78 Vilas County Lakes Given New Names by Federal Board

State Abolishes 18 Bass Lakes —in Name Only; Changes Approved.

In planning your fishing trips to Vilas county this summer, perhaps a long way off now—you might as well know that Wisconsin has abolished 18 Bass lakes in the county. But before you get excited about being deprived, we'll offer the information that nothing but the name of the lakes has been changed.

And if you insist on fishing on lakes which are called Bass lake you still have the opportunity to try your skill on more Bass lakes by name in Wisconsin—including a number of Bass lakes in Oneida county.

The United States board of geographical names has approved a list of name changes for United States waters, including 78 changes in Wisconsin—all in Vilas county. These new names for Vilas county lakes were announced by the secretary of the state geographical board.

In making the name changes the chief objective was to reduce the duplication of names. In many cases it is a matter of name preference. For instance, resort conversationists do not like to advertise a Mud lake.

Here's Complete List.

FARM LEADERS TO GIVE TALKS

Three agricultural leaders will speak before an estimated 4,500 men and women farmers in Rhinelander and in Wisconsin on March 20, 21 and 22. All three of the meetings are scheduled for 1 p. m., and they will be held in the high school auditorium in Rhinelander on Thursday, March 20; in the senior high school auditorium in Appleton on Friday, March 21; and in the Central high school auditorium in Madison on Saturday, March 22.

Harry B. Schuster, director of the north central region of the AAA, will be the principal speaker on these programs, speaking on the topic "Farmers and Their Place in Agriculture." Schuster succeeded the present secretary of agriculture, Claude R. Wickard.

Walter P. Kuhrtenacy, chairman of the Wisconsin state agricultural conservation committee, will speak on "The Responsibility of Wisconsin Farmers to the AAA Farm Program," and Arlie Mucks, ex-officio member of the committee and secretary and associate director of extension at the University of Wisconsin, will have for his subject "Co-operation Between Agricultural Agencies."

Michelson and Schwartz Seek Hazelhurst Job

HAZELHURST, March 18 — (By Correspondent of The News)—The following candidates were nominated at the caucus held recently:

Chairmen—Peter Michelson, incumbent, and Ed Schwartz.

Supervisors — Robert Anderson, Earl Goodnow, Lars Stubbe and Leonard Swanson.

Clerk—Louis Woodrick, incumbent.

Treasurer—Einar Winger, incumbent.

Assessor—Roland Anderson.

Justice of Peace—Arthur Carlson.

Constables — Floyd Chapple and Fred Kettner.

Couple Is Honored.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Schultz were honored on their silver wedding anniversary Saturday evening with a party in the Yankey hall. A supper was served to about 75 guests from out-of-town, and later Rhinelander friends called to extend congratulations to the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Schultz have lived in this vicinity for many years.

Hazelhurst Briefs.

Harry Zimmerman left last week for Milwaukee, where he signed up for military training; a farewell party was given in his honor at the Yankey hall before he left. Mrs. Lars are both at home after being in the hospital for several months—John O. Schwartz and wife left Friday for a week's visit in St. Louis, where they visit the Bordenkeyes.
