

VOLUME TWO

WINTER, 1965

NUMBER TWO

MORE GROWTH IN 1966

Expansion plans of the next unit of The Moorings are under way, and progress already is noticeable. "We anticipated getting under way in January, but the clearing work by bulldozers began early in December and the draglines moved in two weeks later," said President H. Milton Link.

City and County planning boards have checked the preliminary plans. Zoning, streets, water and sewer systems will be equal to or better than the requirements of either City or County.

The new area covers one-half mile of Trail and Gulf frontage, comprising 300 acres of land. To all intent and purpose, it will be an extension of the present Moorings.

No timetable has been established for completion, Link said, but more information probably will be available in April. A sales plat of roughly the first one hundred acres may be ready by April, he said.

"If property continues to sell at its present pace—and we expect this winter will be one of our busiest seasons—there will be few if any Moorings homesites left by Spring," Link said. "With this in mind, we will proceed as rapidly as possible with the orderly development of this next phase of our development."

"KNOW YOUR NEIGHBOR"

Survey Scheduled for Moorings Residents

During January The Moorings office is conducting a survey! No, nothing like the Kinsey report . . . simply a representative gathering data to provide the developers with pertinent information concerning the type of people who live in our community. Prospective residents frequently ask about owners, their professions, whether most are retired and other questions that reflect their interest in moving here.

So we are asking that you cooperate by giving a few minutes of your time to a carefully screened college student. We assure you that there will be no invasion of privacy! After the survey is finished we are sure that you, too, will be interested in the facts; which we will report in the next Mooring Line.

January will be "Know Your Neighbor" month, so look out for the interviewer. He or she will be ringing your doorbell soon!

Have You Joined Moorings Property Owners Assn.?

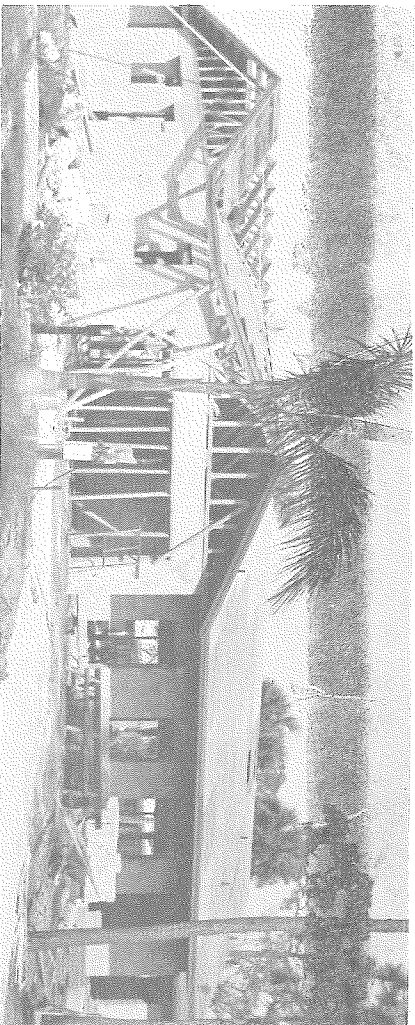

Several newcomers to The Moorings have called The Moorings office for information on joining The Moorings Property Owners Association. This Association is comprised of eligible property owners in The Moorings who elect their officers and directors annually.

A non-profit organization, the Association's primary purpose is to maintain its 500-foot private beach on Gulf Shore Boulevard and add improvements deemed necessary or advisable.

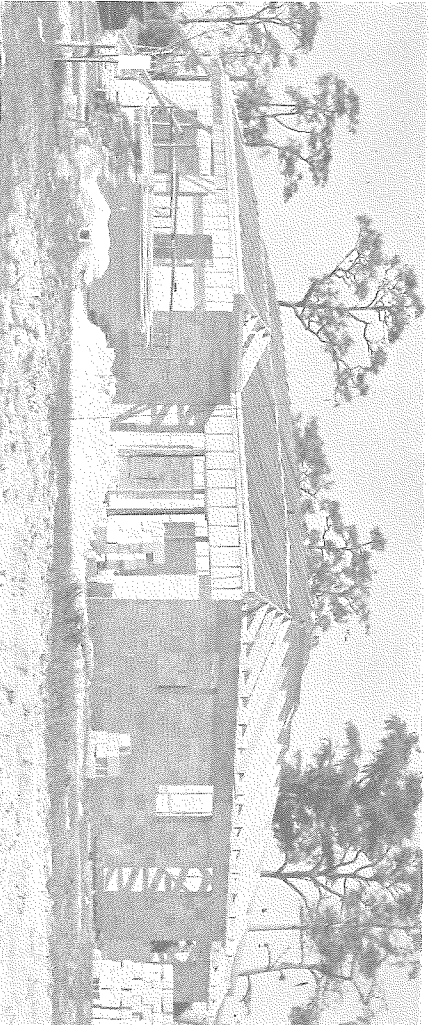

If you are a Moorings property owner, you have a stake in this valuable beach. For information and a membership blank, write to the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Dorothy Platt, P. O. Box 993, Naples, or call her at Midway 2-3412.

TEE TOTALING

Happy New Year, duffers, hackers, choppers and champs! With a whole new year ahead you can resolve to spend more time out on the Moorings Golf Course and bring that golf score way, way down.

To start 1966 off in fine fettle, golf pro Bill McDevitt will begin a series of instruction on January 3rd for high school boys and girls interested in the sport. The series will begin at the school with a film featuring Sammy Sneed. This film, made while Mr. Sneed was on tour, will be accompanied by a lecture by McDevitt on golfing rules, etiquette and a general run-down on the game.

If this project is successful and there are enough young people interested in golf, leagues will be formed with possible matches with other schools and between the various teams. The Moorings course will be used for league play, and Mr. McDevitt will extend special rates to team members to practice at his new range on the East Tamiami Trail.

The program has been formulated with the assistance of the Naples High School athletic staff. For those young people interested, we suggest you contact Mrs. William Malone, girls' athletic director at the high school, or Bill Malone, the high school basketball coach. Information is also available at the pro shop at the Moorings Country Club.

Sunday, January 9th, is the day set for the next Collier County Men's Golf Association tournament at the Moorings Country Club. Tee off time is 8 a.m., with breakfast being served in the club house between 7 and 8 a.m. At noon Chef Demas has planned a hearty lunch.

A number of valuable prizes will be awarded to the winner of this one-day tournament.

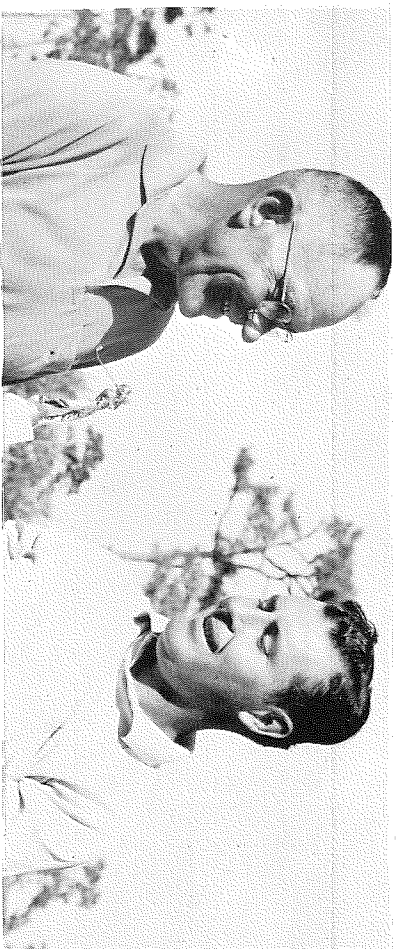

Witt Pitkin is living proof that it's never too late to start playing golf . . . even if you've retired from the game some 37 years ago. Yes, Mr. Pitkin hasn't had a club in his hands for 10, these many years but resumed playing in July. He is one of the most ardent and enthusiastic golfers on the course and his game is one of the most improved of any golfer that regularly plays the course at The Moorings.

Harold "Mike" Brewer had the nicest Christmas present any golfer could get! Just before the big holiday he made his first hole-in-one . . . and he's been playing since 1919. The lucky shot occurred on the 15th hole at the Moorings Country Club. He was using a five wood on the 175-yard hole.

Mr. and Mrs. Brewer are residents of the Carriage Club, where they spend their winters. They summer in New York.

REMINDER: To keep up with the golf news and the current golf scores at the Moorings Country Club be sure to listen to on-the-spot reports from the club on WNOG at 5:15 every weekday.

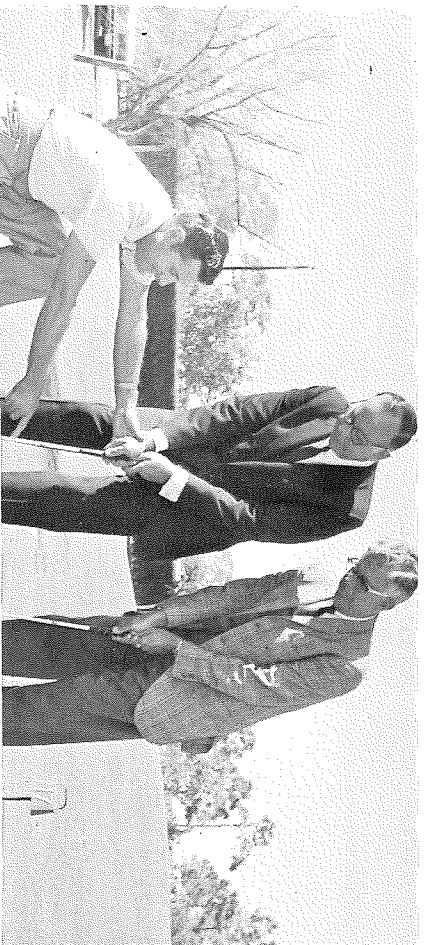

A four-week net championship tournament was held this Fall out at the club with genial Sam England the winner of this Moorings' Men's Golf Association tourney. (See picture.) L. L. "Doc" Loach and Martin Lynch tied for second play and Lynch won on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff. Following the playoff a cocktail party and dinner was held for members of the association and their ladies. One hundred and six golfers and staffers were there for the presentation of the trophies.

Congressman Paul Rogers, here to give a report to his friends in Collier County on the happenings in the halls of Congress, took a brief few minutes to try out the putting green at The Moorings Country Club and visit with a friend of long standing, H. Milton Link, president of The Moorings Development Co. Pro Bill McDevitt contributed to the pleasant few minutes of relaxation by giving them some tips to improve their putting.

The Southern Senior Ladies' Tournament will be held at the Moorings Country Club January 19, 20 and 21. It will coincide with the Southern Senior Men's Invitational Golf Tournament being held at the Beach Club Jan. 18-23.

About sixty entrees are expected for the women, with starting times and scores to be tabulated and posted at the Beach Club. Registrations will be limited to the wives of the senior members. The tournament has been held in Naples for the past six or seven years.

Those interested in participating should contact Paul Bell or Marion Fuller at the Beach Club.

AN INVITATION . . .

To the Tavern-on-the-Green

Just a little tired of traditional holiday food? We'd like to suggest a delicious and different change of pace at the delightful Tavern-on-the-Green. Chef Paul Demas has come up with some fascinating fare, including his own special Greek salad from a recipe developed at the famed Pappas Restaurant in Tarpon Springs.

Paul Demas has opened this intimate and charming eating spot at the Moorings Country Club for breakfast and lunch with snacks served during the afternoon. The breakfasts are hearty or simple; take your choice. At luncheon they feature a cold table and a variety of sandwiches and specialties. There's always icy beer in the cooler and other cooling drinks.

The dining room, which overlooks the scenic golf course, has been the scene of a number of private cocktail and dinner parties, with canapes and food by Mr. Demas. On December 14th the employees of Superior Gardens, Inc. were feted at a Christmas party and enjoyed a sumptuous buffet dinner after cocktails.

The Tavern-on-the-Green is open from 8 a.m. until 5 in the afternoon. The club is available for special parties in the evening.

PARTY LINE

A new year . . . new resolutions and new neighbors throughout The Moorings. In 1966 residents can look forward to many new faces and some familiar ones, too, of those who are finally coming to Naples to make their permanent home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Edlund have been spending their vacations in Naples for some twelve years. Recently they broke all ties in their former hometown, Burlington, Vermont, and will now call The Moorings "home." Their beautiful homesite on Windward Way overlooks the bay, and when the home is completed it will take full advantage of this spectacular view. The Edlunds are now working on their plans for their home.

Any day now Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elliott will be enjoying another dazzling view from their Harbour Lights apartment. The Elliotts will be the first occupants of this lovely new cooperative apartment.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Taylor had an extra, extra happy holiday season this year. They moved into their new home at 2725 Leeward Lane in early December and had plenty of time to get settled before the fast-paced holiday season. The Taylors hail from Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, where Mr. Taylor was engaged in the steel business.

Another couple to move into a new home on Leeward Lane were Mr. and Mrs. James O'Brien. They joined The Moorings family in November and are also among the many families who came here originally to vacation and they stayed to live. Their old hometown was Montclair, New Jersey.

Dr. James Wardwell has retired from his post as a professor at Colgate University in Hamilton, New York, and he and Mrs. Wardwell will be here permanently at their new home on Leeward Lane. The home is nearing completion and they'll start the new year in a new environment and among new friends!

For six years now Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Wagborne have divided their time between Duxbury, Massachusetts, and their Naples' home at 540 Mooring Line Drive. Now they've sold their home in Duxbury and will make The Moorings their permanent headquarters. Mr. Wagborne was formerly in the construction business but is now retired.

Last fall, Ray McNamee retired as manager of research for Union Carbide and brought his family to Naples to live. They've been residing on Mooring Line Drive and have also been joined by his mother, Mrs. Anna Carper, formerly of Charleston, West Virginia. Mrs. Carper has purchased an apartment at the Wedge Wood Club and will soon be moving in. The McNamees will also be on the move come next April. They'll be occupying a new home on Crayton Road this Spring.

From all points they've been moving into The Moorings. And what makes it so interesting is that so many professions and businesses are represented in the families that have chosen The Moorings. Out on Windward Way, Dr. and Mrs. Fred Nolte are enjoying their new way of life after living in East Hill, Long Island, for many years. Dr. Nolte, a retired dentist, and his charming wife became permanent resident last October and are enjoying their first winter here.

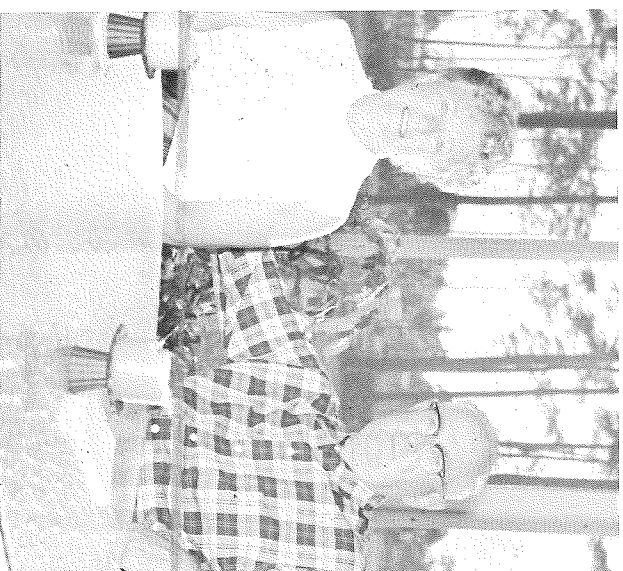

However, there are plenty of young, young people and even the retirees are hearty and active! During the holidays there were a lot of young people about; enjoying The Moorings private beach, the golf course and meeting one another at the club.

Captain and Mrs. Frederick White had an extra special holiday with their two sons visiting them for the first time in their new home. Their son, Philip, who is a student of Alma College in Alma, Michigan, was here. His brother, Frederick III, came all the way from San Diego for the family reunion. Frederick is following the tradition set by his father, who is a retired Naval officer, by taking training in the Navy at San Diego.

Other young people who were here for the holidays were Private Jim Cochrum, who was here from Fort Benning, Ga., where he is taking paratroop training. Linda Cochrum was home from her freshman studies at West Virginia Wesleyan College. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. James Cochrum, Jr., of Putter Place. The Cochrums were also hosts to Mrs. Charlotte Harris, Frenchie Cochrum's mother, who makes her home in Sarasota.

There are a number of Moorings boys attending St. Andrew's Episcopal School for Boys at Boca Raton. They were here for the winter holidays and included Archie and Roderick Maclean, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Maclean, Sr.; Chris Yanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Yanson, and Vince Wood, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Holland T. Salley had their two sons home for the holidays. They are Stephen and Scott and they attend the Asheville School for Boys and Georgia Military Academy, respectively.

Colonel and Mrs. Harvey W. C. Shelton enjoyed a family holiday. Lt. Harvey W. C. Shelton, Jr., was here after his recent graduation from the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colorado. He will be a jet pilot. Son Jay K. was here from Georgia Tech.

Dr. and Mrs. Fred Nolte

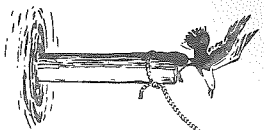

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Wagborne

Congressman Rogers Visits The Moorings

Congressman Paul Rogers visited Naples recently to tell some of his friends and supporters about the state of affairs in the nation's capital. Rogers brought his audience up-to-date on the many bills passed during this last session of Congress, particularly those which affected this area and all of Florida, and his actions to help solve some of the problems, chiefly the Cuban refugee influx that is taxing South Florida to the limits to handle them, and the shortage of off-shore labor allowed in the U.S.A. that threatened the harvesting of vegetable crops. He advocated to Congress the establishing of another port of entry to relieve the strain on Miami, and, with other Florida congressmen, fought for an easing of the limitation of migrant labor brought into this country to harvest crops. Our representative's report was made at The Moorings Country Club, where he was greeted warmly and roundly applauded after his talk.
