NO. 10.

HOW IT WORKS.

The case of Henry Cresswell presents a fair illustration of the working of the Colony plan in so far as it benefits the working man. For Mr. Cresswell is essentially a working man and although he is nearly 85 years of age, he seldom misses a day of manual labor. He came here about thirteen years ago and took up six acres of Colony land, the rent of which was at that time $3 a year. Since then the rent has gradually advanced until this year the same six acres pays $90 a year, and Mr. Cresswell has been forced to relinquish all of it but about two lots on which his house stands.

Now compare this with the case of H. C. Oswalt. Mr. Oswalt came here at the same time Mr. Cresswell did, but instead of taking Colony land, he chose to buy 40 acres for which he paid $50. He has since sold $2,000 in lots from it and has half of it left. We are not citing this case as an argument for or against the Colony, but merely to illustrate the manner it has effected these two men who were among the early comers. Both are growing old and can't hope to fight the battles for a livelihood much longer. One of them preferred to take advantage of his opportunity and buy land to hold for a rise in value. The other selected Colony land with the result that he must lose it and have nothing to show for his thirteen years of toil. The Colony has many advantages but this is one of the cases where the advantage is not apparent.

JUDGE SAMUEL B. BROWNE.

We are authorized to announce Judge Samuel B. Browne as a candidate for re-election to the office of judge of the 13th Judicial circuit of the State of Alabama.

NEW CHURN AND SEPARATOR

The increased business of the Fairhope Creamery has made it necessary to install a new and enlarged separator which has been ordered and is expected this week. A new churn has been ordered also from Capt. McDermid, who manufactures them in Rockford, Ill. It is expected that with the increased facilities the business will increase during the summer, and that the Fairhope Creamery will become an important factor in the development of Baldwin county. Arrangements have been made with farmers at Point Clear and Barnwell to bring their milk and cream to the creamery next month.

Mr. Berglin has declined several offers of partnership in the creamery. He says with ten cows a man can make a living here now, even if he has to buy his own feed. Many days the creamery makes 50 pounds of butter, but is still unable to supply the home market. During Mardi Gras the cream was all shipped to Mobile as it pays much better than than making butter. During the summer it is probable that the cream will be used in Mobile and very little butter made here.

DEAD HEADS IN THE BAY.

The dead heads floating around in Mobile Bay are a menace to life and property and ought to be removed. The United States government keeps the channel clear of them for which it is allowed a special appropriation, but outside the channel no attention is paid to them. Occasionally private parties send out after some of the more dangerous ones, notably the Bay Steamship Company. These dead heads are the remains of old piling that has gotten loose and float about, usually with one end sunk in the water, and the other bobbing up and down. The heavy end is due to the barnacles which have formed on it in the water. About seven years ago one of these heavy piles struck the Steamer Carney in the river and sunk her. During the storm last month the Steamer Lucile lost her wheel in the same way down at Battles.

The average man who poses as a student of human nature hasn't mastered the elementary principles of the subject.

COMMERCIAL CLUB.

Of Daphne Is Organized to Advertise the Place.

At a meeting of the citizens of Daphne, held at the Normal Auditorium Feb. 22, an organization was effected for the purpose of advertising Daphne. The organization will be known as the Commercial Club of Daphne. The following officers were elected: W. D. Randall, president; B. F. Bates, vice president; Harry Holland, recording secretary; Prof. B. B. Baker, corresponding secretary; A. E. Strong, treasurer; L. C. Pomery, publicity agent. Committees were appointed as follows: Advertising, finance, information, constitution and by-laws. E. Q. Norton was appointed chairman of the advertising committee and of committee on constitution and by-laws. The committees were expected to make their reports Tuesday of this week.

It was the opinion of every one present that this was the very thing needed to boost Daphne, and that all that was needed was to advertise the possibilities in this vicinity, of the yield per acre of the different crops. An effort will be made to get the railroads interested in distributing advertising matter such as will be furnished them.

TROLLEY LINE.

May Be Built Connecting Mobile With Pensacola.

Word has been received from Mr. Ingalls, who is interested in building an electric line along the eastern shore that he expects to leave Florida for Chicago next week, and will then take the matter up with his company. Mr. Parker of Volanta has completed the survey and forwarded the maps and all necessary data to the Chicago office of the company. Three routes were surveyed, one of them being much more favorable than at first supposed. Much depends on the result of this survey, and the estimated expense, whether the company will build the road. If it is decided to build, operations will be started at once, and the construction gang will be put to work.

It is understood, however, that while the survey only includes the route along the eastern shore, the ultimate purpose is to extend it across Baldwin county to Pensacola. The company evidently believes that it would be a pretty good business proposition to connect two large cities like Mobile and Pensacola with a trolley line. This same company has been engaged for the past 25 years in this kind of railway building, and has just completed a similar road in Indiana.

In response to a call a meeting of prominent citizens was held in the Commercial Club rooms, Mobile, Feb. 16, for the purpose of taking action on the proposed road to be built along the eastern shore. Judge Anderson acted as chairman, and Mr. E. Q. Norton was made secretary of the meeting. Addresses were made by Mr. Pillins, Dr. Greeno, Mr. Norton, Mr. H. Parker, Mr. Posey, Mr. Robertson and E. B. Gaston.

Mr. Ingalls' proposition to build an electric road along the eastern shore received many encouraging comments, and a committee of nine persons was appointed to confer with him and learn upon what conditions he desires to enter upon the work, and what aid, if any, he expects or desires the citizens to render. The committee is as follows: Dr. H. S. Greeno, Fairhope, chairman; E. Q. Norton, Daphne; J. B. Robertson, Sea Cliff; P. A. Parker, Volanta; A. Moog, Battles; Judge Anderson, H. Pillins, J. K. Glennon and A. E. Stiles of Mobile.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY BUILDING UP AGAIN

Washington.—To provide for a building in Washington for the geological survey and the reclamation service, a provision for which was stricken out of the sundry civil bill on a point of order, Representative Bartholdt, of Missouri, has introduced a bill appropriating $1,500,000 and authorizing the immediate expenditure of $100,000 for preparing plans. The bill was favorably reported by the committee on public buildings and grounds shortly after its introduction and early efforts to insure its passage will be made. The site for the proposed building was purchased some years ago.

BOAT NEWS.

The Eastern Shore takes pleasure in saying that it understands through the manager of the Bay Steamship company that the company's steamers "Pleasure Bay" and "James A. Carney," are undergoing a thorough overhauling preparatory to resuming the eastern shore trade sometime between April 1 and 15. This news will be gratifying not alone to the eastern shore people but the public at large.

The managers of the steamer Fairhope have about concluded to run around the shore in the summer time instead of making the direct trip to Mobile from Fairhope. They are encouraged to do this by the business they are getting at the present time. Several days lately they have been obliged to refuse freight at Mobile, being overcrowded.

The new wheel which the steamer Lucile has recently had made for her is pitched for greater speed, and she runs better in shoal water now. The other day she left Daphne 19 minutes behind the Fairhope and beat her into Mobile by five minutes.

The "Myrtle" is the name of a new gasoline launch which has been carrying freight to all landings for the past few weeks.

CIRCUIT COURT WILL MEET

The spring term of the circuit court of Baldwin county will convene at Bay Minette March 22. Among the jurors called are the following: Grand Jury. S. S. White, Daphne; W. M. Gilmore, Battles. Petit Jury, first week, John Schermer, Battles; G. E. Perkins, P. J. Creager, Fairhope; J. B. McGill, Daphne; William Steetzemiller, Point Clear; Gus Dade, Battles; second week of petit jury, A. F. Hutching, Battles; Z. M. Bush, Daphne; W. W. Leavins, Point Clear; W. H. Stapleton, Volanta; E. T. Molyneaux, Fairhope.

REUNION BLUE AND GRAY.

The reunion of the Federal and Confederate Veterans which occurred at the pavilion in Fairhope Thursday, March 4 was a most enlivening and enjoyable affair. A large number came over from Mobile in the morning, including the members of the Raphael Semmes Post, C. V. and joined the members of the G. A. R. in Fairhope. The program as arranged was as follows:

In the morning, informal social greetings.

At noon, refreshments.

Afternoon.

Song, America.

Address of Welcome, Mayor H. S. Greeno.

Response, Comrade Geo. T. Lyndall, Raphael Semmes Post, C. V.

Music, "Dixie," Fairhope orchestra.

Address, Judge J. H. H. Smith, Bay Minette.

Address, Rev. E. R. Clarkson, Fairhope.

Address, Hon. Max Hamburger, Mobile.

Music, "Star Spangled Banner," orchestra.

Recitation, "Rappahannock," with musical accompaniment, P. Y. Albright, Fairhope.

Short Speeches from Comrades of the Blue and Gray.

Song, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Benediction.

"GENTLEMAN OF LEISURE" IS CHICAGO PATROLMAN

Chicago.—Chicago's richest patrolman, Michael Hasset, lays aside his star and club and becomes a "gentleman of leisure," with an income estimated at from $500 to $1,000 a month. For the past 20 years he has been a member of the force. He has been conspicuous for his charity towards the poor of his district. His fortune, which is estimated to be about $150,000, was made through real estate investments extending over many years.

Many a man who is regarded as a good catch is found to be not worth holding.

NATURE IN EDUCATION.

Part of An Address By James Ballan-gee Before the Progressive League.

There is no worship higher than love of truth; no sacrifice more de-basing than indifference to it; no prayer more effective than the diligence of an earnest spirit. There are no scriptures more authoritative than the immutable laws of the universe; no instruction that outranks the teachings of experience, and no spirituality that fills the heart with its uplifting power that does not come from the comprehension and acceptance of the eternal purposes of the Creator. The plans of the infinite are around about and not above our cradle in the finite. We may touch their verdant borders on every side if we but stretch forth our hands and over their limitless beauties we may gaze at will when we stand erect in the full stature of manhood.

There is nothing common and unclean. There are no negligible quantities. Nothing that does not have its unchangeable relation to other factors. Education in its ultimate analysis is the teaching of these relations. In its plans too much emphasis cannot be placed upon the value of the study of nature through experience. Both experience and observation outrank in importance the word of authority.

The place in a scheme of education that falls naturally to Organic Education is a fundamental one because it makes much of the influence of experience, but no education is complete that does not develop the faculty of generalizing, and that does not stimulate the sensitive appreciation of the fundamental importance of natural law. We call the former reason and the latter conscience. No one can have a safe and clear conscience who is not a clear reasoner. The cultivation of both must go along together, and both are stimulated by the study of natural law. No one can have either reason or conscience highly developed who cannot make the most of experience.

There is no victory that attends the winning of any specific object in life that begins to compare in satisfaction to the soul with the joy that comes to us when we find we have met squarely and fairly the demands of natural law. I might with perfect propriety have used the expression, with the joy that comes with doing right. But that expression "doing right" in human speech is so often used to express mere obedience to human authority that I prefer in this connection to use the other phraseology. The essence of doing right is conforming with the purposes of nature, and the joy comes not from the doing but from the recognition that what we do is right. It brings with it not only a strengthening of our faith, and a stimulus to our hope, but an added power to our purpose and a keener appreciation of the true relations of the factors with which we have to deal in the problems before us. It is the joy of growth, the reward of fulfilling our destiny.

The exceeding sinfulness of sin does not consist in the culpability or wilfulness of the sinner, but in the disturbance of natural relations, and the establishment of artificial standards of actions. Instead of reflecting God's image imprinted in nature's law, the sinner by his sin obscures that image by compelling others to give more or less recognition to artificial authority. One of the attributes of the divine is truth. To live a life of deception, either in business or social relation, is to sin, because such a life does not reflect the facts of nature. No authority of law, no sanction of custom, and no maxim of business can justify cunning or misrepresentation in public or private life. To the true man "love is the fulfilling of the law."

THEY WILL HAVE NO RECEIVER FOR EQUITABLE.

Washington.—The supreme court threw out the case of J. Wilcox Brown against the Equitable Life Assurance Company of New York, in which Mr. Brown asked for a receivership for the company and an accounting of its funds, alleging that the company was mismanaged and the funds squandered. The case originated in the lower New York courts, and the higher courts of the state sustained the lower courts at first and then overruled. The action defeats Mr. Brown's attempt to place the company in the hands of a receiver.

THE COLONY ELECTION.

The management will remain in the hands of about the same persons.

The Colony election, which occurred Feb. 4, presents some interesting contrasts. Of the fifty six votes which were in town that day and might have voted, 40 were cast, G. W. Wood receiving the highest number of 39. Following is the result of the vote:

For President—Frank L. Brown, 25; A. H. Mershon, 8; W. W. Kile, 5. Vice-President, James S. Paton, 14; Mrs. A. B. Call, 25. Secretary—E. B. Gaston, 28; Miss Chapman, 4. Treasurer—G. W. Wood, 39. Councilmen—Superintendent Banks and Highways, G. M. Bancroft, 33; Superintendent Public Services, J. F. Johnson, 31. For Trustee—J. W. Braam, 32; Miss Clement, 6.

Both Mr. Kile and Mr. Mershon refused to permit their names to be presented, in fact there were no opposition candidates nominated except Mrs. Call whose name was presented by Mr. Paton. All the other names voted for except the successful candidates, were not regularly placed in nomination. This has led to the belief that had their been an organized effort and a regular ticket presented that evening, it might have been elected. But what might have been, is a very uncertain quantity in politics.

But "what is to be should be," we suppose, and it is probably ordained of providence that these same well meaning gentlemen should always hold the offices of the Colony. Some of them came over in the Colony Ark, and there is a superstition among them that there is a Colony heaven where they will all go some day, though they are not quite agreed that the same faithful few will hold the offices when they arrive there.

The election of Mrs. Call as vice-president is the one hopeful thing about the election. Her presence in the Colony council is like a breath of fresh air.

The management may succeed in forcing through their cut and dried plans just as they have always done, but it will not be without some searching investigations hereafter. Mr. Johnson is another new member of the council; he is too young in the business to predict whether he has a mind of his own or not. One member of the Colony council frankly admits that he frequently finds it difficult to distinguish between right and wrong. This is the kind of material the management prefers to keep on the council, as they are more easily influenced.

A HALL IN FAIRHOPE.

Fairhope needs a hall suitable for concerts, entertainments, lectures, suppers, dances and religious services. The Christian church has been very liberal in permitting the use of its building for almost any purpose, but it is evident that they would rather some of the things that are taken there would go elsewhere. The people of Fairhope are particularly fond of public meetings, and more than any other place in this vicinity there are reasons for building a hall here for public purposes. A hall similar to the old one that blew down in the storm two years ago could be built for $1,000, which would serve the purpose until we are able to build something better. There would be subscriptions and volunteer labor and material enough to half pay for it, and the balance could be raised with entertainments after the building is completed. You can put us down for $25 towards the new hall.

FAIRHOPE LOCALS.

Major Tibbetts tendered the government boat "Winona" to the Raphael Semmes Post for the use of the Confederate veterans in their trip to Fairhope Thursday for the reunion of the Blue and the Gray.

The entertainment given at the Christian Church Feb. 19, for the benefit of Laurie Tilson, cleared $28, which was handed to him and was greatly appreciated. Laurie's broken leg healed very slowly at first, and had to be re-set several times. At present he is doing very well at the Sanitarium. Members of the K. of P. lodge have been taking turns in sitting up at night with him. Capt. Welsh has agreed to pay Laurie his salary while he is laid up.

Mounted Nurses.

Army nursing will be revolutionized as the result of a course of training instituted at the North London Riding School where the Islington Drill Brigade Girls' Yeomanry, twenty-five strong, is showing what mounted nurses could do in the field. The innovation will be brought unofficially to the notice of the British Military Department at the next annual show of the army and navy, and it is believed the army medical corps will give the idea more than passing consideration. The work of the girls' brigade is a revelation to every army officer who witnesses it.

Nurse and Wounded Soldier.

They are trained to all the arts of nursing before being advanced to the brigade service. In this their work is to bind up the wounds of any soldier found helpless in the field, hoist him upon their horses and ride with him to the field hospital. All this they do in their drills with surprising proficiency.

Army officers are already discussing the practicability of the plan. The most reasonable objection urged is the question of being able to mount nurses where every available horse is needed for fighting and transport work. Most of the officers admit that the women would be invaluable if they could be equipped and so maintained.

Admittedly it would be out of the question to have such a mounted nurse corps in desert fighting, such as English troops are frequently required to engage in, but on European battlefields there is no reason why they could not be used to distinct advantage.

The Islington Brigade has been officially invited to attend the next military tournament, and it is by no means improbable that they may ultimately be the nucleus of similar corps throughout the army.

Dedicate Gift of Mackays.

By act of the Legislature a State holiday was declared to celebrate the dedication of the Mackay school of mines and the Borglum statue of John W. Mackay, both presented to the State and university by Clarence H. Mackay and his mother, Mrs. Marie Louise Mackay. As an additional evidence of the appreciation of the State, Governor Dickerson extended

ACCIDENTS TO ATHLETES.

Importance of Training and Care—Results of Overdoing.

Games and athletic sports may, first and last, be responsible for so many kinds of bodily injury that it would be impossible to enumerate them; but they may be divided, for convenience, into two groups.

There is first the kind of injury that results from external violence or from incorrect use of the body in the immediate game. Under this head would come all cases of bruises, sprains, contusions and strains. The second group would include all functional troubles, such as heart strain, insomnia, or impairment of function in any of the organs of the body.

In the first class, where the bruises and sprains are the direct result of the inevitable rough and tumble of the game, as in football, there is nothing to be done about it except to draw up and abide by rules which eliminate unnecessary violence and then meet the fortunes of war. On the other hand, there is an immense amount of bruising and spraining which might be avoided by proper training.

Proper training—gradual training—means as much as anything else. Muscles and tendons will not submit to insult with any better grace than the rest of the body, and when they are called upon to perform tasks they have had no preparation for they will almost certainly rebel.

A physician who speaks from the enormous experience in this line of work gained in a large college town makes the interesting statement that in his experience there are more strains and sprains occurring in the first few weeks of the October term than at any other time of the year. He argues that in the long vacation the average undergraduate is not calling upon his muscles for any very violent exertion, and that on his return to college he demands too much of them too suddenly.

Temperature also makes a great difference to the athlete. In warm, damp weather movements may be made with impunity which would result in trouble in dry, frosty weather.

The trained athlete will take care to have his limbs sponged with warm water before he starts, and the sophomore who stands around the field half dressed and getting chilled through is doing a foolish thing.

The other group of cases mentioned—the dilated hearts, irritable hearts, and so on—is usually the direct result of overdoing. They are generally only temporary if discovered in good time and appropriate rest may lead to much trouble and materially shorten life if ignored. Rest will always form the basis of their treatment.—Youth's Companion.

Misplaced Confidence.

"I reckon you have to watch your pocketbook an' overcoat an' watch an' so on, pretty close, don't you?" a Western visitor to New York asked a friend, a native of that metropolis, as they were starting out to view the city, and, despite the citizen's assurance that no more than ordinary vigilance was required, the Westerner proceeded "to keep his eye skinned," much to his friend's amusement.

Presently they entered a cafe for luncheon. The New Yorker was discoursing gayly upon the greatness of his native city, when he observed that the other had an expression on his face much like that of a cat at a mouse hole.

"What are you watching so closely?" he inquired.

"Just keepin' an eye on my overcoat," the other replied.

The New Yorker laughed.

"Oh, the coat's all right. I'm not worrying about mine, you see, and they are hanging together."

"No, they ain't," the Westerner drawled. "Mine's still there, but yours is gone—feller walked out with it 'bout ten minutes or so ago."—Harper's Weekly.

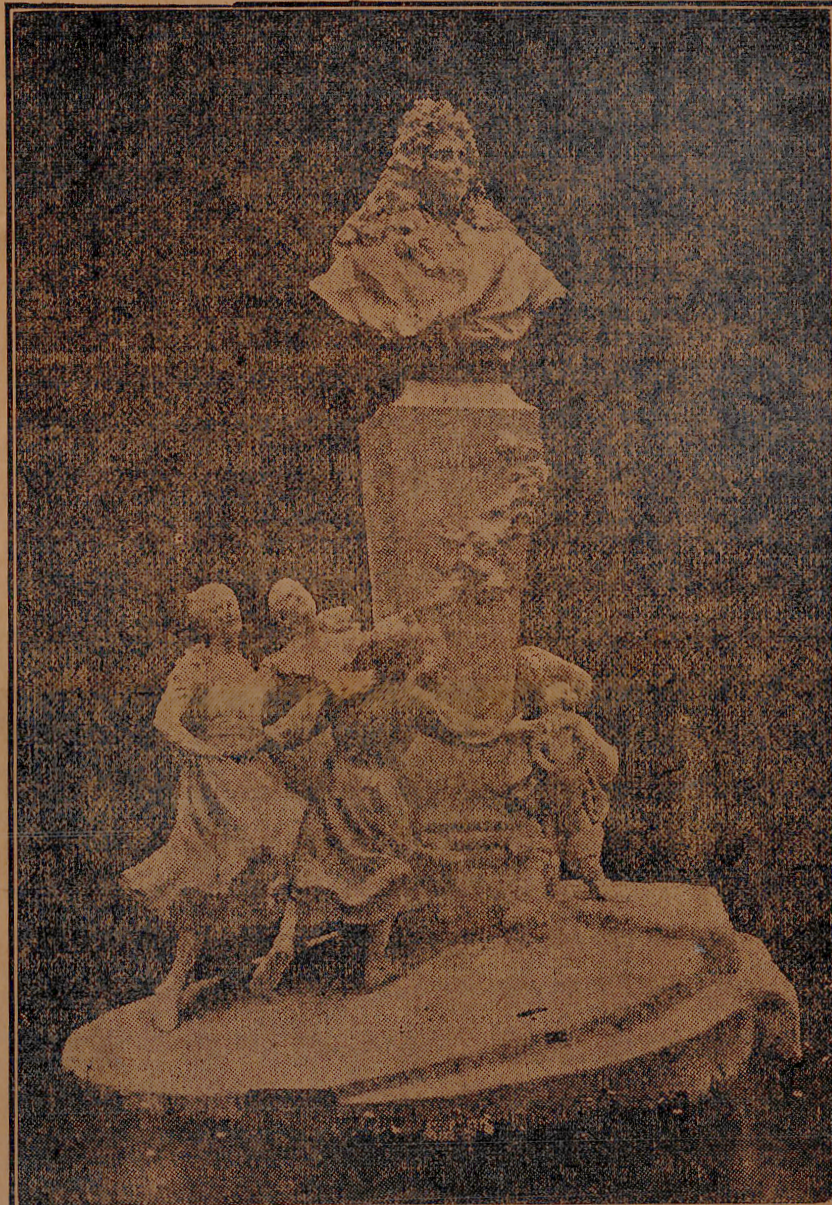

Bull-Fighting in Spain.

It was thought that bull-fights were gradually losing their popularity in Spain. The reports for the year 1907 seemed indeed to indicate a distinct tendency in that direction. Those for 1908, however, do not confirm this view. In the course of last year 745 bull-fights took place in Spain and 333 bulls were killed in the arena. Before dying some of these bulls managed to leave behind something more than the mere record of death, for it is announced that in the contests four of their human opponents were killed and 181 injured.—London Post.

Peanut Statistics.

The world's annual production is 600,000,000 bushels; that of the United States about 15,000,000 bushels, valued at $10,000,000. Seven Southern States produced 11,964,957 bushels of two kinds, "Virginias" and "Spanish," the former requiring thirty pounds to make a bushel, the latter twenty-two. The importations were 10,432,828 pounds unshelled, valued at $371,907, and 4,780,054 pounds shelled, valued at $244,700.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Father of "Mother Goose."

In the Garden of the Tuilleries in Paris a monument has just been erected to the memory of Charles Perrault, through whose "Mother Goose Stories," published in 1697, the literary world first learned to know "The Sleeping Beauty," "Little Red Riding Hood," "Bluebeard," "Puss in Boots," "Cinderella," "Tom Thumb" and other immortals of the nursery.—Harper's Weekly.

THE COUNTRY'S SMALLEST HOUSE

Great Barrington lays claim to the smallest house in America. The house is on East Main street, in a densely populated part of the town, and is but eight feet wide, twelve feet long and nine feet high. It is occupied by Charles Wright, who claims that the dwelling is as cozy a place as could be found, and that he has lived there for the greater part of four years and found it very comfortable.

In order not to overheat the house Wright cooks only one meal a day.

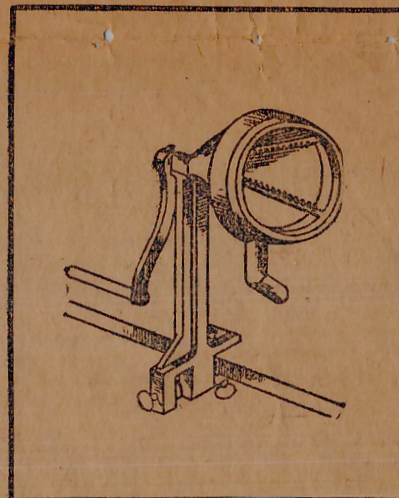

"The house was put up because there was not room enough to put up a larger one," says Wright, "and I wanted to make some use of the land."

Wright, who while not wealthy is possessed of comfortable means, declares that the house answers his demands. In fact, he believes that he adds to his comfort by having the kitchen, dining room, parlor and reception room all in one.

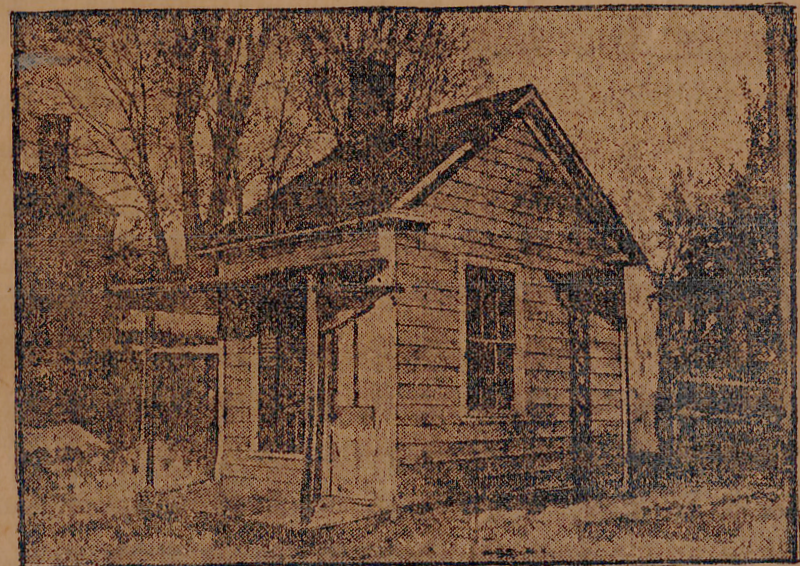

"The house is a little small and at times I seem to have my feet too close to the stove, but I only burned about half a ton of coal one cold winter and a peck of wood will make the room very comfortable," says Wright. "There are four windows and it is as cozy a spot as one could ask for. I only cook the morning meal here, for if I cooked later in the day one could Cuts Out Undesirable Seed.

The real up-to-date farmer, following the most scientific methods in the operation of his ground, is taught to make use of the selected material only in order that the species may be constantly improved, following the law of the survival of the fittest. For instance, in the selection of the seed to be placed in the ground, he is not content merely to select the best species, but wherever possible he will go carefully over the seed and pick out only the largest specimens to be placed in the ground. If this manner the product is generally of a much higher standard. It is difficult to carry out this selective scheme in the case of corn and similar seeds which are made use of in great quantities. In the case of corn, however, the small kernels are generally at the tip of the ears, and in order to get rid of these undesirable pieces a corn-tipper has been invented. The device seems to have been suggested by the familiar pencil-sharpener. It is operated by a small crank, and has a cone with a tooth interior. The top of the corn ear being placed in this revolving cup, all the small seed are cut off, leaving only the full-sized kernels on the ear.—Washington Star.

The Oldest Symbol.

The swastika is the oldest known symbol, having its origin in the cross and circle. The swastika is now held in common acceptance to be significant of good luck. Investigation of the records of every known race has revealed traces of the swastika. The symbol was early introduced into India, apparently in connection with sun worship.

Pump Women Take to Saccharine.

Now that certain women high in society have let it be known they use saccharine as a substitute for sugar and to prevent the accumulation of fat, the use of saccharine may spread among their imitative sisters. Mrs. John Jacob Astor a few months ago dropped saccharine tablets from a gold case at an afternoon reception, thereby revealing she was a user of them. Surely, there is no need for Mrs. Astor to resort to such things to preserve her figure! However, the saccharine habit has fastened upon plump women. Beginning in Paris, it has spread to London and Berlin. Jewelers in this city are showing gold and silver holders for the tablets.—New York Press.

Candied Orange Peel.

This is so nice to use with mince-meat or in fruit puddings, and it can be made at home so reasonably that it will repay the housewife if she has time to prepare it now. Cut oranges in halves and scoop out all the pulp, or if the rinds of peeled oranges are to be used, keep in as good shape as possible. Put the rinds into a basin, cover with lightly salted water and let them soak for a week. At the end of that time drain and put into a stewpan containing a thin syrup made with two pounds sugar to every two quarts of water. Boil half an hour. In another saucepan have a syrup made from two pounds sugar and a cup of water, and cook over the fire until a thick syrup. Put the rinds into this thick syrup and cook until the sugar candies on them. Take out, put on a sieve laid on a platter to save all the syrup that may drip and dry in a coolish oven. When quite dry put in wide-mouthed bottles or glass cans and fasten securely.

Suffragettes Pushing Fight.

There is no doubt that the Suffragette movement has taken deep root in this country. Representatives in Congress have been made aware of this fact to their unrest of mind. Women individually and in delegations have started on a campaign to obtain personal pledges to support the cause on the floor of the House and on the platform. It is asserted many Representatives already have given pledges. If they have done this in the belief that they never will be called upon to fulfill their pledges officially, they are likely to find themselves in an unpleasant corner. The leaders of the movement are determined to carry their fight straight to Washington, and to that end are pushing work on the great petition which, it is hoped, will be ready for presentation in April. Mrs. Rachel Foster Avery, one of the most zealous workers for the cause, is confident the petition will move the House to action. Names are being gathered in all parts of the country, and it is believed the petition when completed will include more than 1,000,000 names.—New York Press.

The Fashion in Veils.

There is a growing fashion among the well-known brides to eliminate the face veil. It is doubtful whether this is a pretty or dainty fashion.

There is something quite fitting about the cloud of tulle over the face of the maiden as she walks to the altar, and its omission as the matron walks back.

It is only a symbol, but it is an attractive one, and more than that, the tulle is quite becoming to the face.

The veil in the back is long, although it is not necessary for it to reach quite to the knees.

The front veil is fastened with pearl-headed pins to a coronet, and is easily lifted by the maid or matron of honor who stands next to the bride.

Those who have an heirloom of lace which they wish to use should cloud it with tulle. It is much prettier in this way. The tulle may

Some very handsome suit coats for street wear are of heavy Ottoman silk, and are particularly smart if characterized by severe lines.

Do not make your sleeves too close at the shoulder unless you have a very shapely arm, and this you want to leave to some one else to decide.

The envelope-shaped muff which matches the cloth of the coat in fabric and color and is banded with fur is one of the popular muffs of the season.

The chosen fabric for children's party wear is ninon de soie, as fine as muslin, but with a silken appearance, and of a transparency sufficient to show a backing of color gleaming through it.

To those who will wear them black veils are ousting those of a color from favor, and are being seen even upon millinery of a neutral shade, such as the fashionable taupe and the delicate pearl gray.

A Queer Chinese Notion.

One of the beliefs which the Chinese are slowly unlearning is that foreigners use the eyes and hearts of Chinamen in compounding rare and costly drugs, which are valuable aids in magic. A missionary long resident in the Celestial Kingdom, who is now in this country—the Rev. Dr. M. C. Wilcox, of the Methodist Episcopal Church—explains that medicine and magic have for ages gone hand in hand in China, just as they once did in Europe. Ignorant Chinamen, therefore, readily believe such tales.

The use of eyes of Chinese by foreigners in metallurgy is described in a work called "A Death Blow to Corrupt Practices," published in 1870. According to this, when white Christians had charge of a funeral they drove all the relatives and friends from the house. Both eyeballs were then removed from the corpse, the orifices being filled with plaster. This was called "sealing the eyes for the western journey." By compounding these eyes with a hundred pounds of Chinese lead, this veracious chronicle continues, eight pounds of silver could be extracted from it. The sight organs of any other people were useless for this purpose.—New York Tribune.

WORTH QUOTING

Many a woman drags a month's salary along the street and then scolds her husband because he will not turn up his trousers, sneers Judge.

When Emerson meets Poe in the Elysian fields does he still speak of him as the "jingle poet?" asks the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Rhetorically speaking, declares the New York American, the "other law" sounds much better than the "unwritten law."

Since epicurean arguments have come into vogue, suggests the Washington Star, the mikado might be complimented by some assurance that the Japanese persimmon is a favorite fruit.

It's a bad business—that of stealing land from a country, admits the Atlantic Constitution, but fencing in the world and calling it your is considered a big thing.

The Boston Transcript suggests: The gift to the Library of Congress of the Chinese Encyclopaedia, complete in 5,000 volumes, will be a great aid to congressmen in their researches.

It would be a wise provision, urges the Indianapolis News, if a jury's acquittal of a prisoner charged with homicide could be accompanied by the proviso that he forfeits his gun-carrying license.

The Chattanooga Times says "we shall be happy when the day of the hypocrite shall pass." That is to say, infers the Louisville Courier-Journal, when we're inside the pearly gates, and the hypocrite is on the outside?

It's the man who talks about the ice cold baths he takes every morning, cynically remarks the New York Press, that thinks he is being murdered with draughts if anybody lets some fresh air into the room.

A Connecticut scientist blandly remarks that in two million years men and women will have wheels instead of feet for purposes of locomotion. That's a far cry, remarks the New York Herald, but there is a strong suspicion that some folks already have wheels—but at the other end of their anatomy.

If there is anything in suggestion, and we know there is, asserts the Christian Register, then the accounts of crime, displayed, as they are, in our newspapers, must increase the number of criminals. One indication of this fact is the way in which crimes of specific and peculiar kinds "have a run" for a time and then cease.

Ex-Governor John C. Sheppard has been telling the bar association of South Carolina that in his opinion the effective, satisfactory administration of justice would be greatly promoted by permitting trial judges to deal with the facts as well as the law in their charges to the jurors, and by doing away with the requirement that a jury's verdict must be unanimous.

Sawing all the wood by gasoline engine has its offset, thinks the American Cultivator. Many a boy learned persistence and staying power bending over the saw horse. But get the sawing outfit just the same. The world moves and there will always be plenty of work without trying to compete with horse, steam or gasoline.

The determination of Trinity to sell much of its tenement property for improvement is wise, pronounces the New York World. An income of less than 2 1/2 per cent. is not what the church ought to receive, yet its trustees may not feel like borrowing large sums for extensive improvement. The public benefit will be the same. The buyers will improve the old houses and Trinity will or should get a better income.

Still Susceptible.

He was a nervous, fidgety young man, and he looked with considerable apprehension at the woman next him, who held a baby, its face covered with a thick veil. The baby gave now and then a sharp cry, which the woman evidently tried to suppress.

At last, after many anxious glances, the young man spoke.

"Has—has the baby any—anything contagious?" he asked.

The woman looked at him with a mixture of scorn and pity.

"Two wouldn't be for most folks," she said in a clear, carrying tone, "but maybe 'twould for you. He's teething."—Youth's Companion.

The Body's Cry for Water

By J. T. Joseph Bird, M. D.

EW of us drink an adequate quantity of water. How many drink a quart a day? How many say, "Oh, I never touch it!" Look about you in the street car, if you will, and note the ruddy complexion, fair skin, vigor of body and mental force of some individuals, and the mottled skin, sallow complexion and listlessness of others. Such differences are not always temperamental, nor are they entirely due to mental and physical endowments. One man observes the obligations of health as to diet, exercise and fresh air; another man neglects them.

All life demands water. Sixty percent of all the tissues of the human body is water. Hence it follows that, without a free use of good water, health is impossible. Blood, bone and muscle demand it. The blood is the vehicle by which nourishment is carried to all the tissue of the body, but it does this only by reason of the water it contains, which is the solvent of such nourishment. The muscles are rendered soft, pliable and elastic by reason of the water entering into their structure.

In the processes of digestion and absorption many of the food elements are dissolved by water. Thus it follows that a constant supply of water is our daily need.

The skin is one of the most important organs of the human body. By the perfect function of its two millions and more of sweat-glands a man loses each twenty-four hours one sixty-fourth of his body weight. This loss, which is greater than that sustained through the action of the lungs, is the evaporation of water surcharged with poisons from body waste. And what is true of the skin is equally true of the lungs and kidneys. Each is an organ of elimination.

Without water there can be no life. We know that it enters into every structure of the human body. As to its source—to be sure, we consume large quantities of water with the intake of fruits, vegetables, meat, tea and coffee. But these should not be the sole source of supply. "How much water shall I drink in a day?" To such inquiry no fixed allowance can be stated, since our needs vary as our age, habits and occupations vary; and the quantity may reasonably vary between one pint and three or four pints per individual.

While water may be drunk with food as an aid to digestion and absorption—and it were better taken at the close of a meal—care should be observed not to defeat the purpose of thorough mastication by washing into the stomach solid foods ill prepared for digestion by that organ. A glass of cold water on going to bed and one taken on rising in the morning is a good habit.—From Harper's Weekly.

A Hot Day On the Baseball Bleachers

By R. L. Hartt.

E follow the game in quite tolerable misery. Hot! It was never so hot. Pitilessly the sun beats down from a sky broken only by the fleecy white clouds that the players call "angels," because they afford so benevolent a background for the batted ball. Though sunstroke seems inevitable, inning succeeds inning, with nine men walking away slowly, nine others coming up on the run, till the ultimate inning is now nearly completed. Jubilant moments there have been—jubilant moments and moments glum; awful suspense, too, and at this the eleventh hour the score stands three to two against us. Amid terrific cheers, great Murphy strikes an attitude as of the Colossus of Rhodes, fire in his eye, desperate determination in his heart. His cudgel menaces the pitcher. Two men on bases dance nervously sidewise, ablaze with excitement. There are cries from the coaches, mingling oddly with "Ice-cold Moxie!" and "Fresh popcorn, five a bag!" The pitcher holds the ball meditatively beneath his chin and glares defiance. He coils himself up "like a dissolute bedspring," lets loose, and then—oh, mad instant! The ring of a bat, flying forms that fling themselves feet-first along the ground in clouds of dust, other forms with heads thrown back and faces upturned, one horror-stricken figure moving across the far, far background, his posture that of anguish hoping against hope—and victory is ours! We howl.—From the Atlantic.

COLONY BOOKKEEPING.

At the Colony's annual meeting and election of officers which occurred Feb. 4, a resolution was introduced for the appointment of a committee consisting of Messrs. Watros, Belangae and A. H. Mershon, with a view to securing a competent bookkeeper for the Colony's books. The committee was instructed to confer with the Fairhope Improvement Company and the municipal government, and arrange to have the same person keep books for all three concerns, so as to divide the expense. A bookkeeper could probably be secured for $50 a month, half of which would have to be paid by the Colony, and the question is can the Colony afford to pay $25 a month in addition to its present salary list, exclusively for the purpose of keeping books. In our opinion the Colony can't afford to get along without a bookkeeper. There may be some difference of opinion as to whether the work of keeping the books should be done by the secretary or treasurer for the salary they are now getting, or whether another person should be hired to keep the books, but surely there can be no question as to the importance of keeping the books accurately. Indeed, bookkeeping is regarded by business men generally as indispensable, even more important than the mere details of other clerical positions. But the committee seems to have gone to sleep. We proposed to see to it that this committee do its duty and make some kind of a report.

At times, confesses the Chicago News, even our best friends make us weary.

Cheer up! recommends the Atlanta Constitution. Even the patient, plodding mule loses its reputation by kicking.

Silence is indeed golden, admits Puck, and the pity is public taste won't permit the photographs to reproduce more of it.

Half of the reputation of Socrates for philosophic wisdom is due to the fact that his wife Xantippe talked too much, insists the Philadelphia Ledger. She talked so much that he got the chance to say very little, and as Lord Bacon has pointed out, a man who talks little is likely to acquire a reputation for profound wisdom. Socrates also won the admiration of his immediate neighborhood for the patience with which he endured the lingual assaults of the lady; perhaps, if we only knew the inside facts of the situation, our sympathies would be with Xantippe, who probably had to take in washing to support the philosopher's family.

In regard to child labor anywhere and everywhere, everything that is possible should be done to protect the children from overwork, from exposure to disease and danger, and especially from everything that will interfere with a proper education of mind and body, observes the Christian Register. The greed of parents and employers should be checked and punished to the full extent of the law. But the children, whether of the rich or of the poor, who are brought up without training in regular work are unfortunate and likely to become dangerous to the community. Children, when properly guided, like to work.

The language of command must not be confused with the language of courtly ceremonial, admonishes the Philadelphia Ledger. Orders, to be imperative, must be short and sharp, expressed in "winged words." Circumlocution often takes the pith out of the simpler, more forcible expression. The Sunday-school superintendent who paraphrased the words "And the child grew" into "Passed, in short, through all the gradations of natural development" was as bad as the man who moved Dr. Johnson's indignation by turning "Jesus wept" into "Jesus, the Saviour of the world, burst into a flood of tears." "Puppy!" exclaimed the lexicographer. And yet he was often guilty himself of similar offenses against simplicity.

BATTLES.

The reported sale of the DeBriere cottages to F. J. Davenport proved to be incorrect, as the owners refused to sell after learning of the proposed trolley line to be built down the Bay shore. Mr. Davenport had expected to buy the property in partnership with a man from Birmingham, but when the deal fell through, he was obliged to write his partner, after some delay, of his failure in the matter. In the mean while the partner became suspicious and supposed that Mr. Davenport had defrauded him. He swore out a warrant for his arrest and Mr. Davenport was arrested in Mobile and taken to Birmingham by a special officer who had arrived from that city. The Birmingham News has the following to say about the trial:

"On the ground that the prosecution was frivolous and unwarranted Judge H. B. Abernathy of the inferior criminal court, Monday afternoon taxed E. H. Laney, the prosecutor in the case against F. T. Davenport, with the costs. Mr. Davenport and Mr. Laney, it seems, had gone into partnership and Mr. Davenport went to Mobile to arrange to bring his family here to live. It seems that his partner became apprehensive and swore out a warrant charging Davenport with grand larceny of some two hundred odd dollars. Davenport was arrested in Mobile about the time he was intending to catch a train to return and brought back here to stand trial. The case came up Monday and Mr. Davenport showed to the satisfaction of the court that he was acting in good faith. It developed he had written a letter to his partner telling him when he would return."

Mr. Davenport writes that he expects to spend the summer in Battles. It was a most unfortunate and annoying experience.

THE DOOLEY NORMAL AND INDUSTRIAL INSTITUTE.

This institution, which opened the first Monday in October of this year, in temporary quarters, and now has 51 students, is much in need of permanent quarters and more commodious buildings to carry out the object for which it was organized.

The trustees of the above named institute have purchased the lot of land known as the Schieffelin, later the Wilson lot, at the old village, being lot No. 4 of Dolive division, containing 200 acres, having a frontage of four acres on the beautiful Mobile bay. The cost of this property is $1,500, $500 of which was paid this week, the balance in one and two years.

It is the purpose of this institution to instill in the minds of Negro youths habits of thrift and industry which will best prepare them for useful citizenship; to teach them that no honest employment is a disgrace, but that there is much dignity connected with labor. A literary course consisting of English is provided, as is also many of the trades, and practical and scientific farming will be a special feature of the work.

In October last Frederick Grey, a colored man, donated 120 acres of land to the above school, making 220 acres.

Make Study Impossible.

Burlington, N. J.—Boys of the public schools have bought liquor with ease at local saloons and have been unable to study in school hours as a result, according to information imparted to the Board of Education.

Peculiar and unmanageable conduct of boys in the high school resulted in the puzzled teachers sending their cases to the principal, and the breaths of the several boys disclosed the fact that they had been drinking.

Every Reader Will Concede the Truth of This Statement.

One who suffers with backache or any form of kidney trouble wants a cure, not merely temporary benefit. Rev. Maxwell S. Rowland, of Toms River, N. J., makes a statement in this connection that is worth attention. Says he: "I was suddenly taken with an attack of kidney trouble, had severe pains in my back and loins and was generally run down. Doctors were not helping me, so I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They brought me prompt relief, and as I continued taking them the pains in my back disappeared and the kidneys were restored to normal condition."

LARVAL FORM OF EELS.

Interesting Discovery for Which Science Is Indebted to Strait of Messina.

The straits of Messina are channels of immense depth, through which a wild tide surges, and owing probably to irregularities at the bottom there are whirling eddies which have the effect of bringing up from the depths below many marine creatures which are rarely seen except in the deep sea trawls. It was here that the larval form of a fresh water eel was first discovered, an incident which threw a blaze of light on the life history of a very mysterious fish.

All kinds of theories have been given forth with regard to the propagation of the eel. Some naturalists declared they bred in fresh water, others that they visited the estuary for spawning purposes, but thanks to the discovery of Messina and later captures of the eel in its larval form it is now practically certain that after mature eels drop down over rivers in autumn they lie them to exceedingly deep water in the sea and there deposit their eggs. From the egg comes a little ribbon shaped creature, the larval form.

In due course this changes into an eel of still smaller size, strange to say and these small eels or elvers afterward ascend our rivers and there remain until they reach maturity when they in their turn descend to the sea and history is repeated.—London Daily Telegraph.

NEW IDEA

Helped Wis. Couple.

It doesn't pay to stick too closely to old notions of things. New ideas often lead to better health, success and happiness.

A Wis. couple examined an idea new to them and stepped up several rounds on the health ladder. The husband writes:

"Several years ago we suffered from coffee drinking, were sleepless, nervous, sallow, weak, and irritable. My wife and I both loved coffee and thought it was a bracer." (delusion).

"Finally, after years of suffering, we read of Postum and the harmfulness of coffee, and believing that to grow we should give some attention to new ideas, we decided to test Postum.

"When we made it right we liked it and were relieved of ills caused by coffee. Our friends noticed the change—fresher skin, sturdier nerves, better temper, etc.

"These changes were not sudden, but relief increased as we continued to drink and enjoy Postum, and we lost the desire for coffee.

"Many of our friends did not like Postum at first, because they did not make it right. But when they boiled Postum according to directions on pkg., until it was dark and rich they liked it better than coffee and were benefited by the change." "There's a Reason."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville" in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Household Notes

HOT BATHS INDUCE SLEEP.

A hot bath taken before going to bed will frequently so relax the nerves and muscles that sleep is possible as soon as one lies down. It is always well to have some light refreshment by the bed to take, if one is awake, because no person who is hungry can sleep.—Washington Star.

TABLE OF MEASURE.

One pint butter equals one pound; 1 large tablespoonful, one-half ounce; 10 eggs, 1 pound; 40 drops, 1 teaspoonful; 1 common sized tumbler holds one-half pint; 1 pint chopped meat packed makes 1 pound; 1 teaspoonful salt to one pound of meat; 1 scant pint granulated sugar equals one pound.

HANDY DRYING DEVICE.

Take an old umbrella frame and wind the wires with white cloth and suspend by handle from the ceiling near the range. It will prove excellent for drying baby's clothes and other little pieces. If handle is not of the hook kind a hook can easily be bored into a straight handle.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

DYEING FEATHERS AND TIPS.

Anyone having white tips or feathers or even feather boas who would like to save them can do so by washing with ivory soap, rinse well in a strong bluing water, and they will come out a pale blue, then put on a plate in the oven, or hold over the heat and they will be as good as new when dry.—Boston Post.

RECIPES.

Carrot Jam.—Boil carrots until tender, drain and mash them. For each pound of carrots, allow 1 pound of sugar and juice of 1 lemon; boil slowly until the mixture jellies and set away in glass.

Cold Water Pound Cake.—Three eggs, 2 cups sugar, 1 cup butter, 1 cup cold water, 3 cups of flour, 1 teaspoon of cream of tartar, 1-2 teaspoon of soda, lemon.

Oysters Baked Their Shells.—Remove the beards from 1 dozen oysters, beat up an egg and bake about 2 tablespoonfuls of crumbs, dip each oyster in the egg and cover it with crumbs to which you have added a good dust of salt, pepper and grated nutmeg; replace the oysters in their deep shells, put a tiny piece of butter on the top of each; bake in a quick oven a pale brown; serve in their shells with a few drops of lemon juice on each.

A Luncheon Dish.—Take baker's rolls and remove the soft inside part leaving the crust; for each roll boil an egg and mash it with a silver fork, add a little butter, pepper and salt, and a large dessertspoon of finely minced ham, mix well together and fill the rolls; instead of ham use cold beef or lamb.

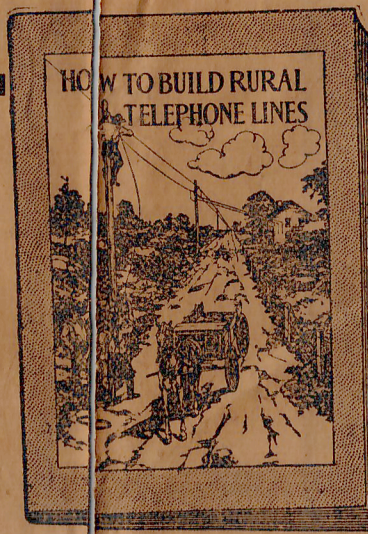

Tomato Soup.—Scald and peel 2 quarts of tomatoes, slice into cooking kettle and bring to a boil, then add one teaspoon soda to dissolve the tomatoes and prevent the soup from curdling, strain the vegetable bisque after it has boiled 7 minutes, to reject the seeds, now add a quart of scalding milk, salt, pepper, generous lump of butter and boil up a moment or two; serve with toast, crackers or add boiled rice to it; either way it is splendid for lovers of tomatoes.

Biscuit Tortoni.—One pint water, 1-2 pint sugar, boiled together 15 minutes. Whip up 3 eggs (not separately). Remove boiling mixture and pour it over the eggs. Return to the fire and boil 8 to 10 minutes, being sure that it is thick, before taking it off. When cool whip and stir into the mixture a pint of cream; flavor with vanilla. Put in a mould, pack in ice and salt and let stand five or six hours. When ready to serve sprinkle with grated stale macaroons. One of the ices; nicer than ice cream.

Bounty on Rattlesnakes in Iowa.

What is considered the first freak bill, although it is considered seriously where reptiles are found in large numbers, is a bill by Senator Quigley providing for the payment of a bounty of 50 cents for the killing of rattlesnakes. The rattles and two inches of the tail of the reptile must be presented at the office of the County Auditor with an affidavit that the snake was killed in the county where application is made for the bounty. The Auditor may destroy the tail, but the rattles may be returned to the slayer.

It is recalled in connection with Senator Quigley's bill that Senator Newberry, his professor from the Clayton district, was bitten by a rattlesnake a year ago, the misfortune nearly resulting in death.—Des Moines Capital.

China's Early Paper Money.

As in many lines of industry China led the way among the nations in the use of paper currency in business. Since the fifteenth century, however, no paper money has been issued in the celestial empire, and it is due only to China's industrial and commercial growth that the government has recently appointed a commission to investigate the matter.—From System.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case that fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. Canned Music for the Kiowas.

Chief Lone Wolf, head of the Kiowa Indian tribe, is a lover of the phonograph. Heretofore he has been buying records made for the palefaces, but Thursday he took a new turn and came in town, secured the services of Vern Lovett and an attachment to make records, drove him to his allotment south of town, where a number of redmen had gathered. Vern operated the machine while the Indians listened and sang into the instrument. He then had the machine run off the newly-made records, much to the delight of the Indians, who danced about the machine.—Hobart Republican.

"How to Build Rural Telephone Lines"

This Bulletin explains clearly how a rural telephone system is built and operated, and it also contains full information as to costs.

In a Farmer's Mutual Company a few day's labor and a cash investment of about $25. per subscriber, will purchase all material and build an absolutely standard system.

A Rural Telephone is an investment, not an expense. The telephone which enables you to sell ten bales of cotton at 1/2 cent per pound more than the traveling buyer offers you, has paid for its entire cost. Cause for Alarm.

An elderly patient in the Tennessee mountain region was suffering from a malady, the remedy for which the doctor prescribed in the form of capsules. The old woman trusted her medical adviser, but for medicine she evinced much suspicion. Some time after she had taken the capsules she was asked by her son how she felt.

"Porely."

"Don't you want nuthin' to eat?"

"No."

"Soon, however, the old woman arose from her bed and took her seat in a rocking chair. Thinking that the attention would be gratefully received, the son filled her pipe, and taking a live coal from the hearth, carried both to his mother.

"Take that away, son!" yelled the old woman, in the utmost fright. "Don't you know better'n to come near me when I've got them cartridges in me?"—San Francisco Star.

Facts For Sick Women

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or secured so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every woman you meet has either been benefited by it, or knows some one who has.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made exclusively from roots and herbs, and is perfectly harmless.

The reason why it is so successful is because it contains ingredients which act directly upon the female organism, restoring it to healthy and normal activity.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials such as the following prove the efficiency of this simple remedy.

Minneapolis, Minn.:—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women, I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. Within three months I was a perfectly well woman."

"I want this letter made public to show the benefits to be derived from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. John G. Moldan, 2115 Second St. North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

"Peru-na has been my stand-by for many years, and I attribute my good health and my extreme age to this remedy. It exactly meets all my requirements."

"I have come to rely upon it almost entirely for the many little things for which I need medicine. I believe it to be especially valuable to old people."

Early Dramatists' Play.

One wonders what the scribe of the footlights of, say, seventy years ago, would think of the incomes enjoyed by our successful dramatists. In Edmund Yates' "Recollections," for instance, we find Buckstone writing to Yates' father: "For a successful three-act play you ought, I think, to afford me £70 such sum securing to you the sole acting rights forever in London." And again in a letter dated 1839 he bargains: "I will do your piece for the opening and a new three-act drama for Mrs. Yates, company, and sell, for my old terms for the two, viz, two seventies. I really cannot say less." One wonders, also, what Mr. Barrie would "do" two "Peter Pans" for!—London Chronicle.

TO REFOREST MAINE.

A Man Who Plants Thousands of Trees Offers Prizes to Others.

A plan for the reforestation of the State of Maine has been submitted to the governor by B. C. Jordan, of Alfred. Mr. Jordan offers to give the State $1,000 on condition that once in eighteen years five prizes shall be awarded for the five best lots of young forest growth.

These lots are to consist of not less than ten acres, accurately surveyed and plotted, the majority of the trees to be not less than ten or more than thirty feet high and not less than ten or more than thirty years old when the prizes are awarded. The varieties of trees to be grown are specified and cover a long list from white pine to elm.

Mr. Jordan believes that the incentive afforded by such prizes would do much to bring about better forestry conditions. Maine has many thousand acres of waste land, now almost worthless but naturally well adapted to timber growth, and which, according to a writer in Suburban Life, by a small expense for care and forest cultivation could be made easily worth in fifty years $100 an acre.

In this way the State instead of being one of the poorest in the Union might be made one of the richest. Fifty years is a large part of one person's life, but a very small part of the life of a State. Mr. Jordan himself set out from ten to fifteen thousand trees the last summer and states that he hopes to set out many thousands every year as long as he lives.

Persian Justice.

The revolutionary party in Persia is circulating on postcards and in larger form a picture descriptive of "Persian justice," which shows three bandits hanging by their feet from the city gate of Tauris. The men, almost naked, are shown suspended from an opening in the wall, the ropes binding their feet being fastened to a pillar, next to which a military guard stands at "attention." "For hours," runs the legend under the picture, "these wretches, the robber Ago and his companions, hung, in their badly wounded condition, before death relieved their agony. Thousands of people of all ages and classes looked mournfully upon these victims of 'Persian justice.'"

Matinee Hat Terror.

There were worse terrors than the matinee hat for the man who sat behind a woman in the seventeenth century theatre. Pepys wrote that January 28, 1661, he saw "The Lost Lady," for the second time. Nine days earlier that play had not pleased him much—partly, perhaps, because he was "troubled to be seen by four of our office clerks, which sat in the half-crown box, and I in the 1s. 6d." But on the second occasion the play did "please me better than before; and here I sitting behind in a dark place, a lady spit backward upon me by a mistake not seeing me." However, it was all right; for, "after seeing her to be a very pretty lady, I was not troubled at it at all."

Not a Retrospective Reader.

Black Cat Turns Steamer.

Two stories are told by marine men explaining the return of the steamer John Duncan, which reached North Point on its way to Erie, Pa., but then returned to port. A cross-eyed black cat in the fo'castle, says the crew.

The waves were too heavy and the promise of a blizzard too great to risk the men's lives, is the announcement of the captain, who scouts the black cat yarn.

Anyway, the John Duncan came back. After the gale subsided or the cat disappeared, as you please, the Duncan again started on its trip to the lower lakes.

Japanese Railways.

The authorized capital of Japanese electric undertakings in 1903, $14,192,000, rose to $68,724,000 in 1907. The electrical works undertaken chiefly represented lighting and railways. The number of lights supplied in 1903, 365,000, increased in 1907 to 859,143. Tokio and Osaka require each 100,000 lights. Electric railways show equal development. In 1903 the mileage was thirty-eight, which rose to 119 in 1907, and will be largely added to by construction during the present year.

How He Spent His Half-Holiday.

A young man was industriously wheeling a perambulator along the pavement in front of his residence. "My dear!" came a voice from an upper window. "What's the matter?" he shrieked back. And he went on wheeling. An hour later the same voice came from the same window. "George, dear!" "Well, what's the matter now?" he shouted. "This, George dear—you've been wheeling Lottie's doll all the afternoon! Let baby have a turn now!"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

It Applies Now.

Bryan was telling a story on himself months ago which has better application now than then. A Texas cowboy attended a dance uninvited, and was politely bidden to leave. He returned a little later, and was gently but forcibly removed. Returning still again, he was seized and thrown headlong into the street. Picking himself up out of the dirt, he remarked to bystanders: "I know what these fellows mean; they can't fool me; they don't want me."—Springfield Republican.

Overgoing It.

A young Englishman, after he had been in Devil's Valley for a couple of months, began to grow thin. Young cooking did not appeal to him. Besides his squeamish appetite, there was another thing that the natives held against him—his old-fashioned custom of taking a bath every morning. One day his landlady was discussing him with a friend.

"I tell ye what, Sal," said the visitor, "he's jest a washin' away a grievin' for some gal back East thar." "Nothin' o' the kind," said the landlady, contemptuously. "You mark my words, now—that young feller he's jest a washin' hisself away."—Everybody's Magazine.

Joseph Fels has given twenty-five thousand dollars a year for five years to the American Single Tax League for furthering the Single Tax cause in America, provided a similar amount can be raised here.

John Bloomquist, who came to the colony eight years ago, has decided to leave Fairhope this month and make his home in Texas. He sold his improvements for $25.

The Ladies' Aid Society served a chicken dinner at the restaurant the other day, and cleared $28. If the Ladies' Aid has any more quarter dinners like that, they should get busy and produce them.

The Baldwin County Commissioners at their last meeting in February decided that road overseers should work out their time on the road just as others do. Heretofore they have been exempt from road duty.

Edgar Francis, of Perryopolis, Pa., who is spending a few months here, has bought 20 acres of land from Gus Oberg, adjoining the Obergs, and is planting 100 pecan trees there. Also orange, fig, and persimmon trees.

The Washington tea party given by the Fairhope public school two weeks ago was a financial and artistic success. The girls wore Japanese costumes, with painted cheeks and eyebrows, and gave a ver pretty performance.

The Organic School celebrated Washington's birthday with a parade of about fifty children dressed as Indians, carrying bow and arrows, and tomahawks. One of the teachers represented a squaw carrying a papoose.

About thirty persons gathered at the Sweet cottage last Friday night at the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Will Sweet and enjoyed an evening of dinch. The guests of honor for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Wolcott who are visiting the Browns.

Libeous Jefferson has sold his improvements on Colony land, and his horse and wagon to Asa Staples, taking in trade forty acres of land at St. Elmo on the west side of the Bay, and $25 in cash. The land is valued at $10 an acre. Mr. Jefferson will go to Mobile, where he has secured a position.

Dr. Greeno has secured an appropriation from the Baldwin County commissioners for building and extending Greeno Boulevard six miles south as far as Barnwell. When completed this will be one of the best roads in the county and will connect a large part of the country to the south with Fairhope.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCarthy and son, Jack, arrived last week from Mansfield, Mass., and are in their house recently purchased from Dr. Page. Mr. McCarthy brought his harness tools and machine with him, and will erect a shop on his lot for repair work.

R. F. Powell went to Bay Minette last month for the announced purpose of addressing a meeting on the subject of "The Baldwin County Plan of Taxation." Only two persons attended we are informed and believe. We are also informed that some pointed and embarrassing questions would have been asked the speaker had the meeting been held.

The Robacs, who lived in Fairhope several years ago and sold out their store to Rathjes, are coming back, and are looking for a store building to go into business again. They went from here to Los Angeles, Cal., and from there to Rahway, N. J., where they now are. They are coming back on account of their health, the whole family being sick.

A meeting was held two Sundays ago at the new house of Mr. Kile's for the purpose of organizing an arbitration society in Fairhope, the object of which is to settle disputes by arbitration instead of resorting to the law courts. The meeting appointed a committee of two, consisting of W. W. Kile and W. S. Sumner to arrange for another meeting with a view to perfecting an organization.

About forty persons visited River Park on Lincoln's birthday, driving over from Fairhope and taking their lunch with them. The party was composed principally of old soldiers who had fought on the Union side, and their ladies. They visited the battle grounds, among the number being Dr. Slosson who sustained a severe injury in the battle which occurred at Blakely.

There was a sound of deviltry by night in the Colony council chamber the other night. Mr. Wolf was there with a bunch of indignant lessees who wanted to know a few things. They wanted to know why the delay in filing the plat, and whether it was to have the measurements of each lot on it, so that a man, and a woman too for that matter, could know what they had when they had a lease from this famous land company.

The case of J. M. Pilcher against the Fairhope Improvement Company will be tried at the Spring term of the Baldwin County Circuit Court, which convenes the last week in March. This is the case which Mr. Pilcher won in the trial before Justice of the Peace DuMont last fall, but was appealed by the Improvement Company. It is expected that there will be some interesting doings at Bay Minette when this case comes up.

O. J. Christman, formerly of Fairhope, but now living in Illinois, had a long letter in the Printers' Journal last month about Baldwin county, in which he suggested a Printers' Colony here. The letter was reprinted in the "Onlooker" and also the "Baldwin Times."

Mr. Goddard expected to leave Fairhope for Kansas City, Mo., this week where he will engage in building operations. Mrs. Goddard will remain here until April or May, and then go north to join her husband. The Goddards will return to Fairhope next winter and will build a cottage on the lot between Mr. Lyon's and Miss Chapman's on Magnolia avenue.

The Courier made a rich rake off in publishing the governor's proclamations last summer. The same contract was given to one paper in each county in the state, care being taken to favor the papers that supported the Comert administration. It will cost the state $18,000 for this needless expense, provided the legislature makes the appropriation. The Courier will receive about $260 for the advertising, which is not to be sneezed at in these hard, un-democratic times.

The Colony which the German government owns in China and which is operated on single tax principles, has a more accurate method of fixing the rent of land than exists here in Fairhope. There they place a selling valuation on the lot, or tract of land, and then assess the rent at 6 per cent of that amount. We commend this plan to our friends the management.

J. C. Porter is building a one room house on the lot between Miss Gooding and Mr. Wolf, recently relinquished by Miss Gooding, and expects to add to it later.

Miss L. C. D. Clifton, who is visiting her father, G. W. Clifton, had expected to return to her home in Chicago this week, but will be detained for some time owing to an unfortunate accident in which she broke her collar bone. She with Mrs. Henry Gunnison and Mary Gable were driving out home about three weeks ago when the wagon went over the bank of a culvert into a ditch and all three ladies were thrown into the ditch. Mrs. Gable also sustained serious injuries from which she has not recovered. Mrs. Gunnison has entirely recovered from her injuries which were not serious.

A telephone message was recently sent to Mobile to the Western Union Telegraph Company to be sent out immediately. The message was a notice of death and urged the party to come home immediately. The message was sent over Sunday but for some unexplained reason, was held until Monday before being sent, with the result that it was received too late to get to Fairhope for the funeral. The operator sent word that he "don't care if all Fairhope is dead, the message won't be sent out of this office until Monday morning." The Western Union evidently don't want our business.

Mr. Kile says the work on the new house which he has about completed, cost three times as much as the work on the Sanitarium. This is due to the finished wood work in the new building. He has been urged to give the new house for Sanitarium purposes instead of the other house, but very properly declines to do so. He will occupy the new house as a residence, which will be one of the finest on the eastern shore. Mr. Kile's investments in Fairhope have been in the neighborhood of nine thousand dollars. He owns seven houses, four of which he built new, and three he bought. He also owns a small place beyond Brown's Mill, with ten acres of Colony land. His Colony rent is $151.36. Mr. Kile came to Fairhope about a year and a half ago.

The Town Council met Feb. 22 and allowed the following bills: C. J. Littlegree, for oyster shells for road, $1.25; George Lawrence, road work, two days with horse and wagon, $6.00; Frank Brown, lumber for Stack gully bridge, $21.19; E. B. Gaston, printing ordinances and ballots, $6.15; R. Poorstra, oyster shells for road, 50c. The road tax ordinance was amended to four days work on the road instead of five days, and to strike out the words "30 days notice" so that a man can be warned out to work immediately after notice. The council meeting was enlivened by a warm tilt between A. J. Wolf and Wm. Stimpson over the filing of the plat of the Colony land, at Bay Minette. Mr. Stimpson said that Mr. Wolf was the only man who wanted it and that he had succeeded in having a petition signed requesting it by people who did not know what they were signing. To this Mr. Wolf replied, "Does the gentleman mean to say that I am misrepresented?" Later Mr. Stimpson remarked that the Colony council had intended to place the plat on record but had delayed to do so in order that they might arrange some new plat which were being surveyed.
