FACTS and FICTION BEING

a little bit about anything "Read not to contradict and confute, nor to find talk and discourse, but to weigh and consider."—Francis Bacon.

By Harry Williamson

The first airplane ever to land on the grounds of the White House nestled safely on the south lawn a few days ago. President Hoover walked out and presented the Collier Trophy to Harold F. Pitcairn and associates for their development of the Autogiro. It was this type of plane that had quietly, or rather noisily, settled down in the President's domain.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Pitcairn, and his associates, have discovered the secret of safety in the Autogiro. This unusual looking plane, when it gets ready to land, proceeds to settle down on the backyard, the house top, or whatever spot it may have chosen to rest. When ready to depart, it lifts itself directly up, and goes on its way.

Speaking of the President, he talked in to thin air for a time a few days ago. Mr. Hoover was giving his Lincoln Day Address over the Columbia Broadcasting System. The control operator had a copy of the prepared address, and was checking the President word for word as he read the speech. As he pronounced the last written word, the operator immediately switched the circuit back to the announcer.

The President, however, had decided to say a few more words extemporaneously. He said them—in to thin air.

It is the rule of all broadcasting companies to give the President whatever time he wishes. This is the first time, so far as is known, that a President of the United States was so abruptly cut off.

"The secret of married happiness is work and shared interest," Lady Astor tells reporters on the 25th anniversary. She stated that their 25 years together had been very happy and very interesting.

Work and shared interest! If some of those who are making the disgraceful conditions in Reno and Arkansas possible could decide to try this recipe how much better would America. Selfishness and individual interest seems to be the slogan of quite a number of married couples in this country.

Reno's divorce mill was to start grinding on May 4th, and it was predicted that a divorce would be granted every three minutes.

Work would solve a lot of problems if we were willing to try it, and shared interest makes work worthwhile.

"Scientist to breed Malaria Mosquitoes" says a headline in the Commercial Appeal. Now, isn't this a queer world? Here we are spending millions of dollars to stamp out Malaria, and the Scientist having to breed their own mosquitoes. We suggest that they go fishing on Reel Foot Lake about Augus 1st.

How would you like to be in the shape of this old fellow? He has a deficit of $878,971,129, and owes in short term notes $3,300,000,000. Financial experts consider that the old gent's obligations are too unwieldy to handle with comfort.

The "Old Fellow" is our Uncle Samuel, or US.

While Uncle Sam is wrestling with his deficit, and floating billions in short term loans, our neighboring state of Mississippi is having its own financial troubles. With an over-drawn bank account of some $7,000,000, a threatened default on the public debt, and a bankrupt educational department; its good old state seems paralyzed as the governor and legislature glare at each other over the question of an extra session.

The Governor is apparently afraid of an extra session because of the impeachment powers the legislators have. He is refusing to call the lawmakers into session unless they agree not to present an impeachment resolution.

And back home in Tennessee the financial interest is no less acute. Suffering a loss of many millions in defunct banks and with charges and counter charges flying thick and fast about the stat capitol, the Volunteer state is standing with bowed head as the shame of political rotteness is brought to the attention of the public.

With the legislature due to re-assemble on May 25th, impeachment charges are almost certain to be brought against Governor Horton, and a long drawn out fight both in the Legislature and in the Courts will be imminent.

The people pay the fiddler, do a bit of talking, practically no thinking, and will in the wind-up line up with some politician who is able to promise most seriously the greatest amount of "pie" which today means gold of "pie".

Don Phinizy left Thursday for a visit to Decatur and other points in Alabama.

REV. MR. CARRUTHERS, NOW IN COLUMBIA, TENN., MAY GO TO HOUSTON, TEXAS, CHURCH

The Reverend Thomas N. Carruthers, for the past five years rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church here, has received a most flattering call from the parish of Trinity Church, Houston, Texas. The call came three days ago, but Mr. Carruthers did not then make the fact public, as he was weighing the matter in his mind and communicating with his vestry.

Trinity Church parish is the largest parish in the Diocese of Texas, there being 1,300 communicants on the church register. There was a delegation from Trinity Church in Columbia about two weeks ago to hear Mr. Carruthers preach, and immediately upon their return to Houston the call was made.

Mr. Carruthers came to Columbia in June, 1926, and has since been active in all civic movements, and has wonderfully built up St. Peter's parish. He has also been identified with the Columbia Institute since that time, teaching English and the Bible in this school. He has also been in charge of the Episcopal church at Mt. Pleasant, holding services there each Sunday evening and holy communion the first Sunday morning of each month at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. Carruthers is a graduate of the University of the South at Seawane, receiving his B. A. and B. S. degrees from that institution, and his M. A. degree from Princeton University.

Whatever his decision may be in the matter of the call, Mr. Carruthers' hundreds of friends throughout the town and county will join with him and wish him well, but at the same time will regret to lose him from the town, the county, the state, should he accept.

—DAILY HERALD, Columbia, Tenn.
Rev. Mr. Carruthers is a son of Mrs. Tom Carruthers, of Collierville, and was born and reared here, having graduated from the Collierville High School. His father died several years ago.

FINAL WARNING

City Marshall Lowe again warns owners of dogs to have them muzzled if the dogs are allowed to run at large. Muzzles may be purchased at the J. M. Mann & Son store.

Mr. Lowe also warns auto drivers against careless driving about town, now that school is almost closed and children will be playing on the streets more. Careful driving is a splendid habit to form. It is too late to be careful after the accident has occurred and a child is hurt.

FOREST HILL NEWS

Miss Frances Downs, Correspondent

The attendance at the Baptist church last Sunday was fine, with 77 present. The Junior girls' class was the banner class; Mrs. Alf Holden is the teacher. We are sorry Mrs. Robt. Jones, the teacher of the Senior girls, was unable to attend. Mr. E. E. Stronk seemed disappointed that he should be the only one with a birthday during the past week. The "Birthday Offering" is taken each Sunday and the money is given to the State Orphans Home. The Sunday School lesson was discussed by A. Cartwright, Mrs. Chas. Jones, E. E. Strong and Rev. Sibley Burnette in a short assembly after classes were dismissed. Many interesting points were brought out. Rev. Mr. Burnette's subject for the morning service was "Our Hope of Immortality." His solo, "Sometime," was quite appropriate. Next Sunday Mr. Burnette will be with us for our Mother's Day service. A special program has been planned. The Y. W. A. will meet in the home of Mrs. C. L. Jones on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. Miss Catherine Jones, president, urges each member to attend.

LEAF CURL IS INJURING PEACH TREES HERE

Wide-Spread Damage to Crop is Seen. Treatment for Growth of New Leaves is Advised.

In our issue of May 1st there appeared an article by Dr. J. A. McClintock about the Leaf Curl on peach trees. Dr. McClintock advised the use of Nitrate of Soda to fertilize the trees to offset the damage done by the leaf curl. He was asked how the soda should be applied, and gave directions regarding it. We are printing what he says as we believe it is valuable information for fruit growers.

"Replying to yours of the 1st, will say that I would suggest the application of nitrate of soda to leaf curl infected peach trees at once. For young trees we generally figure 1/4 lb. of nitrate of soda per year's age of the tree, i. e., for a one year old tree or a tree which has grown one season 1/4 lb., for a tree which has grown two seasons 1/2 lb., etc. For bearing trees, would suggest at least 1 pound for trees 2 to 4 years old, and at least 2 pounds for trees 4 to 5 years old. For older trees additional fertilizer in proportion to age. The feeding roots are chiefly under the spreading of the branches; therefore, the nitrate of soda should not be too close to the trunk. It should be spread in a ring or band under the branches and extending from a foot or two from the trunk out to the tips of the branches. There will be some advantage in working this material into the soil if only a few trees are treated; however, in commercial orchards it might be some problem to work all of the fertilizer into the soil."

NO PARKING IN FRONT OF CITY HALL NEAR CORNER

Parking cars in front of the City Hall from the corner of Sigrest's store back to the Collierville Service Station, has been stopped. Two or more cars parked at the Sigrest building stopped the view of the corner and made it impossible for one driving in a car to see the corner or a pedestrian until too late. A No Parking sign has been placed on the side of Sigrest's store and every one is notified not to park at that place.

A lot of singing of those good old hymns you heard Mother sing. We want you to help in the songs. Just a good old fashioned Sunday School.

We are especially inviting the fathers, mothers and grownups. Come out and bring all the folks. We are counting on your coming. The pastor, Rev. R. W. Hood, will deliver a Mother's Day sermon at the eleven o'clock worship hour. —Methodist Sunday School.

SCIENTIFIC INVESTIGATION AND RESEARCH GUIDE FARM PROGRESS

Discoveries of New Farm Methods, Improved Varieties of Crops, Better Methods of Feeding Livestock And Ways To Control Crop, Orchard And Livestock Pests And Diseases Make Progressive Agriculture Possible.

"Agriculture is the big business of the state of Tennessee and, like all big business operations in this modern world of ours, scientific investigation and research must necessarily point the way," states Director C. A. Mooers of the University of Tennessee Experiment Station, in discussing the outlook for 1931.

In agriculture as in industry, discovery and invention have very decidedly changed the cost of production of all kinds of farm crops and farmers can no longer meet future competition without adopting the most advanced methods. Attention must be given to the use of recently developed machinery, to the more extensive use of lime and fertilizer, to the warding off of insect enemies and plant diseases, and to the general utilization of improved varieties of farm crops. It is now a well known fact that scientific efforts will pay handsome returns in agriculture as well as in other lines, Director Mooers observes.

Tracing the growth of experiment stations as the chief instruments of investigation and research in agriculture, the contrast between farming conditions of 50 years ago, when experiment stations were first instituted in the United States, and those of today are pointed out by Director Mooers.

At the time when the first conception of agricultural training came with the passage of the Land Grant College Act by Congress in 1862, there were only two types of instructors available to teach agriculture—the scientist with no practical knowledge of the subject and the man with practical experience but no scientific background. During this period, suggestions for agricultural improvement in the United States were based principally upon European ideas and experiences.

The realization finally came that if America were to solve farming problems peculiar to this country, experiment stations were necessary in order that definite information might be had for teaching the facts indicated by results obtained on American soil. In 1887 the experiment stations were inaugurated and as these stations gradually matured, men trained in American colleges of agriculture became heads of the stations and it is only within recent years that marked progress has been made.

New Problems Face Farmers

In the past when no close communication existed between various sections of the country and land was new and plentiful, the land was worked in one section until the soil was worn out then the farmer moved on to another location. No question of disease resistance of plants or plant disease was considered in those days. The facts of agriculture were believed to be au-tomatically the outgrowth of experience.

With the changing times, the development of transportation, and the fact that fresh land was no longer available, came the inevitable reaping of the harvest of hit and miss methods in agriculture. The problem of depletion of the soil menaced. Plant diseases were brought into the country, spread, and have become a grave nation-wide problem. The life histories of, and remedies for these diseases must be worked out in scientific laboratories if a progressive and prosperous agriculture were to continue.
The fields of necessary investigation have multiplied by thousands. Now the experiment stations are called upon for research in soil fertility, selecting, testing and improvement of crops, control of plant disease and insects, improvement of livestock standards, the business side of farming, and myriad other lines.

Agents Get Facts To Farmers

Methods of spreading information gathered by the stations have also changed. Originally as the stations developed facts, these were published and sent out to the people but the recipients were not yet ready to interpret them. Then 25 years after the establishment of experiment stations came the Extension Service with trained workers to translate the results obtained by research and investigation in terms of the people's needs. Colleges of agriculture now train these modern interpreters and the network of communication is constantly being widened for the benefit of the farmer.

At the hub of the system stand the experiment stations with their staff of skilled scientists and field workers who must think not only in terms of present problems but also of investigations and researches that will determine the future of the country's agricultural interests.

FREE BULLETINS AVAILABLE TO FARMERS

Long winter evenings give the farmer an opportunity to secure new ideas and methods which will help him improve his farm and increase his profits.

information, the Agricultural Extension Service of the University of Tennessee has published over 100 bulletins and circulars which can be secured free of charge from county farm and home agents or by writing the Extension Service at Knoxville.

Some of the publications that should be of special interest at this time are:

Successful Livestock Feeding.

No. 113—Spray Program for Fruit Trees.

No. 133—Lime and Prosperity on the

QUICK GROWING HICKORIES IN BEST DEMAND

Farmers who have young hickory trees in their woodland will profit by giving them more room for rapid growth by removing crooked, unsound trees and trees not in market demand, states G. B. Shively, U. T. Extension forester.

Second growth, quick growing hickories are in greater market demand than old, slow growth trees because the outer sapwood used for tool handles, etc., is better developed and stronger, he states.

Hickory timber found extensively over Tennessee is used in the manufacture of tool handles, athletic goods and in vehicle construction primarily because of the strength, toughness and flexibility of the wood. For these uses, the white sapwood portion of the tree is in greater demand on the market than the red inner heart-wood. This white outer sapwood is much stronger and better developed in second growth than in original growth timber, studies made by the Forest Products Laboratory show.

Straight, sound, second growth hickory can be greatly benefited by thinning and by the removal of crooked, unthrifty, unsound trees and trees of little market demand for fuelwood and other minor uses. More rapid growth and much white wood will result with but little development of the red heart-wood.

FARMERS CAN REDUCE FIRE LOSSES

If farmers would provide themselves with simple fire-fighting equipment and organize community fire companies, and if they would use more care and forethought in building, the Nation's $100,000,000 farm fire loss could be cut in half, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Farmers Bulletin 1643-F, Fire Safeguards for the Farm, just issued by the department, discusses in detail many of the causes of farm fires and points out precautions which would reduce this huge annual loss. Copies of this publication can be secured by writing the Bureau of Information, U.
S. Department of Agriculture, Washington.

LOEW'S STATE, MEMPHIS

Friday, May 8th, Loew's State presents for the first time in Memphis at popular prices, "Trader Horn", the most stupendous achievement in the history of motion pictures with Harry Carey, Edwina Booth and Duncan Renaldo. The picture is throbbing with life of every sort—animals, insects, foliage, black men—it drifts lazily, sleepily, rhythmically into your veins until you feel it pulsating all about and thru you, saturating you with its feeling of eternal movement. The story deals with Trader Horn and his protégé, Peru, who promise a woman missionary to find the "White Goddess" of the savage Isorgi, whom she believed to be her daughter, lost in a native raid as a baby. How they brave terrors of the jungle and the savage head hunters, find the girl, escape, both fall in love with her, and Trader Horn's dramatic sacrifice at the end to send the two younger people to safety are among the elements of the tale.
"Trader Horn" is the real thrill of a lifetime.

The Stage offers Loew's "Ace" Vaudeville in the new and colorful revue "Seasons."

LOEW'S PALACE, MEMPHIS

Saturday, May 9th, Loew's Palace presents William Powell in "Ladies Man" with Kay Francis and Carole Lombard. "Ladies Man" is the story of a very believable type of character—a society man who subsists upon the money he gains from selling the gifts which are showered upon him by the romantic and philandering ladies of the social set.
Whence he came no one seems to know. Who his family is also remains unanswered. But the fact is patent that his debonaire manner, his easy charm, his romantic suaveity are all so glamorous in the eyes of the ladies that any social register short-comings he may have are forgotten. But this man-of-the-world falls desperately in love himself and would have been happy had it not been for the impending danger falling at this time ending the story with a terrific dramatic wallop.

LOEW'S STRAND, MEMPHIS

Monday, May 11th, Loew's Strand presents "Men Call It Love" with Adolphe Menjou, Lella Hyams and Norman Foster. Adolphe Menjou specializes in understanding other men's misunderstood wives when he isn't winning golf championships, and does it so well that he falls in love with one. Thereby hangs the tale woven into this smart farce and it's great.

Beginning Thursday, May 14, El Brendel and Fifi Dorsay will be presented in "Mr. Lemon of Orange." Brendel has a dual role, one as an inoffensive toy salesman and vice versa. Fifi has the role of a night club singer who is determined to put Brendel "on the spot." "Mr.
Lemon of Orange" provides one of the biggest laughs of the year.

Debt of Helpfulness

Such help as we can give to each other in this world is a debt to each other; and the man who perceives a superiority or a capacity in a subordiit, is not merely the withhold-er of kindness, but the committer of injury.

No. 7

in a Series appearing in this newspaper

YOU know the fine crops many farmers you round here get year after year with Chilean Nitrate of Soda. They side dress with Chilean and it pays them well. This year with Chilean selling at the lowest price in years, there's no sense in thinking you can economize with unproved fertilizers. Use plenty of Chilean and you'll get a good profitable crop.

Your Fertilizer Dealer

AND when you order, be sure to specify "Chilean". It contains rare elements in addition to Nitrogen that make it the super-nitrate. It is Nitrogen PLUS, for it contains iodine, boron, magnesium, plant foods in themselves. Remember that Chilean is the proved fertilizer. Side dress your crops with it. At the new low price and in the new 100 lb. bag, it is a better buy than ever before. Remember the two kinds—Original Chilean (Crystalline) and Champion Brand (Granulated) both natural nitrate.

MOTHER'S DAY 1931

This year when we come to the lovely day in May, when the whole world remembers "Mother," we are being led to think of some of the real problems of Maternity which confront us here in America. We have enjoyed sending our flowers and found satisfaction in expressing our love. How much more happy will our mothers be that at last we are thinking of saving the life and prolonging the health span of the mothers.

Statistics show that in a list of twenty-two countries, the United States stands twentieth, having a Maternal death rate of 6.8 per 1,000 live births. Denmark has the best record, having a rate of 2 deaths for every 1,000 births. Sweden, Italy, and Japan come well ahead of our own country. We know how many mothers die; we do not know how many are rendered invalids and live on to suffer and drag out a miserable existence.

So we want not only to prevent deaths from child-birth, but also to prevent the invalidism which so often follows. In Shelby County we lose about 9 mothers for every 1000 live births—higher than the rate for the country as a whole.

The remedy for this condition lies in the provision of good prenatal care and medical attention at the time of birth. Our people, with a good physician easily available, call on a midwife and entrust this important duty to her. If all goes well the midwife may manage, but she is absolutely unable to cope with any emergency. The doctor's skill and knowledge are often taxed to the utmost—how much more is an untrained woman incapable.

And so, first of all, on the Mother's Day, if we can be sure that every parent knows the importance of prenatal care and that expert medical care is necessary at child-birth, we have done a great deal toward preventing loss of life and health. Some lightly say that their mother had twelve children and she had never seen a doctor. On the other hand how many white flowers will be worn Sunday. We cannot leave anything undone today to prevent such tragedies as have occurred in the past.

Let us make Mothers truly happy on this day set aside to honor them, by resolving to do all in our power to make Motherhood safe and happy.

THE ROCK GARDEN
By Jessie Mal Godwin
Of Biology Class

As we had been studying flowers it was an educational trip as well as a pleasure trip when the Biology Class examined Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McFerrin's flower garden. We took notes and wrote down the names of the flowers and their dominant characteristics.

The red and pink phlox was a genus of tall erect spreading herbs. The flowers were very showy with five petals. The wild sweet William of our own woods is a form of phlox.

The petunias were familiar to us all. They were of a single form and with variations in colors.

The beautiful pinks are from the same flower family of the carnation. The pinks had rough-margined leaves and fringed petals.

The verbenas vary greatly in color, and are born in clusters, and the stems are of a spreading form.

The Chinese For-Get-Me-Not is a small flower with bright blue flower. This flower is treated as an emblem of friendship and fidelity.

Tulips are bulbs of solid colors. The tulips in this garden were of a single form.

The violet pansy is an irregular five-petaled flower with incised leaf and large stipules. The cultivation of this flower has developed many different shades and combinations of color.

The nasturtiums are smooth herbs having mostly climbing stems, and showy spurred flowers in widely varying shades of red and yellow. Nasturtium seeds and flower buds are sometimes used in salads and pickles.

The canna has simple stems and large leaves. The canna we examined was not in bloom.

The Marguerit Daisy was a rather tall stemmed plant. The Daisy looked something like a chrysanthemum. They were not in bloom.

We examined other flowers, lily, bleeding heart, cactus, dusty miller and statice.

DOLLAR BRINGS BACK $4.33 IN FARM TESTS

An investment of one dollar in quick-acting nitrogen brought back $4.33 to nearly 4,000 Southern farmers who conducted demonstrations with the principal crops during the last eight years.

Besides revealing the deficiency of nitrogen in Southern soils, the results of the demonstrations show that the use of quick-acting nitrogen is one of the most profitable investments that can be made on the farm. The nitrogen fertilizer used in all the demonstrations was Chilean nitrate of soda.

According to the summary, a dollar's worth of nitrate used for cotton returned on the average $4.78; for corn, $3.37; oats, $3.24; wheat, $2.94; sugar cane, $4.16; and tobacco, $12.83.

The demonstrations were conducted under widely varying conditions as regards soil and climate. In every case the fertilizer application and the harvesting of the crop were checked by county agents or vocational teachers.

A party composed of twelve people left Collierville by motor last Saturday for Shiloh National Park. They put up for the night at the Pine Rest Hotel, and after dinner enjoyed bridge, dancing and bowling until a late hour. On Sunday morning, an experienced guide, who as a boy of eleven lived only a few hundred yards away during the battle, conducted a tour of the 3,600 acre battlefield where 100,000 men were engaged and 23,000 were either killed, or wounded, or missing. It was the bloodiest battle of the Civil War, as neither side used any protection in the way of ramparts or trenches, and much of the fighting was with bayonets.

The party returned Sunday evening by way of Rogers Springs, owned by Dr. J. C. Parr. Those who made the trip were: Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Leake, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hudgins, Misses Jean Craig, Marjorie Craig, Elizabeth Parr, and Frances Stamps, and Messrs. Roe Cartwright, Paul Duke, John Everett and Frank Pope.

Entertains at "School" Party

Miss Florence Coyle entertained a few friends with a very unusual and delightful "school" party on Thursday evening of last week. The guests were presented with beautifully decorated booklets containing contests in spelling, history, and English. Miss Nellie Bryan was winner of the spelling test; Miss Frances Stamps of the history, and Miss Dolly Leake surprised her contestants in the English contest. After a short recess, there followed a test in music appreciation. Miss Dorothy Dean proved herself the most competent in this study, and thereby won a very musical little bell. Following this interesting study in popular music, came the number lesson that was a clever way of having one's fortune told. After the second recess, came perhaps the most hilarious of all contests, that of art. The guests were instructed to draw a little girl with a May basket. Miss Linnie Sue Thomas proved to be the best artist of the group. After the contest, the guests were served with a tempting salad course. Miss Coyle was assisted in serving by her mother, Mrs. F. A. Coyle.

The guests were Misses Frances Stamps, Louise Williams, Elizabeth Thomas, Linnie Sue Thomas, Ruth Piper, Dolly Leake, Doris Dudney, Ruth Weinstein, Dorothy Dean, and Nellie Bryan.
