These abstracts of obituaries, death notices and funeral notices have been extracted from the Delaware Gazette. Every effort has been made to extract the information as it was originally printed. Names are reproduced as they were published, with no attempt to resolve differences in spelling for what appeared to be the same family name. The oratory and prose of the obituaries are not included.

All survivors mentioned are listed. In the case of cause of death, that too is included. Some of the terms for a disease are no longer in use, or are known by other names today.

In many cases the only mention of a death or funeral appears in the weekly columns contributed by correspondents from the Townships and small villages, such as Ostrander, Bridle, Berlin, Woodgrove, etc., and are indicated at the beginning of the citation, such as Brown or Hyattsville. Some of the deaths are mentioned more than once.

Base Hospital, No. 23,
Nantes, France,

Oct. 9th 1918

My Dear Mrs. Bonham:

Just one year prior to his death his wife left for New York to spend the few remaining days with him before his embarkation. While there she was doubly impressed by the high esteem in which he was held by both officers and men alike.

Charles had a strong character, honorable and loyal by nature. A winning personality to know him was to love him. He was possessed with a shrewd business tact.

Charles' friends were many. We who knew him know that he answered the final roll call fearlessly, bravely and well, knowing that he "had fought a good fight and had finished his course." He gave up his splendid young life that others might live in freedom and happiness.

And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more deaths, neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any
