGRESSIVE FARMER, and Miss Mildred Jacobs, our district home demonstration agent, will be the chief speakers at the meeting.

Senate calls his liar-calling friend in the House over the telephone and uses so many "fiery cussing words" that the house member hangs up to save his ears. The Senator then challenges the whole kaboodle to "tell him to his face" that he was an "unadulterated liar." And so the fight goes on.

They were "cussing" each other over a method of relieving the distress caused by the drought and depression. While they continue their personal warfare suffering goes on except where the neighbors of humanity go to the relief.

This is an age of investigation. If all the money spent on the various commissions, committees, and other groups appointed to pry into some phase of our complex life, could be spent for constructive improvements, the millennium would come in a few years. From the Tea-Pot Dome to the Wickersham Commission we have a long line of probes and investigations, but little has ever been found that the newspapers of the country did not already know, and less was done about what was found.

Chicago is broke again, and that in the midst of a great political race. Mayor Thompson may not know how to get money to run the city government, but we'll bet he knows how to get enough votes to elect him.

Ellihu Root, now 86 years old, argued for three hours before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in favor of the United States entering the World Court.

Mr. Root is perhaps our greatest world statesman today. He would have been President long ago if he had been the type to appeal to the American voter.

F. F. T. CHAPTER INITIATES NEW MEMBERS

At a meeting on last Saturday night in the Vocational room of the Collierville High School, the local F. F. T. Chapter initiated into the Chapter as Greenhands the following boys: Milton Ballard, W. J. Williams, Leo Hill, Howard Clayton, Everett Kast, Raymond Looney and Robert Jameson.

For a "Greenhand" to be eligible for the degree of "Tennessee Farmer," he must have made and saved from a project the sum of $25; completed with a passing grade one year in high school; be able to lead a 10-minute discussion; and to have in view a greater program of work for the next three years of high school.

Following the initiation ceremony last Saturday night, the candidates were entertained by the entire Chapter, with their teacher, Mr. W. E. Robertson, assisting them.

Mr. Robertson is to be congratulated on the splendid work his boys are doing in the Agricultural Department.

GERMANTOWN BOY IS HONORED

Frank McCormack, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. McCormack, of Duntreath Farm, has been notified of having been selected for membership in the League of Curtis Salesmen, an honor organization of the Curtis Publishing Company.

Membership in this organization is gained by regular attendance at school and efficient service in the sale of Curtis publications. Frank is doing splendid work in his territory by his courteous attention to his patrons; and at the same time is doing good work in high school and in the boy scout troop. He is now working for the next advancement in the organization.

SENIORS VISIT HISTORIC SHILOH

The Senior Class, under the direction of Mr. J. H. Jacobs, with Mrs. L. P. Pearce and Mrs. Ernest Farley acting as official chaperones, spent Tuesday at Shiloh National Park where they were to study at close range the history of the great Civil War Battle.

Leaving Collierville at 6 a. m., the party journeyed to the battle field, spending the day in making a careful study of the place of historic struggle.

More about the Senior trip may be published next week when some of the Seniors have an opportunity to give first hand information of the experience.

SCOUT NEWS

The scout troop of Collierville has a regular meeting each Saturday night at 7 o'clock in the community hall. Tomorrow night we are going to have an initiation of all members who have not been initiated. We want all the scouts to come.

We would like for the parents of all scouts to cooperate with the troop by encouraging the boys to come to all scout meetings, and for the parents to have an interest in scout work. All of us know that boy scouts are good for the community when the President of the United States is the Honorary President of the Boy Scouts of America, and thousands of boys join each year.

Mr. Arnold Houston, the scout master, has put forth every effort in trying to have a good Boy Scout Troop, but before he can succeed, the town, the community, and the parents must cooperate with the troop and Mr. Houston.

Scouting is a program of interesting useful things for boys to do at their leisure. The boy scout movement is distinctly an asset to the country for the development of efficiency, virility and good citizenship.

Next week we will give all of the names of the scouts in the troop, and the names of the boys who attended the scout meeting, then we will know if the parents and sons have fallen down on their job. Scouting is a big help to boys and what helps the boys helps their mothers. Any boys who would like to become boy scouts attend the regular meeting next Saturday night, February, 21st.

BISHOP MAXON WILL HOLD SERVICES AT ST. ANDREW'S

Bishop Maxon, of Chattanooga, will hold services at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, on Ash Wednesday, February 18th, at 7:30 p. m. An invitation is extended to every one to attend this service.

GERMANTOWN FARMERS MEET

More than forty farmers and business men attended the meeting held in the Germantown Agricultural Building on Tuesday evening. Mr. W. M. Landess, county agent, spoke on the home garden. The practical talk with facts based on experience gave many good ideas to those who want to get a real profit from the home garden. Much interest was shown by the many questions asked.

Mr. Bynum, who is associated with the Tennessee Farm Bureau, made a brief talk of the advantages of being a member of the organization. His sound advice about organization work reaped the most favorable results.

NEW STORE AT GERMANTOWN HAS SPLENDID OPENING

That people appreciate the modern methods of merchandising was demonstrated last Saturday in Germantown when King Brothers opened their new Self Serving Store. The interior of the store has been remodeled, new shelving built, all repainted, and the stock attractively arranged. A large crowd of friends and customers visited the store on the opening day, and the management were recipients of many compliments on the change, as well as recipients of a good day's business.

The store will be conducted along the lines of prompt services, good merchandise, and attractive prices to all customers. Free delivery will be given.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR BANQUET

Who says the Christian Endeavor Banquets aren't all right? No one who went Monday night down to the Second Presbyterian church. Eight from here went down to help make the meeting a success, and it was truly a success from every point of view. Although Collierville did not win the banner for this meeting, everyone agreed there was no fun lacking. Dr. Ira J. Landreth was the speaker for the occasion. Those who had heard him before knew just what a treat was in store for them, and enjoyed his talk as much as the new hearers. We feel sure that every young person there received many points that he will remember. The monthly mass meetings are held the second Monday of every month, and all Christians Endeavors are urged to attend.

POPULAR MECHANIC RETURNS TO COLLIERVILLE

Mr. William (Bill) Freeman has returned to Collierville and is now in charge of the mechanical department of the Collierville Service Station. Bill needs no introduction to his home people here for they know him as a mechanic of real ability, having had much service in his line, and being familiar with repair work of all kinds. The Collierville Service Station is making a special feature of mechanical work, and are well equipped to care for your car.

DEMONSTRATE NEW PLOW

HEALTH COLUMN

By Dr. Wallace P. Moore

"FROM FLIES AND FILTH TO FOOD AND FEVER"

We have already outlined and discussed briefly three well known practical methods for community protection and control of the common house fly.

We are all familiar more or less with the fourth step or method which is the exclusion of the fly from our food and homes by screens.

Generally speaking, our better constructed homes are screened, however they may not, in some instances, be fly proof. On the other hand, our poorly constructed farm tenant homes are ineffectively screened or have no screens whatever.

The Shelby County Health Department has developed an effective plan for screening farm tenant homes at a very reasonable cost to the property owner.

In addition, the problem of protecting the farm tenant families in poorly constructed homes from the bites of the Malaria-carrying mosquito is of serious sanitary importance in the county. In many of our rural sections it may be a number of years before sufficient drainage is secured to cause the Anopheles mosquito to become very scarce, and for economic reasons a more rapid and less expensive means of malaria control than that of mosquito destruction is desirable.

The season is approaching when people are considering the screening of their homes and their farm tenant homes against flies and mosquitoes. Too often are details omitted, and the results of screening are found to be ineffective, or in fact, often useless, so that the house is made a trap for flies and mosquitoes rather than fly and mosquito proof.

A few suggestions will be given and generally discussed under the following heads: First, what materials are most suitable. Second: what screening methods are economically feasible.

Galvanized iron screen wire, 16 mesh is perhaps the most satisfactory and economical for general use. Screen wire or netting is graded according to the size of its mesh, and is known as 12, 14, 16, or 18 mesh, which means that there are 12, 14, 16, or 18 strands of wire to the linear inch in either direction. This can be determined by taking an inch rule, placing it on the netting, and counting the strands to each inch. The number of strands corresponding with the grade, namely 16 strands for 16 mesh. The black iron wire is usually 12 or 14 mesh and is not to be recommended for the purposes under consideration.

In screening windows it has been found best to screen the entire windows instead of the lower half, which is the usual custom. In most instances the upper sash is stationary, and at first it might seem unnecessary to cover this sash with screen, but a broken pane of glass may seriously reduce the efficiency of the screens, and if the entire window is covered a broken pane of glass does not matter.

Window frames can be made and properly fitted or screen wire can be tacked on the outside of the window facing the full length of the window allowing about a one inch lap along the top and along the sides, and a two inch lap at the bottom. Screen wire is fastened in place by a row of tacks spaced about two inches apart along the top of the window and at the side and by two parallel rows with an intervening space of one inch across the bottom.

Home made screen doors made of a good grade of Cypress lumber one inch thick and three inches wide have proven to be very satisfactory in every way. The screen door must be made to fit tight either to the outside casing or the inside of the door jamb. Screen doors that are fitted to the outside of the door casing are surrounded by a one inch strip which acts as an additional casing to the screen door. A screen door properly constructed, hung, and maintained can mean the success or failure of any screening job. In our experience in screening the poorly constructed farm tenant home we have found that a well constructed door made of good Cypress lumber and to fit on the outside of the original door facing is the most satisfactory door, also that the door will last several years with only minor repairs to the screen wire.

A study of the application of the screens to rural farm homes appears to indicate that practically all inhabitable houses can be effectively screened, although it will frequently be necessary to do more or less papering or chinking work, to close the numerous cracks, knot holes, and misfitted joints in walls and ceilings. It is reasonably easy and inexpensive to chink holes and cracks with paper or cloth, old rags, etc., or to cover floor cracks and knot holes with small strips of tin. Heavy brown Manila paper is best for covering the walls and ceilings and can be obtained from the Shelby County Health Department for any farm tenant home which the owner agrees to screen during the summer.

Additional information relative to screening can be obtained from the Shelby County Health Department office or any health department representative in the field.

Royal Vanity

England's Queen Elizabeth left 3,000 different dresses in her wardrobe when she died; and during many years of the latter part of her life would not suffer a looking-glass in her presence lest she notice the ravages of time on her face.

Preferred to Drill

Under the Indiana laws a century ago every able-bodied male between eighteen and forty-five was obliged to drill twice a year or pay a fine of one dollar. "As a dollar was hard to raise," say old records, "everybody drilled."

"Here's an ad full of the kind of furniture we've always wanted. Just look at the low prices on that Living Room Suite! Let's buy our new furniture now! We have always had good satisfaction from everything we ever bought at GRAVES & GRAVES, and they are extremely courteous in every transaction. We can pay for a new suite and those single pieces on easy terms from our income. Just a small deposit is all we will need tomorrow." Drop in the store when in Memphis and see these fine values.

An EDITORIAL

by your Fertilizer Dealer

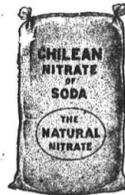

No. 1

in a Series appearing in this newspaper

YOU and I are the two most important factors in next season's crop success. If the work you do and the fertilizer I sell are the right kind, your crop will be a money maker in spite of low prices or bad weather. So I do my part by keeping a big supply of Chilean Nitrate. I can furnish as much as you want, when you want it. I recommend Chilean Nitrate... the one best nitrogen fertilizer.

Your Fertilizer Dealer

CHILEAN NITRATE has proved its superiority in every kind of test over a long period of years, and in all kinds of conditions—drought, flood, pest and disease. Crop champions always use it. For use under the crop or as side dressing it is safe, sure, profitable. When you order nitrate say CHILEAN Nitrate. Then your dealer will supply you with the real thing... the nitrogen the South relies on for better profit. That one word CHILEAN is your protection... your dealer's too. Remember the two kinds—Original Chilean (Crystalline), and Champion Brand (Granulated) both natural nitrate.

LOEW'S STATE

Beginning Friday, February 13th, Loew's State presents Joan Crawford in the exciting Metro-Goldwyn Mayer picture "Dance, Fools, Dance," with Lester Vail, Cliff Edwards and William Bakewell. When the story opens, Miss Crawford is seen as Bonnie, a carefree, sophisticated society debutante. Subsequently the family fortune is wiped out and Bonnie and her brother, Rodney, are left to their own resources. Bonnie gets a job as reporter, but her brother, unknown to her, drifts into a bootlegging racket headed by Luva, a disreputable gangster. Luva's gang is suspected of a murder and Bonnie "plays up" to the gangster in order to find out all she can for her newspaper. The plot swerves to sheer drama when Bonnie discovers that Rodney had committed the crime. There is a romantic interlude with Lester Vail which underlines the main plot. Loew's "Ace" Vaudeville offers you Roy D'Arcy in person, the man you love to hate, and four other great acts.

LOEW'S PALACE

The newest, the most delightful of all comedy-romance opens a week's engagement at Loew's Palace beginning Saturday, February 14th, with the appearance of Ronald Colman in "The Devil to Pay" with Loretta Young. Here he plays a happy-go-lucky prodigal son who, after a year or two in Africa, where his father has sent him to "make something of himself", he hungers for the lights and delights of London, and returns broke, but undaunted. With threatened disinheritance by his father, Coleman decides to marry for money but, as fate would have it he falls in love with another girl and forges money, even though she is an heiress. The girl risks being disowned for Colman, but only on condition that he never again see an actress with whom he has been keeping company. By a planned "accident" he does see her again and complications rapidly develop.

LOEW'S STRAND

Monday, February 16th, Loew's Strand presents "Fair Warning" with George O'Brien and Louise Huntington. This is the story of an untamed young man of the wide open spaces who possesses an uncanny influence over wild things, an ability to shoot straight and to fight with his fists. Because he is primitive, he does not understand the ways of men and women, but he is quick to learn, and after revenging himself on his enemies, finally turns to romance and finds happiness.

The latter half of the week, starting Thursday, February 19th, Marie Dressler and Polly Moran in "Reducing." This is a return engagement for "Reducing" and it's a riot. Take a tip—if you want to reduce the blues by a diet of laughs, see the screen's funniest pair in this comedy clean-up.

IN REMEMBRANCE

Of Mrs. Lila R. Robinson who died January 21st, 1931.

Darling mother, thou hast left us,
And we long for thee in vain;
But we know that thou art freed of
All thy earthly care and pain.
Freed from suffering, thy spirit,
And in peaceful rest thy soul;
Dearest mother, thou hast entered
In the blessed heavenly goal.

And to be resigned we are trying,
For we know God decreed it best,
And thy face, so calm and peaceful,
Told us thou hast found sweet rest.
And we could not call thee back here
To this world of pain and woe,
When in the perfect joy of heaven,
Thou forever no pain will know.

But our lonely hearts are aching,
For the face and smiles we miss;
And we long for thee dear mother,
Whom we never more shall kiss.
Home's sweet sunshine seems to vanish

As thy face no more we see,
And without thy loving presence,
It no more as home can be.

And thy place forever vacant,
Will bring memories of the past,
And our hearts will e'er be aching
For the times that could not last.

We perhaps have caused thee sorrow,
That we did not wish to do,
But we know thou hast forgiven,
Dearest mother, kind and true,

And thy spirit, ever loving,
Hovers still around us here;

Every thing and place remind us
Of a precious mother dear,
And it may not be long, mother,
E'er we'll meet in realms above,
And be sweetly reunited,
In eternal boundless love.

Then no more shall pain or sorrow
Come to grieve an aching heart,
And in joyous realms we'll linger,
Never more we there shall part.

And our blessed dreams of heaven
Will our souls then find fulfilled,
When at last, life's cares and sorrows
Shall forever more be stilled.

—A loving friend.

CHICAGO OPERA CO.
BRINGS OUTSTANDING ARTISTS TO MEMPHIS

Three Performances Will Be Given in Municipal Auditorium.

Mignon Presents Schipa. In the cast for "Mignon" are Tito Schipa, the famous lyric tenor of the Chicagoans, as Wilhelm Meister; Margherita Salvi, dainty coloratura soprano from Madrid, Spain, as Phillina; Coe Glade, American contralto who has toured with the Chicago company and sung leading roles in Chicago for three years, as Mignon, and Chase Baromeo, American basso of Augusta, Ga., who has been with the company in Chicago and on tour for five seasons, as Lothario. Emil Cooper will conduct.

"Mignon," by Ambroise Thomas, is a liberal adaptation of Goethe's novel, "Wilhelm Meister." Mignon is a girl of unknown parentage who has been stolen by gypsies and forced to dance with their troupe. On one occasion, when she rebels against her gypsy master in the courtyard of a German inn, she is saved from a beating by a student, Wilhelm. She falls in love with him and follows him around in man's dress, chaperoned by an old demented harper, Lothario. Her love for Wilhelm is thwarted by the sinister actress Phillina, until Wilhelm's pity and love for her are roused after he has saved her again—this time from a burning building. She, Wilhelm and Lothario escape from the malice of Phillina to Italy, where Lothario recovers his memory. And that Mignon is his daughter, and unites her to Wilhelm.

Mail orders for the Memphis engagement of the Chicago Civic Opera Co. are now being received by Charles A. McElravy, manager of the Memphis Auditorium, Memphis, Tenn. The prices range from $1.00 to $6.00.

Mr. Ralph Moore, of Memphis, was the guest Wednesday night of Mr. J. B. McFerrin

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Wilkerson, of Memphis, were pleasant visitors last Sunday afternoon of Mrs. Mattie Oursler and Mr. and Mrs. Perry Piper.

It is with pleasure that her many friends note that Miss Lena Horton, who has been ill for some time, is steadily improving, so that she is able to be out among her friends much more than formerly

Mrs. Henry Tipton, of Elgin, Ill., is the house guest this week of Mrs. W. W. McGinnis. On Wednesday, Mr. Franklin Harrel, Mrs. Lena Harrell, Mrs. McGinnis and her guest enjoyed several hours in Memphis.

Senior Bridge Club

A very pleasant afternoon was had on last Friday by twelve members of the Senior Bridge Club with Mrs. O. P. Piper as the gracious hostess. In the late afternoon a delectable salad course was served with exquisite Valentines as plate favors.

Sunday School Class Party

On last Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. W. N. Craig, the winning side of the attendance contest of the McFerrin Bible Class was entertained by the losing side. Readings were given by Mildred Watkins and Virginia Neely, and games were enjoyed, after which a tempting salad plate was served to about twenty-seven guests.

Celebrates Eighty-fourth Birthday

Miss Ban Lowry celebrated her 84th birthday on last Sunday when, in spite of the rain, many of her relatives gathered at her home. Although Mr. Weatherman brought out several showers for the day, the occasion was a very joyous one for the guests and honoree. At the noon hour a dinner was served that included all good things to eat--so the twenty-eight guests decided. The afternoon passed pleasantly, and as the guests departed late in the day, they wished for Miss Lowry many more such happy birthdays.

Is Hostess at Dance

Miss Margaret Treadwell was the hostess on last Saturday night at an impromptu dance that was enjoyed by about twenty young people. For the occasion, Miss Treadwell wore a dinner gown of black satin. Miss Treadwell was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. T. L. Treadwell, Jr., who was gowned in a model of black crepe. The guest list included: Misses Virginia Kelsey, Warree West, Sara Jones, Pauline Earnhart, Dorothy Briggs, Daisy Lee Kirkpatrick, Ruby Crawford, Nina Priddy, Imogene Jowers and Bernice Gatlin. Messrs. Davis Leake, Orville Carrington, Frank Wilson, Stuart Wilson, Jimmy Brown, John H. Jacobs, Howard Carrington, Aubrey Guy, Jr., Ray Seward, Lynn Kelsey, Richard Kelsey, and Vardaman Roach.

Louisa Bedford Chapter, U. D. C.

The Louisa Bedford Chapter, U. D. C., was entertained on Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Milton Mann and Mrs. S. R. Craig at their home on Southern Avenue.

During the business session presided over by the President, Mrs. B. M. Cowan, the Chapter voted to give ten dollars toward the up-keep of the school lunch room.

Mrs. S. R. Craig gave quite an interesting account of the recent General U. D. C. Convention held at Asheville, N. C. Mrs. Farley, historian, read a clipping that was of interest to the Chapter.

A delightful Valentine program was effectively presented by pupils of Miss Louise Williams, teacher of the first grade in the Collierville school. The program included the following numbers:

"Origin of Valentine"--Henry Looney
"Valentine Song"--Madison Wilson
"Choose Your Valentine"--Virginia Morris Kirk, Doris Fleming, Jasca Rose Williamson.

"Be Our Valentine"--Ruby Virginia Humphreys, Robert Hughes Humphreys.

In the late afternoon, the hostesses served a delicious salad plate on which the guests found dainty Valentine favors.
