Hood River American Legion Post.

Hood River, Ore.

To whom it may concern; Gentlemen (?) of the American Legion Post. I ~~was~~ across an article in one of our servicemen newspaper about your hospitality to the American-Japanese citizens in your country of living there. Gentlemen are you true Americans, or are you two-faced.
You people back there, havin't seen them boys fight. Let me state now that their good fighting soldiers and put everything what they have. I have been fighting with them in Italy and here in France, and seen them give their lives so the American people, can live a free life in our beautiful land called United States, which is occupied by all nationality who came from foreign land, to be good citizens. I wish to state that the ^{and} Americans are Indians and your ancestors came over just like the Japanese to our country, and you have no damn business of kicking them out as its a free country. What are you people doing, trying to knock these men morale, or are you having a racial dispute. Think it over and don't let these men down.

I thought the American Legion was a good organization, but from that article I read I think it stinks a lot. Why don't you join the Jerries and fight against these men, and you'll see how long you'll last. We have enough trouble here while you sit on your can, so don't raise such rumpus, as we would like to finish this hurricane out here and go home also in peace and sit on our can, also, devour that luscious beer and whiskey. I hope this article I have sinks in your sawdust heads, or else have your heads examined as I think you all are crazy. So closing I remain
