ANYTIME IS A GOOD TIME TO VISIT THE FAMOUS
MANITOWISH WATERS REGION

An altitude of over 1600 feet above sea level insures cool, restful nights even after the hottest days.

Persons suffering from hay fever, asthma or sinus trouble will find immediate relief in our region.

Good drinking water is another thing for us to boast about. Nowhere in the entire country will you find any better. Every resort must display a state test card.

There are many nice bathing beaches in the Manitowish Waters area.

Berry picking, too! Blackberries, blueberries, raspberries, wild strawberries, June berries and choke cherries.

Perhaps you like mushrooms with your favorite meat dish. If so, just come up in mushroom time and you'll get your fill.

Hunting in season. Deer, bear, goose, duck, grouse, rabbit.

Bring your camera. You'll be amazed at the opportunities for snapping very unusual and beautiful scenes.

Welcome to Manitowish Waters...

An Early White Settler in Manitowish Waters

HISTORY . . .

By — Michael J. Dunn, III

Where Indians paddled blueberry-laden canoes or camped to barter with fur traders only three generations ago, sun tanned teenagers now skim gracefully over the water on skis or their elders relax in comfort to forget the press of business. That in a nutshell is the story of Manitowish Waters.

The red man appeared back beyond the reach of recorded history, and when he faded from the local scene his doing so was so gradual that he left no exact date to mark his passing. The first white folk to settle here watched him paddle across Island Lake in summer, his canoe low in the water with the weight of the wild berries it bore. Families still gave him wide leeway; some Indians were still a threat, especially to children of the intruding palefaces. The Indians had an age-old gathering place on the eastern shore of Manitowish Lake. Here they met to trade, to distribute funds from Federal paymasters, to bury their dead. From here too, to propitiate their gods, they floated sacrificial offerings which always drifted to the tiny island that they came to regard as sacred.

Came then the white man, perhaps to trade for furs, to cruise the woods for timber, to settle on a homestead. The story of early Manitowish Waters rings with the names of colorful settlers and personalities. Abe LaFave, who settled in 1888 and became the predecessor of the resort trade that is now the lifeblood of our community; long gone is the island lodge he built on Island Lake as the first tourist accommodation in the area, but on the shores of that same lake his family today continues the tradition of resort keeping he originated. Dan Devine, who raised a family on Clear Lake, whence he paddled each summer on a month-long canoe journey to Madeline Island in Lake Superior to sell his furs. Peter Vance, a timber cruiser who came here in the 1880's and lies now in our cemetery, his grave marked by a stone recording his hundred years and his pioneer status. Stephan Stewart, once a Yankee soldier in the Civil War, who was sure he was the only white man for miles around as he surveyed for a timber company dam, only to run into Abe LeFave in these deepest northwoods.

The railroad penetrated the county in 1888. In its wake came the great logging days, a swash-buckling era during which you might have seen stuck into the ground in front of a tavern the pike-poles or canthooks of a hundred or more lumberjacks drinking inside. The Chippewa Lumber and Boom Co. opened the logging age here. In 1892 CL&B forces built the Rest Lake dam with heavy timbers, three spillways and huge iron bullwheels to control the gates; the same year its men also built a steamboat with a backbone of tamarack and cedar ship knees hewn on the Island Lake shore. For the life of the CL&B activities here, the most exciting event of the year was the log drive. For several weeks early each summer pine logs were sent through the spillways in great bunches and washed downstream with huge gulps of penned up lake water. The river then might be a solid mass of logs for many miles. Skilled drivers prodded them along. Leading and trailing the drives were wanigans or cook boats, built below the dam for each year's drive. It took almost all summer and the efforts of up to two hundred men to push the drive all the way to its Chippewa Falls area destination. The rest of the year lumberjacks who lived in long, low, log camp buildings below the dam labored to replenish the log supply held behind the dam in preparation for the next season's drive. They took only the finest of pine, so light that it could float indefinitely and was called cork pine; in the winters teams and sleds pulled the newly felled timber to the icebound shores; in summer giant wheels were used. On the waters of the lakes, raised up to sixteen feet above their original level by the new dam, and thus spreading over a much wider area, the steamboat worked almost round the clock to shepherd huge rafts of logs to the dam. The boom, however, could not go on forever, and by the early 1900's and certainly by 1906, the crude little paddle wheel steamer, its whistle stilled, lay pulled up on the shore where modern day water skiers stage their shows. A few families clustered around the dam, which deteriorated and even was left open for a while; the landing where boats met travelers was located on the present Ilg property. The horses, ponies and wagons were kept there and a man named James McKinney kept a tavern there before 1910.

The logging era revived when railroads drew closer to the lakes and could haul out hardwood logs too heavy to float downriver in drives. The Milwaukee Road built in to Boulder Junction in 1903 and on to its Papoose Junction Point by 1906. One leg of the wye at the junction point ran up to Buswell, a Papoose Lake mill village; another leg ran roughly along the present bed of county highway K to reach Riley's Hoist on the shore of Rest Lake just north of the present YMCA Camp. The daily local train of the Milwaukee was not only an important carrier of outbound logs consigned to sawmills further south. The mixed freight and passenger train was the carrier too of inbound supplies for the owners of summer homes on the lakes. At Big Lake Creek near Island Lake these supplies were transferred to barges for lake delivery. From Chicago & Northwestern near Powell a spur cut across Powell Marsh to reach a loading hoist between Star and the Grass lakes (now Stepping Stones). Yawkey-Bissell, Stange Lumber Co. and Brooks & Ross are just a few of the names of lumber or logging firms that cut in what is now Manitowish Waters. Hardwood logs were partially dried to ensure their staying afloat until another little lake boat, like the gasoline powered Skiddoo, could raft them to the two landings for loading on railroad cars. From the Star Lake spur track there also radiated little railroad spurs over which lightweight but standard gauge "Peggy" locomotives (geared locomotives, most likely of the shay or screwdriver variety) pulled in loads of logs from the woods; some of these temporary lines ran as far as Alder and Benson lakes. Big logging activity ceased between 1911 (when the last Yawkey-Bissell activity ceased; that firm's last local camp was near Mud Lake, now Fawn) and 1914, (when the last logs had been shipped from the hoist at Star Lake). In 1919 the Milwaukee Road removed its track along the north side of the chain; the spur to the C&NW was quietly taken up around the same time. The lone sawmills to operate after that era in the area were operated by Bob Loveless, who cut timber in the few pockets of virgin forest during the 1920's, and Marvin Loveless, who ran a small mill into the 1940's or 1950's.

The resort business developed alongside the homesteading that brought the early settlers to this area. First to offer hospitality to sportsmen and other visitors in a lodge was Abe LaFave. In 1892 George Buck settled some land at the narrows between Spider and Manitowish lakes, probably by homesteading it. He too developed a resort business, which stayed in the Buck family until it was sold in 1916 to the Koerners, who began operations under their name the next year. What is now Deer Park Lodge was begun in the 1890's by one J. A. LaMotte of Wausau; its succeeding owners included Jay A. "Dad" Paine, Max Engemann and Charlie Doriot. After spending several summers camping here, Henry Voss built his first cottage here in 1909 and opened an American plan resort in 1911 that is still operated by his family. Supplies were hard to get in those days and Henry Voss' establishment kept farm animals, including cows. For years he arose at four or five in the morning to deliver his milk to local residents and summer home occupants. His pantry had to stock not only supplies sufficient for the resort kitchen but also for sale to housekeeping cottage tenants and neighboring summerfolk.

Until motor travel was common, resort launches met guests borne by stage to the dam from trains at Manitowish or to Star Lake landing by Sherman's buckboard from the station at Powell. Road travel was eased considerable when a bridge was built across the narrows at Buck's, in 1912 and 1913; it replaced a makeshift ferry. Early vacationists were hardy souls, mainly sportsmen. They usually spent several weeks on their vacations in the early resorts, for most of them were people of means.

On the whole, farming has been neither very successful nor very popular in the Manitowish Waters area, with the possible exception of a little dairying. A few would-be farmers were lured up here by big city exploiters and land promoters, were soon disenchanted by the meagre results that attended their exertions, and abandoned their efforts.

In 1923 a new dam at Rest Lake was built; it now maintains a water level eight and a half feet above the original waters before 1892. In winter water levels are dropped by three and a half feet.

By 1927 area residents were chafing at what they felt was neglect by the town of Flambeau, to which our present day Manitowish Waters then belonged, and they succeeded in having the state legislature pass a bill creating the new Town of Spider Lake. The new town built a town hall during the next biennium and a modern school soon after. That school was outgrown and was enlarged twice before it was replaced in 1971 by a new, complete plant on highway K that is a consolidation of the grade schools for several north Lakeland communities. The town board also authorized a community cemetery in 1935, and the first burials date from 1936.

The Thirties brought the town new distinctions. One was the distinction of having its own fish hatchery, said to be the only municipal fish hatchery in the state. It was built in 1932 and enlarged in 1936 to provide tiny walleye pike and musky fry and fingerlings for planting in the chain of lakes. Peak walleye production was apparently 1942's 14,000,000 tiny fish, while the muskies of 1939 numbered a high 2,700,000 -- records are incomplete but that must have been the peak musky year. The last records cover operation in 1942; the fate of the hatchery is foreshadowed in minutes of a 1944 town board meeting, which state that the board then authorized removal of the electric meter from the hatchery. Its career a wartime victim, the hatchery remained closed and was finally razed two decades later. Few traces remain at the old site, just below the Rest Lake dam.

It was also in the early 1930s, 1934, to be exact, that desperado John Dillinger brought the area instant notoriety. Detected hiding out at Little Bohemia, he fled lawmen in a shootout that cost two lives.

Manitowish Waters was a more appropriate name for the chain of lakes area, and in 1938 the name of the town was changed from Spider Lake to Manitowish Waters. The Post Office Department gave the name added recognition when it established the new Manitowish Waters post office in 1949. (It served much of the area previously served by the post office at Manitowish station, nine miles distant, and in subsequent years both the railroad station and post office named Manitowish disappeared from the scene.)

The past quarter century has been an era of tremendous growth and refinements in Manitowish Waters. Between the late 1940s and the early 1970s the tax list rose from 300 bill-receiving taxpayers to 800 propertyholders. Chamber of Commerce efforts towards developing an airport -- which date back to 1943 -- began to bear fruit in 1945 when the airport was cleared and graded. It was soon enlarged to a two-runway facility and received lighting in 1964. Fire protection, a service authorized on a very small scale by the town authorities as far back as 1931, received a great boost with development of the modern fully equipped fire department and ambulance operation two decades later.

The Community Church and Catholic parish were organized after World War II. In an interesting display of religious cooperation both groups worshipped in the same facilities in the old town hall for a number of years, the Catholics very early on Sunday mornings and the Protestants in the later forenoon. Ground was broken for the new Community Church edifice in 1954. The Catholic Church was built in 1958 and named Our Lady, Queen of Peace to honor dead warriors of Wisconsin's 32nd Division, as a memorial to whom a portion of the construction funds were donated.

Information Booth, Community Center Building

A new community center building was erected on the airport grounds in 1961. It provides permanent town offices and a gathering place for local functions ranging from town meetings and elections to wedding receptions and an annual summertime art fair that draws artists from all over northern Wisconsin.

Retail trade has prospered. Merchants in "downtown" Manitowish Waters enlarged their establishments and a variety of new boutiques and retail businesses opened. New stores appeared as well at the south entry into the township. The year 1972 saw several of the downtown businesses in new quarters, clustered around LaPortes' super market. This complex was built in 1971-72 to replace a predecessor shopping center destroyed in a summer, 1971 fire.

Industry and large scale commerce appeared in 1945 with the arrival of cranberry developers and in 1949 with the advent of Trueflight Manufacturing Co., an archery equipment firm. Both activities have found Manitowish Waters a happy environment and have flourished here; their stories are found elsewhere in this booklet.

Few areas have seen more change in the years that settlers and tourists have known it, but the one bond that unites everyone from the first settlers to the most modern vacationists is the ability to say, about Manitowish Waters, "We like it here."

You will too.

MANITOWISH WATERS INVITES YOU . . .

and with its invitation it promises you beauty, excitement and hospitality.

The beauty is the sparkle of thirty named lakes and the laugh of miles of friendly streams. It is the lap of waves on seemingly endless sandy shorelines or the rustle of hiking feet ankle deep in new-fallen golden leaves. It is the fragrant green canopy of the pines sheltering untrampled white snow or a June blanket of bracken ferns and wintergreen. It is May's blushing wildflowers or August's bending blackberry bough heavy with fruit. It is the haunting cry of a loon over a lake silhouetted in a scarlet sunset or the unforgettably thrilling chorus of geese rising to the march of dawn across an autumn sky at Powell Marsh.

The excitement is the exhilaration of waterskiing on a chain of fourteen lakes or of watching experts barefoot-ski and clown at the Rest Lake ski shows. It is the thrill of landing a fighting muskie after a long and equal battle, or bagging an early fall duck. It is the fresh joy of tacking around the chain by sailboat, or treating the family to a day or so of canoeing on the handy Manitowish River where the rapids are easy and the solitude engaging. It is the reliable catch of panfish from most any lake, or the novelty of watching busy October crews harvesting the state's most productive cranberry marshes. It is the rigors of ice fishing, or the fellowship of a warm drink after a long snowmobile trek across lake and marsh.

Hospitality is an eighty-year tradition at Manitowish Waters. Long gone are the logging camps that offered a meal to early day passers-by or the little log taverns that succeeded them at the river landings and lake landings where visitors tarried. Gone too are the rough fishing lodges on the islands or shores of Manitowish or Stone or Island or Spider or Rest lakes. In their place are luxurious resorts complete with hotels and cottages and even an occasional swimming pool to supplement the ever-lovely beaches. Or colonies of cabins, from the rough to the refined, with every facility for a day or a season's housekeeping. The cookshack of yesterday is today's restaurant, carryout shop or supper club, maybe even with live entertainment or music; still popular is the friendly neighborhood pub, too.

So . . . whether you come merely to see, or to DO, Manitowish Waters is your best vacation choice! The appeal that has lured over 600 summer-home-owning families can be yours, too -- for a day, a week, a season, in the perfect comfort of our wide spectrum of motels, resorts and cottages!

ELSEWHERE . . .

Tired of FISHING, SWIMMING, LOAFING? Why not take a scenic drive through Vilas County? In Vilas County we have over 1000 lakes and streams, many acres of forest plantations, many acres of timber. Be on the lookout for wildlife—deer, bear, raccoons, fox, coyotes, woodchucks are most abundant. On some streams you may spot beaver dams. On your tour ask the various community information bureaus or business places for directions. The friendly folk will be glad to help you find the spots you are seeking.

On your drive you might look for —

UNUSUAL ROCK FORMATIONS — Near Presque Isle. Mica Schist deposit resembling a petrified tree, many thousands of years old. Presque Isle, formerly a booming lumber town, still has a tiny dam and the largest WALLEYE REARING POND in the state of Wisconsin. Hundreds of thousands of small walleye pike fry are reared to fingerling size to stock the lakes of northern Wisconsin.

VILAS COUNTY HISTORICAL MUSEUM at Sayner — Interesting collection of local historical objects and displays explaining local lore. Also in Sayner are walleye rearing ponds, Len Weber's Wild life Farm, golfing at the Plum Lake Golf Course. Near Sayner are CRYSTAL LAKE BEACH and campground on a very clear lake, and MUS-SKI MOUNTAIN SKI HILL, with slopes for children, grown ups and sophisticated skiers.

INDIAN HOMES AND CEMETERY — Near Partridge Lake. This area has been inhabited by Indians since the beginning of time in Vilas County. At Lac du Flambeau see the old Indian village, browse through curio shops, visit the Grahl Mutation Mink Exhibition and see the weekly Indian Pow-wows, a feature attraction of the Indian Reservation.

MEDICINE ROCK — Lac du Flambeau. Scene of Chippewa-Sioux battle.

BOULDER JUNCTION — So named because the Milwaukee Road once ran two railroad lines that met in the community, now a tourist instead of lumbering center. Features are Shrimp's Wild Life Display and the unusually interesting and worthwhile AQUALAND live fish and wild life studios.

ARBOR VITAE — Once a lumber milling center, now site of Henkelman's Museum; nearby on highway 51 are Marchino Wild Life Museum and golfing at Trout Lake Golf Course.

WOODRUFF AND MINOCQUA — Though just out of the county, these communities offer many interesting things to see and do. Free water ski shows thrice weekly. Aqua-Rama, gala three day festivities in early August. Squirrel Hill ski area. Golf at Minocqua Country Club; Movies at three theatres; shops. Near Woodruff is the STATE FISH HATCHERY. Worth a visit, this hatchery hatches the eggs and rears them into fry, providing many of the fry and fingerlings planted in northern Wisconsin.

STAR LAKE FORESTRY PLANTATION — On the banks of the famed Star Lake near Sayner. The site was once an old lumber camp. The plantation itself was started in 1913 in an effort to show people that forest trees could be planted.

EAGLE NESTS — Throughout Vilas County. One on Highway "G" approximately 6 miles out of Eagle River is marked by a highway sign.

FIVE LAKE EXPERIMENTAL PROJECT — An experiment in fish habitat and production, on Nebish Road. Also along this road are forest plantations where it is common to see deer feeding in the evening.

This enables the resort operator to give you a more satisfactory reply and to recommend the accommodations most suitable for your party.

STATE TIME AND LENGTH OF STAY, number of adults and children in party and state ages of children. Above all, do not overcrowd a cottage as nothing is gained and many times your vacation is less enjoyable.

MANY FOLKS are under the impression that you must come to the north country in July and August to enjoy the best weather.

UNDER NORMAL CONDITIONS, we enjoy fine weather in May, June, Sept. and October, and better fishing, too. Then too, most resorts offer special rates in May, June and September as an inducement for the fishermen to come and get 'em.

SEE THE NORTHWOODS IN COLOR — a sight that is worth the trip. Color camera enthusiasts will have a rare treat. About the middle of September the woods begin to show nature's colors that defy an artist's reproduction. Don't miss it! It has often been said that September, with its warm sunny days and cool invigorating nights, is King of the season.

SHOW THIS BOOK TO YOUR FRIENDS who are planning a vacation. They'll appreciate getting information on our wonderful recreational area and it will aid them considerably in selecting their vacation spot.

MANITOWISH WATERS is located in the most picturesque part of the Wisconsin Northwoods!

ON BEAUTIFUL SPIDER LAKE

In the Center of the Manitowish Waters Chain of 14 Beautiful Lakes

Fisherman's Paradise

Fishing in the MANITOWISH WATERS provides the thrill that all fishermen dream about, if you cast, or still-fish, this is the place. There is no thrill that can compare with the battle that ensues when a MUSKIE is hooked; nor no fish more palatable and delicious than those taken from these clear, spring-fed lakes. The fishing season opens around May 1st each year. For the best fishing, we recommend the early part of the season or during September and October.

Finest Bathing Beach

A natural formed sandy beach with a gradual slope, with no holes or drop-offs, provides perfect safety for children. Bathing here is a real treat, fine sand beach and clear, sparkling water forms a temptation you'll never resist; Large pier for sun bathing.

RED FEATHER LODGE

Modern Housekeeping Cottages

To really appreciate the wonderful work of mother nature one has to see the great job that she has finished at the Red Feather Lodge. Our beautiful beach was not just a hurry-up-job, it required many years of hard labor to complete, all sand bottom without any sudden drop-offs.

It took many moons to form a large body of water that formed the Manitowish Waters Chain. Rest Lake is just one of the fourteen lakes that formed the chain. She also stocked these lakes with the tiger musky, walleye and many pan fish.

To help mother nature complete these surroundings, we have added very modern cottages so that everyone can relax and enjoy her many years of toil.

To really enjoy and appreciate her work, one has to see it. We hope you will join the happy tribe at the Red Feather Lodge.

THE BEST IN SUMMER TYPE COTTAGES

SIMON'S SUNRISE RESORT LOCATED ON BEAUTIFUL PRESQUE ISLE LAKE

Here's a vacation spot your whole family will enjoy. Accommodations were designed to provide comfort and relaxation for young and old alike. While vacationing at Sunrise Resort, you leave behind only the discomfort of summer time life in the city.

Six like new, completely carpeted cottages are available. Four 2 bedroom cottages, two 3 bedroom cottages. One of the 3 bedroom cottages has a fireplace.

Facilities for every type of recreation are available at Sunrise Resort. There's a playground for youngsters, the cool waters are grand for swimming and safe for the children too! We have Alumacraft boats with Evinrude motors to rent to the fishermen.

A licensed Deer Farm on the premises offers young and old alike the enjoyment of watching the woodland antics of the deer family. ABSOLUTELY NO PETS!

The lakes around Sunrise Resort abound in all types of fish, from blue gills to pike and Presque Isle itself is second to none with its muskie catches. We are open May 1st.

MUSKELLUNGE

DESCRIPTION

The general form of the muskellunge is similar to that of the common pickerel or northern pike. They reach a length of six or seven feet and specimens have been caught which weigh fifty to sixty pounds. Color is dark gray; sides have broken and unbroken stripes on a silvery background; the head is larger than that of the pickerel and both the cheek and the opercle are scaled above but unscaled on the lower halves.

GREAT NORTHERN PIKE

DESCRIPTION

This is an elongate slender type of fish with a color of greenish and bluish gray with more or less purplish luster on the back and sides. Yellowish below and white on belly. Sides with irregular rows of small round yellowish and gold spots. The top of the head is dark olive green; mouth slender and large. One of the most consistent marks for identification of this species is that the entire cheek is scaled while only the upper half of the opercle is scaled and the lower part is bare.

WALLEYE OR PIKE PERCH

DESCRIPTION

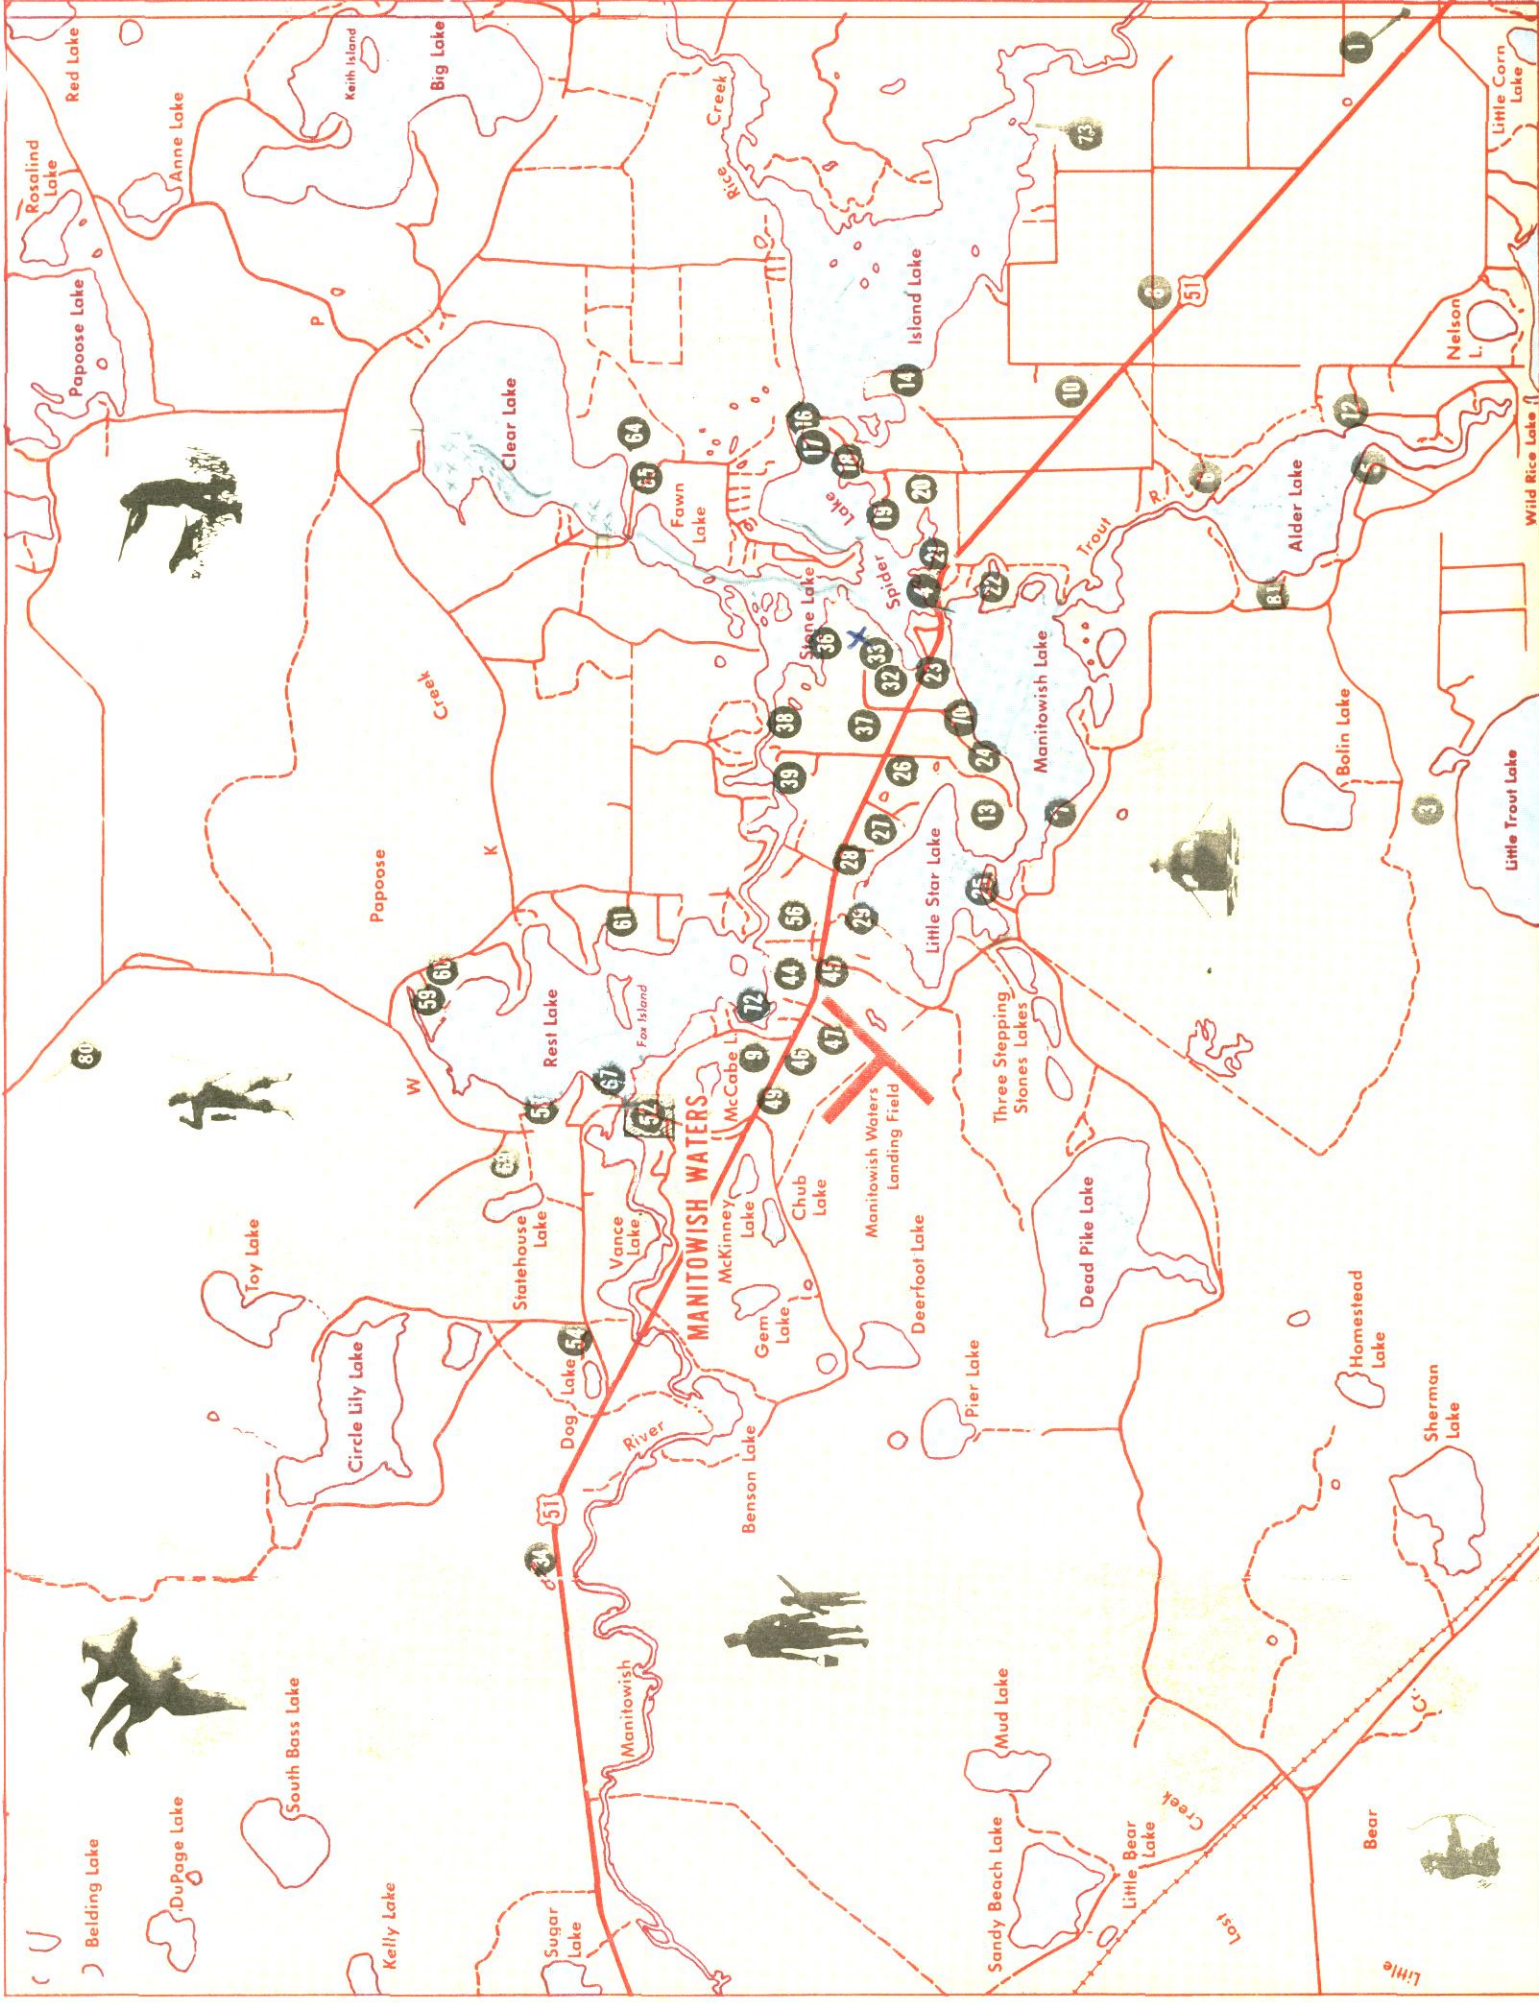

The walleye is a slender fish moderately compressed. Generally the color is brassy yellow and gold shading to olive and yellow mottled with brass. The belly and sides are white tinged with green; head is slender and tapered; lower jaw slightly shorter than the upper. It has two separate distinct dorsal fins and the mouth is well supplied with strong teeth. The flesh is white, firm, and delicately flavored.

STURGEON

DESCRIPTION

Noted for its yield of eggs for the making of caviar. Length can exceed six feet and weigh upwards of one hundred pounds. Are distinguished by a shovel-like snout, and head covered by bony plates and shieldlike plates on the side. Color changes occurs with maturity; young being dark olive above with dark blotches on the sides, the adults being greenish olive or reddish and without spots.

Manitowish Waters Game Fish

LARGEMOUTH BLACK BASS

DESCRIPTION

General color is dark green above, sides and below greenish silver; three oblique dark stripes across the cheek; belly is white. The head is large and the mouth very wide, the corner of which extends beyond the eye.

SMALLMOUTH BLACK BASS

DESCRIPTION

The general color of the smallmouth black bass is dark golden green with a brownish luster which may be blotched with darker spots along the sides. The mouth is large but the corner of it does not extend past eye.

CRAPPIES

DESCRIPTION

There are two species of crappies in Wisconsin known as the common or white crappie and the black crappie or calico bass. The chief difference between the black and white is that the white has six spines in the dorsal fin and a plain anal fin while the black has seven spines in the dorsal and a strongly reticulated anal fin. Outside of these two exceptions the two crappies are almost identical in appearance. They reach a maximum length of twelve inches and weigh slightly more than one pound.

BLUEGILL

DESCRIPTION

Length sometimes reaches ten to twelve inches but they are a comparatively short and compressed fish. The nose is upturned in appearance; the color light to dark olive with luster of purple to lavender; belly yellow or rich yellowish brown. Head short; mouth small and oblique; the operaculum flap is very broad and of a rich velvety black color; side with three or four broad dark greenish bars; fins are all greenish.

HOW TO USE MAP

On the map on the next page, you will find all of our members and local advertisers and their locations in the town. The list is arranged alphabetically, and the page number on which their ad appears, together with the code number on the map are adjacent. To find Housekeeping cottages, Bars, Restaurants, or American Plan resorts, look under that column, and then find it on the map under its code number.

The Manitowish Waters Chamber of Commerce is a member of the Vilas County Chamber of Commerce, the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce, the Resort Association of Wisconsin, and advertises in Wonderful Wisconsin. It gladly cooperates with any other organization promoting the Northern Wisconsin Vacationland.

Where the nation finds recreation!

Manitowish Waters, "Barefoot Water Skiing Capitol of the Midwest," in 1972 marks the 17th summer of organized water ski shows and activities on its lakes.

The Skiing Skeeters have as their predecessors the young members of the Manitowish Water Boat Club, a group established to foster water safety and interest in water sports. Skiers in the boat club presented ski shows on Manitowish and Rest Lakes and even at community celebrations elsewhere. The only boats and equipment used for the shows was owned by the skier-members or loaned by generous residents.

The present group is a 1961 revival that took the name, Manitowish Waters Skiing Skeeters. Summer residents and all-year inhabitants form a membership of over 50 individuals. Members are selected on the basis of interest and cooperation as well as skiing talent, and they move up the ladder from junior to senior or full membership status.

The club owns an elaborate dual-motored towboat and pick-up boat, extensive skiing, lighting and public address equipment, and maintains all its equipment at its own expense. Its only financial support comes from members' dues and voluntary contributions from the public. Its ski show bowl and headquarters are on Rest Lake near the dam.

The activities of the group lie in three spheres: entertainment, social and competitive.

Two evenings a week—Wednesdays and Sundays—the Skeeters and lovely Skeeterettes present free ski shows, each an eighty minute array of acts highlighted by jumping, barefoot skiing a pyramid and ever popular clown routines.

The club has been sponsoring weekly dances in the Community Center following the Wednesday shows. The dances are open to the public. Private activities include a corn roast, tournament weekend festivities and an annual banquet.

Annually in August they stage their barefoot competition, the Beier Barefoot Tournament, open only to club members.

The first statewide barefoot tournament held anywhere in the USA was sponsored by the Skeeters in 1964, and the club played host again in August, 1966 and 1967 to the 3rd and 4th Wisconsin State Barefoot Tournament, for which skiers from all over the state congregate at Rest Lake Ski Bowl.

The Skeeters' interest in barefoot skiing has given them, 3 of the five top barefooters in the state, the state champion barefoot team 4 years in succession and a reputation for keen competition in the most difficult of all forms of skiing. The nationwide publicity accorded to the club have established its claim that Manitowish Waters is the "Barefoot Capitol of the Midwest."

EVERYONE WELCOME

Many people who know how beautiful our Manitowish Waters area is in the summer—with its high-land climate and its attendant freedom from most allergies—have never been up here during the fall season to see the brilliant colors which nature provides. It isn't always easy to predict the exact dates when coloring will be at its height, but usually from about September 20 until October 15 comes the period when the leaves pass through their fullest color. Maples, popple, birch, oak all contrast their vivid reds and golds against the dark green of the pines and firs to create a paradise for the color photographer.

Look out across our lakes and watch the opposite shoreline, morning, noon and especially at eventide, when the setting sun hits the trees and brings out the full panorama of colors in our woods.

Fishing usually is good too, when the game fish are getting fattened up for winter and striking at lures and baits that they might ignore during the lush summer days. Sturgeon are in season in fall, and many fine specimens have been taken from our Manitowish River, below the Rest Lake dam. Each year the public celebrations planned for Colorama time are bigger and better, with many of our neighboring towns also participating. These include fish bakes, chicken barbecues, dances, color tours by road and lake, tours of cranberry marshes. All of these things are here to be enjoyed. Won't you make a reservation at your favorite resort for a week or weekend during the fall and give yourself a real treat?

TRUEFLIGHT MANUFACTURING CO.Manitowish Waters Success Story

By — Michael J. Dunn, III

The name of Manitowish Waters is being borne all over the world, thanks to products of the Trueflight Manufacturing Co. In fact, across the seas the reputation of Manitowish Waters is exactly that of this unusual archery equipment manufacturer.

Trueflight was founded in 1946, and when it moved to our community in 1949, its owners decided to concentrate on processing the feathers used on arrows. They developed their own processes to split the shaft and cut the feather to size and dye it, and then themselves handcrafted the unique machinery to do the work. Manufacturing operations soon outgrew the original basement shop and spread to all other available space in town; packaging was done in their own homes by women employees. In 1957 the present large plant on highway 51 was built to consolidate the far-flung operations under one roof. So busy is Trueflight and its new subsidiary, Arrowmatic, Inc., that the new plant has always been operated on a two shift basis! Employment by the two firms is over 30, and additional local craftsmen derive income from work subcontracted to local woodworking and fiberglass molding shops.

The products of this firm are as interesting as its happy history. The firm was a pioneer not only in mechanically processing arrow feathers but has led the industry in marketing ready-to-apply feathers already die-cut to exact shape and size. It also markets bow accessories such as brush buttons to keep leaves out of the end of a stalker's bow as he travels in dense undergrowth. The company has shipped its wares to every continent on the globe. Europe is a major market for Trueflight merchandise; another important but surprising customer is Australia.

Following the name Trueflight across the nation and around the globe is the new name of Arrowmatic. This concern builds and installs archery lanes—indoor practice and competition archery ranges that feature shooting consoles, automatic foul-line equipment and unique push button automatic target returns which roll right up to the archer to allow easy retrieving of arrows.

Trueflight's far-shooting management is constantly at work developing new ideas into marketable products.

This aerial photo, taken by the author, writer, shows cranberry operations at Manitowish Waters, Wisconsin, during October 1964 harvest. In foreground are beds of 3 companies, around lake shore and beyond trees are four more sets. Water source is Little Trout Lake, upper left, whose level drops six inches on nights when all 7 growers flood their beds. Main water distribution artery is ditch in foreground. CRANBERRY INDUSTRY IN MANITOWISH WATERS

By — Michael J. Dunn, III

Manitowish Waters boasts one of the largest concentrations of cranberry marshes in the state of Wisconsin, and its production of between thirty and forty thousand barrels annually is a potent factor in making Wisconsin the second largest cranberry raising state in the nation.

The operations of seven growers cluster around or near Little Trout Lake, in the southeastern corner of the town of Manitowish Waters, occupying several hundred acres of lowland that until 1945 was unproductive and useless marshland. Cranberry raising came to Manitowish Waters two decades ago not by accident but only because this area, then not even penetrated by roads, fulfilled the unique demands made by the extremely fussy berry. These needs include suitable soil, flat terrain, nearby sources of sand, and perhaps most crucial, an adequate supply of slightly acid water, the only type water cranberries can tolerate.

The land did not automatically yield to cultivation, and when seven of the eight participating growers planted their first vines in mid-1946, the occasion marked the climax of a year of cooperation and hard work, and an earlier year of planning.

Early preparation, handicapped by lack of roads and utilities at the outset, included laying out an elaborate network of common ditches, roads and canals. Only by such pooling of efforts could the new operators afford the expense of opening up and draining a virgin cranberry area. Though the peaty soil made cranberry growing more promising, it meant months of work leveling beds, scalping off the top growth, and construction of sand dikes that would both contain water to flood the long narrow beds, and also serve as roads. Most of the growers have an area of about fifty acres under cultivation or development, but the team effort of 1945-46 prepared only the first ten acres for each grower; every operator has developed subsequent beds on his own. Long lean years still awaited the operators, since cranberries bear marketable yields of fruit only after 3 or 4 years.

Into the ground of a dry and newly prepared bed, cuttings mowed from vines in a successful bed are pressed; flooding then helps set the vines, and their rooting is further encouraged by thin layers of sand spread every few winters over the ice covering them. At the time of the spring thaw the sand gently sifts down, helping also to discourage the weeds. (Flooding beds every winter protects the vines.) If the vines grow too rambunctious, mowing the excess vegetation has the same effect that pruning has upon fruit trees: it forces the energy into fruitbearing.

Safe chemicals help the grower combat pests, diseases and weeds. Weather is his dread foe. Summer hail storms may arise with no warning, giving the grower no chance to protect his beds against a bombardment that might destroy an entire season's hard work. Blossoms and fruit are vulnerable too to frost, and warfare against the cold means a constantly drawn battle. The arsenal of the cranberry raiser includes three main weapons. One local man uses a wind machine to circulate the frosty layer of air. Others spray water over the beds; the falling water absorbs cold that might otherwise attack the fruit. Most growers flood the otherwise solid and dry beds at the first sign of a freeze. Giant pumps flood the beds and then can be reversed to drain the water. The beds must be drained by sunup lest reflected rays bounce up from the water and burn the fruit from beneath. Thus long successions of sleepless nights are no novelty to the hardy souls who grow the berries we enjoy.

Harvest occurs the last third of September and on into October. The beds are flooded to soften the otherwise harsh effect of machinery and hip-booted workers laboring among the vines. Ingenious many-toothed picking machines gently pluck the berries and discharge them either into boxes or little boats, which are then towed on trailers to each growers warehouse. There the berries are cleaned of chaff, dried and stored until milling. Milling mechanically removes bad berries and grades the suitable ones. Eagle-eyed inspectors check all the fruit visually before allowing it to be packed; by hand they remove any irregular berries that have sneaked by the grading machinery. Shipping time lasts beyond harvest, sometimes into November. Winter finds the growers busy flooding, sanding and repairing equipment.

The all season appeal which cranberries are developing can be seen from the many ways they are shipped. Much fruit is shipped in one pound bags or boxes—many housewives freeze these for later use. A much greater amount of fruit is shipped in huge bags to processing plants which make popular standbys like cranberry jelly or ingenious new creations like cranberry-orange relish. Other berries find their way to processors of prepared frozen dinners; still others appear on breakfast tables the year round in the increasingly popular cranberry juice drinks.

The Waters Of Youth

Manitowish, an Indian name,
All old timers proudly acclaim,
Noted waters of health, sport and fun
In northern Wisconsin on route fifty one.
They attract summer guests from far and near,
Old and young coming year after year,
When all abandon toil and care
In outdoor life in pure pine air,
Safe on sand beaches and timbered lands,
Hosts of welcome extending warm hands.

When calls of play arouse you
And tell you vacation is here,
That you long to paddle your own canoe,
Exempt from your job and career,
Remember that here one is safe and free,
Secure and secluded by Nature's decree.

Waters of famous Manitowish
In vite your presence to play and fish,
Sure to gratify every wish.
